WALL ST. LATE FINANCIAL

Today

The President Signs.
Three Arabs Hanged.
Patting the Baby.
An Old Marriage Custom.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

PRESIDENT HOOVER signed the tariff bill yesterday, and now it's law. Secretary Mellon smiled and applauded at the signing. He has large business interests, is a good judge of prosperity and what the tariff will do to us.

You might say to him as bookmakers say to a gentleman betting on a long shot:

"You must know something."

ALL THE growling and tariff wailing and worrying may prove to be unnecessary. We have it and may as well make the best of it.

After all, worse things could happen than compelling American consumers to buy goods produced by American workers and American business men.

THE BRITISH are slow, but get things done. Yesterday, in Palestine, they hanged three Arabs for rioting last August. News spreads slowly in Palestine, no telegrams or radios in the dwellings of the Arabs.

There may be trouble when it becomes generally known that three were hanged, and funerals celebrated with violent mourning.

Black flags flew from Arab buildings yesterday. At the Jewish Agency, it was said yesterday:

"We hope that it may never be necessary again to execute the Arabs for murdering Jews."

WHEN A BABY cries hard, mamma picks it up, pats it on the back, and puts it down, and the baby is happier.

Baby Wall Street has been crying hard for a couple of days. Mamma High Finance yesterday picked it up, patted it on the back, and, at the close it was looking happier. Stocks went up from $1 to $8 a share, and wheat and cotton went up a little also.

IF THE BABY has only a little stomach ache, patting on the back, plus a hot water bottle, puts everything right.

If anything serious is the matter, you need a doctor.

STOMACH ACHE is often caused by overeating. That probably is the trouble with Wall Street.

High finance, finding a gigantic appetite for stocks, with twenty millions gambling, provided more stocks than any Wall Street baby could digest. The load of hundreds of millions of new shares is lying heavily on the little stomach.

However, it is a marvelous baby, and may pull through.

A SOLEMN GERMAN professor, deep in Mohammedan and Jewish marriage lore, says trial marriage is very old.

Mohammed borrowed the idea from the heathen Arabs.

The Talmud tells of Rab, "one of the great early scholars announcing publicly that he sought a wife for the duration of his stay, every time he journeyed to Oarschild."

PERSIAN PRINCES on their travels entered into marriage for a single night. Jochanan, according to the Palestinian Talmud, said, three hundred years before Christ:

"When a man says to a woman, I marry you for thirty days, then is she married to him for thirty days."

You may go a million years farther back than Jochanan, among the monkey tribes or visit the zoological garden today, and you will find the same idea highly developed. It is not what we USED to do, but what we OUGHT to do.

LLOYD GEORGE tells MacDonald, prime minister, that he will co-operate with the Labor party in legislation to solve the unemployment problem.

It will be interesting to see what a man as wise as Lloyd George can do to control the law of supply and demand, which seems to rule us all. Hundreds of thousands are idle. Many are insufficiently supplied with goods that the hundreds of thousands could produce. Raw materials are unlimited. Yet the unemployed cannot be brought in contact with the raw materials, and the public need supplied.

Mysterious finance seems to control, and those that control finance understand it as little as its maker understood his Frankenstein monster.

A LADY OF Westfield, New Jersey, keeps her radio receiver going sixteen hours a day, and writes 1,000 letters a year, telling radio artists how good they are. That seems a little too much radio enthusiasm.

However, it is better than living on the prairie, as thousands of farmers' wives used to do, no telephone, rural delivery, radio, talking machine, many of them going crazy from loneliness.

BANK RUNNER DIES AFTER HOLDUP

Shock Fatal to South Hills Man; Second Suspect Seized, Put Under Grill

John B. Stauff, 37, of 365 Jefferson drive, Mt. Lebanon, is dead today from the shock of being held up and robbed of bank funds, while police have under arrest the second alleged bandit who participated in the robbery.

Stauff, manager of the real estate department of the South Hills Trust Company, died in Passavant Hospital last night after being unconscious most of the time since he had collapsed Monday, in Central Police Station, as he confronted Harry Anderieini, the first suspect captured.

J. B. Stauff.

As Stauff was dying, City Detectives Walter Monaghan and Thomas Morgan arrested Harry Manning, 27, of 1104 Vickroy street, at his home. He at first denied all knowledge of the robbery, but later, when Anderieini was brought in, broke down and confessed his part in the holdup, police report. Manning was identified by Harry French, of 107 Robinson street, who was kidnaped by the two robbers and compelled to drive them from the scene, detectives assert.

Anderieini and Manning were given a partial hearing in Central Police Station before Magistrate Leo Rothenberg today and were held over. French recounted be-

PITTSBURGH AMPHIBIAN AFTER IT NOSE-DIVED INTO RIVER AT POINT TODAY

Pittsburgh Aviation Industries' amphibian in the Ohio River today after it nosed over because the pilot forgot to pull up the wheels so that he could land on the pontoon.

PLANE DIVES INTO RIVER, 2 SAVED

Craft Goes Under Near Point At 75 Miles an Hour; One Flier Injured in Crash

Speeding at 75 miles an hour, an amphibian plane of the Pittsburgh Aviation Industries nose-dived into the Ohio River below the Manchester Bridge this afternoon, carrying a pilot and his companion beneath the surface.

The two—Capt. Cecil G. Sellers, pilot, and Cecil P. Northrup, of Washington, Pa.—were rescued, as they clung to the sinking wings of the plane, by a motorboat crew of the Pittsburgh Speedboat Livery Company, who occupy a houseboat in the Ohio River at the foot of Chateau street.

ONE HURT

Northrup complained of severe pains in his side, and was removed to Mercy Hospital, where he was reported suffering several fractured ribs, contusions and abrasions.

The plane, en route to its home base at the Point from Butler, Pa., was about to make a landing. When about 20 feet above the water, say eye witnesses on the shore, the craft suddenly pointed downward and struck the river with terrific force.

Sellers and Northrup extricated themselves from the cockpits and came to the top.

Responsibility for Grundy Tariff Rests Squarely on G. O. P.

The responsibility for the Grundy tariff for extortion now rests squarely upon the Republican Party.

A Republican Congress passed the measure, a Republican President signs the bills and defends the policy.

In the coming elections the people will express their approval or disapproval of the action of the Republican Party.

It is always well to have an issue clearly presented to the voters, so that they will know how to express their approval or disapproval, and so that their public servants will know exactly for what reasons the approval or disapproval is expressed.

The present tariff measure is not what the Republican Party promised the citizens.

It is not what President Hoover in his campaign speeches pledged himself to secure.

It is not according to the views he outlined to Congress.

It is not what the Senate started out to secure.

The complete change in the attitude of the Republican Party was brought about mainly by the shrewdness and resourcefulness and, shall we say unscrupulousness, of one man—an ex-lobbyist, Joseph R. Grundy, who was appointed to the Senate by the governor of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Grundy had been a lobbyist for many years in the halls of Congress.

He knew human nature. He knew politicians. He knew senators; and apparently he knew something of presidents.

He had worked for the privileged interests in private life, and he continued to work for them in the Senate of the United States.

He appealed to the selfishness of each senator. He showed them how to excuse their vote for the bill by offering some sop of protection to the interests of their particular states and sections.

And so the Congress changed its attitude on the bill, and the President changed his attitude towards the bill; for there was a sop in the bill for the President also, giving him the point he desired.

Thus every politician had his little perquisite; and the Grundy bill, expressing the views of a lobbyist for the privileged interests, became the law of the land.

Will the people approve this tariff for extortion in the next election?

That is difficult to tell. But one thing is certain—they do not approve of Grundy. His own Republican Party repudiated him at the polls in the last senatorial primary in Pennsylvania.

So he will have only his brief senatorial term as appointee of the governor of Pennsylvania.

But that time was long enough to impose upon this country the most oppressive tariff taxation that has ever been enacted.

And it may have been long enough to accomplish some other things of consequence; such, for instance, as the defeat at the next election of the national Republican Party.

U. S. STEEL AT BOTTOM FOR YEAR

Banking Support Merely Serves to Cushion Slump With Unimpressive Rally

NEW YORK, June 18.—(AP.)—Prices of stocks on all important securities markets crumbled away today under a fresh wave of selling at a rate which, if continued, would carry the general level of quotations below the low points of the autumn crash within a day or two.

The swift shrinkage in the quoted values of stocks was halted by what appeared to be powerful banking support, as the session advanced, but it served only to cushion the decline. Pivotal shares were inclined to rally from their bottom levels at times but failed to make headway.

Although bear selling by professional traders was evident in large volume, brokers expressed the opinion it was only a drop in the bucket compared with the wholesale liquidation of holdings by speculators and investors generally. Commission houses reported a steady stream of buying orders from investors attracted by the current low levels, but said their orders were mostly for small lots and evidently represented cautious accumulation by long-term investors.

SERVE TO INTENSIFY GLOOM

The feebleness of the rally yesterday, the continued heaviness of commodity prices and reports of slackening operation by steel mills and automobile manufacturers, served to intensify Wall Street's gloom.

Important bankers still refrained from public comment on the situation, recalling how wide of the mark were most of the optimistic and reassuring statements issued during the autumn crash. It was pointed out, however, that with the major portion of the so-called public participation in the market already eliminated, there was no prospect of another such stampede of selling as was witnessed last fall.

A drop of 2 to 3 cents a bushel in wheat futures, canceling yesterday's gain, and offerings of copper by some custom smelters at 11½ cents, another drop of ¼ of a cent, continued to aggravate the commodity situation. Bankers expressed the opinion no upturn in business could be expected until commodity prices become

CARNEGIE ASKS FREER SUNDAY

The results of the poll to date in Ben Avon Heights, Bradford Woods and Chalfant, three of the smallest boroughs of the county, will be published tomorrow.

Sunday sports and amusements are desired by Carnegie, registering a sentiment overwhelmingly opposed to the Pennsylvania Blue Laws in the poll of Allegheny County voters by the Sun-Telegraph.

The pulse of the voters of this thriving borough is taken from 443 of their number, or more than 21 per cent of the total vote in Carnegie at the recent primary election. They favor repeal of the Blue Laws by a ratio of 6.6 to 1 and divide their ballots in the poll to date as follows:

	Men	Women	Total
For the Blue Laws	38	16	54
For modification	23	8	31
For repeal	213	85	358

Voters from Allegheny County have cast 47,105 ballots in the poll to date and favor repeal, compared to enforcement of the Blue Laws by a ratio of more than 5

HUNT FOR FAZIO AT WHEELING

The search for Philip Fazio for questioning about his charges that politicians of the city and county exacted enormous tribute for protection of his beer "racket," was reported to have turned to Wheeling, W. Va., today.

Fazio uttered his charges against unidentified politicians after being acquitted of the barrel murder of William J. Gregory and then disappeared. He has been reported in Niagara Falls, Atlantic City and other places.

WANTED IN QUIZ

District Attorney Andrew T. Park is determined to bring Fazio back for a rigid inquiry into the accusations. He declared today that county detectives will continue their search for Fazio until he is found.

Asked about the possibility of bringing Fazio back from another state, Park pointed out that Fazio has been held for court under bail

Sandino Reported Nicaragua Victor

MEXICO CITY, June 18.—(AP.)—Gen. Augustino Sandino's representative here issued a statement today saying the insurgent leader had returned to Nicaragua and had defeated the United States Marines in two encounters. The representative, Pedro Jose Zepeda, declared Sandino's men captured a Marine sergeant and an aviator, and 10,000 rounds of ammunition and many guns.

Anna Gould's Former Husband Prostrated

PARIS, June 18.—(AP.)—Count Boni de Castellane, who has been suffering from a nerve trouble for more than a year, is confined to his home in Paris, unable to move about, his friends said today. The count's illness, however, is not regarded as serious. Up to a few weeks ago, the former husband of Anna Gould was able to take short walks.

Ascot Storm Puts King In Peril

ASCOT, England, June 18.—(AP.)—Panic swept the fashionable throngs at the Royal Ascot race meeting today when, as a terrific electrical storm deluged the enclosures, a bolt of lightning killed Walter Holbein, a bookmaker, in Tattersall's betting ring, only a few yards from the King and Queen.

Society women, caught in the rush for shelter, were trampled. Hats were knocked off, parasols lost and some of the women reached the stands without their slippers.

King George and Queen Mary, accompanied by the Prince of Wales and escorted by many of their guests at Windsor Castle, were in the royal box when the storm broke.

Milk Made Army's Drink to Aid Farms

BUDAPEST, June 18.—(AP.)—Hungarian soldiers must drink milk instead of coffee. The ministry of war has so decreed in order to aid farmers.

Clara Bow in Texas to 'Fix' Alienation Suit

DALLAS, Tex., June 18.—(INS.)—Clara Bow, the "It" girl of the movies, slept late at a downtown hotel here today, unperturbed by the furore created by the report that she came to this city three days ago to settle an alienation suit.

The vivacious, titian-haired screen star, discovered "taking a rest" at the hotel under the name of Daisy Hamilton, late yesterday was reported to have admitted the real purpose of her visit here—to settle a $150,000 alienation suit brought against her by the wife of a "nice young married man with no kids."

The identity of the young man was not revealed. According to the story, he and Miss Bow met several months ago on the West Coast, and the friendship ripened until the wife intervened.

Later a $30,000 settlement was agreed upon, but recently was turned down by the wife.

For that reason, the "It" girl is here to "sort of straighten things out."

The young man in question is said to be in Europe. Divorce proceedings instituted by the wife will come up in Los Angeles in August.

U. S. GOLFERS TIE FOR LEAD

HOYLAKE, Eng., June 18.—An American links delegation numbering only eight—small in number, but big in achievement—dominated a field of 112 of the world's best golfers in the first round of the British open championship here today.

Bobby Jones, the greatest shotmaker of all time, seeking to add the British open to the British amateur crown which he captured about three weeks ago, provided the first big thrill when he swept into the lead with a magnificent 70 that equaled the Royal Liverpool course record.

A few hours later, Henry Cotton, young British pro, turned in a 70 to tie Jones for the lead, but he had no more than posted his score than MacDonald Smith, American pro, came in with another 70 to give the United States another hold on the leadership.

Jim Barnes, American pro who formerly held the British open title, carded a 71; Herton Smith a 72; Leo Diegel, American pro champion, and Don Moe, 74 each; George von Elm 81, and F. C. Stevens, Jr., 80.

Judge Cohen's Will Leaves But $5,000—All to Wife

An estate, valued at $5,000 by officials in the office of the Register of Wills, was left to his wife, Carrie Cohen, in the will, offered for probate today, of Judge Josiah Cohen, of Common Pleas Court, who died in his ninetieth year June 11. Mrs. Cohen is named sole executrix.

Judge Cohen had made continual contributions to charities throughout his lifetime. With Mrs. Cohen, he contributed $20,000 last month to the Allied Jewish campaign to be used in aiding Jews throughout the world.

Judge Cohen was the dean of the Pennsylvania judiciary. He had been a judge in the Common Pleas Court of Allegheny County for almost 30 years.

The will in full follows:

"I, Josiah Cohen, of the city of Pittsburgh, being of sound mind and memory and understanding, do hereby make my last will and testament in manner following, hereby revoking all former wills by me at any time heretofore made: I give, devise and bequeath to my beloved wife, Carrie Cohen, her heirs and assigns forever all my property, real, personal and mixed of what nature or kind whatsoever the same shall be at the time of my death. I do hereby nominate and constitute my said wife, Carrie Cohen, as sole executrix of this my last will and testament. I do not wish her to file any inventory of my estate or any account unless ordered to do so by the court, and I desire that she shall not be requested to file any bond whatsoever as such executrix."

Chicago Merchant's Wife Wins Divorce

CHICAGO, June 18.—(AP.)—Mrs. Constance Reed Netcher obtained a divorce today from Irving Netcher, vice president of the Boston Store, on the ground of cruelty. Netcher's brother, Townsend Netcher, recently was married to Constance Talmadge, motion picture actress.

NEW YORK ALARMED As POLICE HUNT MURDER MANIAC

SLAYER OF 2 MARKS NEW VICTIMS

Residents Fear Fate Due to Threatened Third Killing Tonight; Record of Crimes

International News Service

NEW YORK, June 18.—New York felt a new sort of shiver today. Somebody among its 6,000,000 residents was marked for death tonight by a criminally intelligent maniac.

He has killed two already. He has announced he will slay another tonight. And 13 more including a woman after that.

The massacre maniac calls himself Three X.

In letters to the New York Journal relating to his past and prospective murders, he talks of seeking missing documents and being the agent of an international secret order.

PUSH MANIAC HUNT

The police department temporarily has dropped its drive against gangsters and assigned every available man to the hunt for Three X. Two suspects were arrested today.

Both murders by the maniac to date took place in Queen's County under similar circumstances.

Joseph Mozynski was sitting in a parked automobile near Whitestone, June 10. Catherine May was with him. A figure suddenly appeared from the bushes and shot Mozynski to death. The man then politely escorted Miss May to a bus stop.

The body of Noel Sowley, 26-year-old radio salesman, was found last night slumped over the wheel of his automobile on a lonely road in Bellrose, L. I. A bullet hole was found in his head. A newspaper clipping of the Mozynski murder laid on his lap. Over the headline the murderer had scrawled: "Here's how."

Betty Ring, daughter of a policeman, had been in the car with Sowley. The slayer had escorted her to a bus after killing her escort.

SUSPECT EXONERATED

Mozinski, the first victim, was a married man and the father of two children. Miss May was held under $50,000 bail as a material witness. Joseph Mousette, 23, a friend of the girl, was brought back from Chicago for questioning. He was exonerated.

Miss Ring today received a death threat, presumably from the murderer, warning her "not to talk too much."

On her own request, the girl was taken to the county jail for protection.

stabilized. Wheat, cotton and copper now are around the levels of 1914.

Standard Statistics Company estimates that commodity prices in the aggregate have declined 8½ cents in the last 10 months.

By early afternoon a mild rally in stocks developed, and several important shares sold up $1 to $3 from the lowest levels of the forenoon.

American Telephone tumbled $7.50 to a new low for the year at $202, only $6 above the low of November, then rallied more than $3. U. S. Steel dropped $5 to a new low for the year at $155.75, only $5.75 above the minimum of the autumn crash, then rallied about $2. Consolidated Gas and Westinghouse Electric dropped $5 and $8, but rebounded more than $3. General Motors sold off only slightly. Radio declined little more than $2.

CURB ISSUES ALSO SAG

On the curb market a majority of the m oreactive issues tumbled to new low levels for the year, with the selling of utility shares particularly heavy. The ticker fell more than three-quarters of an hour in arrears.

In the investment trust group, United Founders, Goldman Sachs Trading and Transamerica sagged $2 and $3 to new lows for the movement. Cities Service held relatively steady, losing only about $1.

Enforcement	3,912	3,292	7,204
Modification	2,214	1,356	3,570
Repeal	24,632	11,699	36,331

Ballots are now being received from voters of all townships of the county, more than one-half the boroughs and the cities of McKeesport and Duquesne. The poll has now been extended to the remaining city, Clairton, and to the boroughs of Rankin, Rosslyn Farms and Sewickley. Every subdivision of the county will be embraced in the poll within a week, with a daily distribution of more than 5,000 ballots.

HOLDUP FOILED BY DOG

A dog frustrated the holdup of Frank Bernstein, of 747 Excelsior street, Eighteenth Ward business man and political leader, in Millbridge street, near Carnival way, today, police reported.

Two men leaped from an automobile, while an accomplice remained at the wheel, and pointed revolvers at Bernstein. When he attempted to flee they seized him and beat him on the head with their pistols.

Prince, a collie dog, owned by Mrs. Julia Utzler, 59 Millbridge street, witnessed the attack and rushed at the would-be robbers, barking and pulling at their trousers. The holdup men, apparently alarmed at the uproar, fled in their auto.

Nearby residents hurried to Bernstein's aid and removed him to his home. He suffered lacerations of the head. His assailants got nothing.

SAVE TWO MEN IN SEWER SLIDE

Two laborers working on sewer repairs at South Twelfth street and the South Side Market House were buried beneath a ton of falling earth today.

Fifteen feet below the surface of the street, they were rescued by fellow laborers.

One of the victims, Abrina Pasquarelli, 47, of Boundary street, was entombed for three minutes. He suffered from shock and slight bruises. The other victim, Frank B. Ganda, 36, of Cliff street, was only partially buried and escaped uninjured.

It is believed that the rumble of traffic along the street caused the cave-in. Firemen were summoned, but by the time they arrived the two victims had been rescued.

NEXT YEAR TAX CUT UNLIKELY

WASHINGTON, June 18.—(AP.)—Although the government will complete the 1930 fiscal year on June 30 with a surplus, the treasury will refrain from any decision at that time whether the 1 per cent reduction in income taxes granted this year on 1929 incomes can be continued for 1930 incomes.

Estimates were made of a $122,000,000 surplus at the end of the 1931 fiscal year. Since then, however, estimates of farm board expenditures next year have reached $150,000,000 and the new soldiers' pensions bill adds another $75,000,000.

If continued, the tax reduction would reduce government revenues by $160,000,000.

Auto Fumes Fatal To Ex-British Major

GOLDEN, Col., June 18.—(AP.)—William J. H. Nourse, Denver business man, former British army major, whose body was found Sunday in his automobile in the Park of the Red Rocks, near here, died from gas poisoning, a coroner's jury decided. Fumes from the exhaust pipe of the engine were found to have caused death.

Years ago Nourse led an expeditionary force for the relief of Khartum, Egypt, in which Gen. Charles G. Gordon was besieged by savage tribesmen. The besieged troops perished before Nourse arrived.

BROCK, SCHLEE BACK AFTER RECORD HOP

Cross Finish Line in 16 Hours 44 Minutes Returning To Florida From Pacific

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 18.—(AP.)—William S. Brock and Edward F. Schlee, transcontinental fliers, arrived over the Jacksonville municipal airport at 1:55 p. m., Pittsburgh time, and headed at once for Jacksonville Beach, the finish of their round-trip to and from San Diego, Cal.

At the beach it made a circle, flew over the finish line, and then went back to the municipal airport to land. The tide was too high for a beach landing.

The aviators appeared at the airport 16 hours and 44 minutes after they took off from San Diego last night.

BREAK RECORD

SAN DIEGO, Cal., June 18.—(AP.)—Having achieved a new air record in their flight here from Jacksonville, Fla., William S. Brock and Edward F. Schlee had hoped to reach the Florida seaport within 30 hours of their takeoff yesterday.

The fliers left Jacksonville at 6:04 a. m. (Pittsburgh time) yesterday and arrived here 13 hours, 55 minutes and 30 seconds later, seven hours less than the record established in 1922 by Lieut. James H. Doolittle.

165 MILES AN HOUR

The 2,112-mile flight was made at an average of 165 miles an hour.

With their plane refueled and checked, Brock and Schlee began the Eastern leg of their trip at 9:11 p. m., (Pittsburgh time) yesterday.

Eating while their plane was being refueled, the aviators said they expected to make the Eastern leg of their dash faster than the flight Westward.

The record for the San Diego-Jacksonville flight was 19 hours and 10 minutes, established in 1919 by Maj. T. C. MacCauley.

Dry and Anti Win In Congress Race

NEWARK, N. J., June 18.—(AP.)—Both an anti-dry and a dry apparently won congressional nominations in New Jersey's primary yesterday in the only two of six contests in which prohibition was an issue. On the basis of incomplete return, Representative Ernest R. Ackerman, a dry, defeated Wesley A. Stanger, anti-dry, while Peter A. Cavicchia, anti-dry, apparently won the Republican nomination over Joseph C. Cassini, anti-dry, and Meadow Wright, a dry. Cavicchia, if elected, will succeed Representative Franklin W. Fort.

AID RUSHED IN BOAT

At the foot of Chateau street, from their houseboat, a group of men saw the plane dive. Three of them, Frank Bartnicke, Aaron Wells and Harry Tehede, leaped into a motorboat and sped to the scene.

They picked up Sellers and Northrup as they were churning in the water, while clinging to the sides of the plane. Northrup said, as he lay on a stretcher in the hospital:

"We were just landing. I believe the accident resulted when Sellers attempted to make a landing and could not get the wheels of the land gear up. The next thing I knew the ship knifed through the water. Both Sellers and I were under water. We broke the side windows and crawled up on the plane frame."

Sellers said:

"It was just my dumbness. I forgot to put the wheels up. This caused the plane to tilt on its nose."

A crane on a barge operated by a towboat was used to raise the amphibian. All of it except part of one wing and the tail was submerged.

CITY ENTERS WAR ON RATES

The City of Pittsburgh today officially enters the drive to amend freight rates that discriminate against the industries of this district.

City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt is sending to the Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington a petition of intervention that will enable him to take action.

He has ordered prepared a similar petition that will put the city in the "front line trenches" when the Public Service Commission considers intra-state freight rates in September.

UNANIMOUS APPROVAL

His intervention was ordered by a councilmanic resolution, introduced Monday by W. Y. English and unanimously approved.

The question of retaining special counsel in the case has been held over, Waldschmidt declared.

The special case in which the city asks permission from the commission to intervene is that of the Western Pennsylvania Coal Traffic Bureau against the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, now being heard.

In an affidavit, forwarded with the petition to George B. McGinty, secretary of the commission in Washington, Waldschmidt explained the delay is due to the time required to procure official action from Council.

Official in Jail Sued Over Graft

NEW YORK, June 18.—(AP.)—Maurice B. Connolly, former borough president of Queens now serving a year in jail for conspiracy to defraud that borough, was sued by the city of New York in an attempt to recover money it alleges the taxpayers lost because of sewer graft. The suit demands that Connolly and other defendants pay $179,086, plus interest from 1925.

RAIL RATES STUDIED AT INQUIRY

Operating Costs Made Issue by Northern Mines At Lake Cargo Hearing

WASHINGTON, June 18.—(AP.)—Studies of railroad operating costs applying on coal transportation to the Great Lakes were presented to the Interstate Commerce Commission today by Ohio and Pennsylvania mine operators seeking to have the rate adjustment altered in their favor.

C. B. Ackerman, an expert in railroad accounting and operating methods, testified to most of the data recorded.

BASIS OF COMPLAINT

From his calculations on cost of movement and conditions of operation in the Lake Cargo traffic, the northern mine owners expect to draw the conclusions on which they will ask the better rates on their products.

Testimony in opposition to that of northern producers will be introduced in behalf of their opponents in the controversy, who are largely coal mine operators of West Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee.

The testimony was highly technical. A score of other witnesses for the Western Pennsylvania Coal Traffic Bureau and the Ohio-Lake Cargo Rate Committee, complainants in the case, were unable to take the stand.

At adjournment there was before the group a mass of evidence introduced by C. B. Ackerman, of Chicago, presenting a voluminous comparison of freight rates on a variety of commodities in every section of the country.

COMPARATIVE TABLE

Ackerman's purpose, he explained, was to provide the commission with a comparative table which would disclose an obligation to revamp the coal tariffs and make them conform with freight rates on other commodities.

W. E. Tytus, president of the Sunday Creek Coal Company of Ohio, declared coal companies in Southern Ohio were taking a loss on every ton of coal sold in the lake cargo trade.

BLAMES LABOR FIRST

He testified the Ohio mines lost their position in the market through labor difficulties prior to 1927. When he and his associates tried to regain lake trade, Tytus testified, competition had become so severe that it became necessary to suffer a loss "to hold what remains of this market until conditions improve."

He blamed the present condition of his business on the freight rate differential which is 38 cents a ton less than the southern rate. This difference he told the examiner, was not a sufficient protection.

H. L. Findlay, vice president of the Youghiogheny and Ohio Coal Company, of Cleveland, said he hoped the commission would readjust rates and "close this controversy once and for all."

HUNT FOR FAZIO AT WHEELING

on illegal liquor charges and that he may be extradited if he is indicted by the grand jury and fails to appear for trial.

The grand jury will not meet until September.

Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington announced that he is ready to launch a searching investigation if he is given "the slightest evidence" that Fazio paid politicians graft for protection in his beer racket.

PENNINGTON TO ACT

Of the charges, Pennington said:

"If the slightest evidence is placed in my hands from the attorney for Fazio or from Fazio justifying the story of Fazio's having paid large amounts for graft protection, a searching investigation will be made of every phase of the allegations.

Flying Circus Ace Again Delayed in Flight Start

Held on the ground at Valley Stream airport headquarters of the Curtiss-Wright Aeronautical Corporation on Long Island yesterday, "Red" Jackson, pilot of the Mystery ship, and six other stunt planes in the air circus coming to Bettis Airport, were again delayed in startin, for Pittsburgh today. Heavy fog prevented start of the flight. They will take off as soon as the weather clears.

Jackson is attempting to set a new record for flight between New York and this city in the Mystery ship, reputed to be the fastest commercial plane in the world.

Part of the air circus already has arrived overland. Two trucks, one bearing a biplane glider which will participate in the stunting at Bettis Airport Saturday and Sunday, and the other an enormous radio public address system which will keep the crowd advised of what is taking place, arrived last night.

The biplane will be set up at the airport today and tomorrow, probably being ready for a test flight by Friday, according to airport attaches.

One of the members of the stunt team is a famous woman pilot, Miss Frances Harrell, who has distinguished herself as a transport pilot, and was one of the entrants last year in the "powder puff" derby at the national air races.

Other members of the exhibition team include the Three Flying Sons-of-guns—Red Jackson, Leo Allen and Charles McElroy—Capt. Harry Norris and several other pilots of ability.

Now It's Official—Parents To Blame for Crime

WASHINGTON, June 18.—(INS.)—Representative McKeown (Dem.), of Oklahoma, has the following explanation of the wave of lawlessness sweeping over the country, which appeared in today's Congressional Record:

"If the children were taught in the home to respect the law we would not have the situation existing today. The trouble is that everybody is living in automobiles today. Parents are not interested in inculcating respect for law in their children, or will not take the time to train them. And we do not have the good old-fashioned religious teaching today that our mothers gave us when we were young."

Representative O'Connell (Dem.), of New York, suggested that disrespect for law was due to the fact that "grandmother, mother and daughter smoke cigarets together these days."

McKeown agreed that this might be so, and Representative Boylan (Dem.), of New York, wanted to know whether it would not be better for parents to train children properly than for Congress constantly passing new laws creating new crimes to be committed.

HURL WARNING INTO STORE

A note of warning attached to a brick was hurled through the window of Harry Baver's confectionery store at 2228 Tustin street. It was thrown by one of several men in an automobile whom Baver saw speed away, he told police. The note said:

"We got it in for you and we mean business. Suit yourself."

Baver told police he was at a loss to understand the note. He closed his store and police began an investigation.

FAIL TO HALT NUISANCE

When is a verdict not a verdict and why is the Superior Lubricating plant still a nuisance to Sharpsburg?

This query is bothering borough councilmen, who have turned to their solicitor, Edward A. Kraus, Jr., for an answer.

The lubricating plant was adjudged a nuisance four months ago in criminal proceedings brought by Patrick Dolan, a citizen, but the proprietors, J. H. and A. F. Rieder, have not been sentenced.

Borough Solicitor Kraus was instructed at this week's council meeting to take legal steps to abate the nuisance and to inquire into the failure of Judge Reid to pass sentence upon the proprietors.

State Inspectors To Fly Planes East

Pennsylvania's two inspectors of aeronautics, Larry Fauro of Pittsburgh, and George J. Bortle, of Harrisburg, were to fly east today with two new cabin monoplanes which are being purchased by the commonwealth for the inspectors.

The ships, en route through from the factory at Detroit, stopped yesterday at the Pittsburgh-Butler airport to await more favorable weather.

Ex-Fiancee's Slayer Sentenced to Hang

EUREKA, Cal., June 18.—(AP)—Clarence L. King today faced death on the San Quentin gallows, September 12, for the slaying of Mrs. Minnie McCoy, his former sweetheart.

He showed no emotion when sentence was pronounced, but his attorney says he will appeal.

JOHNSON ON AIR IN PACT FIGHT

WASHINGTON, June 18.—(Universal)—Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, leader of the battle against ratification of the London naval treaty, will carry his fight to the people of the nation tonight.

Speaking over a Columbia Broadcasting System chain at 10:30 p. m. eastern daylight time, the Californian will make a direct reply to Secretary of State Stimson, who, in a radio speech last week, praised the pact and bitterly assailed those papers and individuals who have pointed out its disadvantages to the United States.

The inequalities of the treaty as they relate to this country's cruiser needs will be particularly stressed by the Californian. At the same time the Senator is expected to pay high tribute to the naval officers, who, braving possible reprisals, appeared before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and pointed out how the United States could not have an adequate naval defense under the terms of the pact.

Hays to Seek Lifting Of German Film Ban

PARIS, June 18.—(INS)—Will Hays, American motion picture czar, was here today for conferences with American and German film representatives, which will have an important bearing on the future of sound and talking pictures.

Technical and involved questions of patent rights will be taken up. The latter question has been largely responsible for keeping American sound films out of the German market for nearly a year.

Endurance Fliers Aloft 158 Hours

CHICAGO, June 18.—(AP)—The refueling endurance flight plane, City of Chicago, had been aloft 158 hours at 7 a. m. today. The plane, piloted by two brothers, John and Kenneth Hunter, is attempting to surpass the record of 420 hours, set last year by the St. Louis Robin.

Jetta Goudal, Film Star, in Sanitarium

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 18.—(INS)—Not for a week or more will Jetta Goudal, motion picture star, be able to return home from the sanitarium where she is recuperating from a nervous breakdown, attendants said today. She is doing nicely, it was reported.

New York to Greet Byrd As Conqueror Tomorrow

NEW YORK, June 18.—(AP)—Returning home after 18 months of exploration in the Antarctic, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd and the members of his expedition will be received as conquering heroes by the City of New York tomorrow.

Expectations were that the city's welcome would surpass all receptions here since that accorded Col. Charles A. Lindbergh upon his return from his flight to Paris.

A marine parade up the harbor, a salute of 13 guns from Governor's Island and a guard of honor including troops for a procession up Broadway, have been arranged.

First greetings to the returning explorers will be extended from a big Navy amphibian plane carrying former Gov. Harry F. Byrd, of Virginia, brother of the commander, and officials of that state. It was planned to circle over the two Byrd ships, the City of New York and the Eleanor Bolling, as they approached Quarantine.

Admiral Byrd's wife, children and mother were expected to go down to Quarantine on the municipal tug Macom with members of the city's official welcome committee, which will be headed by Grover A. Whalen.

MOTHER FREED IN STRANGLING CHILDREN

Jury of 12 Women Brings In Directed Verdict; Held Insane at Time

A jury of 12 women, in Criminal Court today, found Mrs. Catherine Ward, 25, of 7314 Hamilton avenue, not guilty by reason of insanity, on a technical charge of strangling her two small children to death March 8, 1928. The verdict was directed by visiting Judge M. Ward Fleming of Center County.

Immediately following the verdict a hearing on Mrs. Ward's sanity resulted in her being found sane and she was ordered discharged.

INSANE AT TIME

Mrs. Ward found insane at the time she strangled William D. Ward Jr., 2, and Dorothy Mae Ward, 7 months, has been in the Dixmont Hospital for the Insane for more than two years. Physicians at the hospital, realizing that she had now regained her sanity, arranged to have the double murder charge brought against her in order that she might be formally acquitted.

Assistant District Attorney John F. Haggerty, for the prosecution, and A. M. Oliver, for the defense, took turns this morning in challenging every man on the jury panel until an all-woman jury had been selected.

The trial was carried through in every detail as if it had been one for first degree murder. Drs. C. C. Wholey and C. H. Henniger, who examined Mrs. Ward at the time of her children's death and also a short time afterward, testified that she was insane at the time and then the judge directed the verdict of not guilty.

SANITY TEST HELD

But this action left Mrs. Ward still insane in the eyes of the court and so an immediate hearing was held to inquire into her mental status now. The two doctors who had found her insane two years ago, together with Dr. J. B. Kartub, of Dixmont, testified that they had recently examined Mrs. Ward and that she is now sane.

The 12 women who composed the jury were Mrs. Margaret Kartlick, of 3001 East street, forewoman; Mrs. Loraine Cox, of 419 North avenue, Millvale; Mrs. Edith Layton, of 408 Pine street, McKeesport; Mrs. Katherine Ranigan, of 7119 Michigan avenue, Swissvale; Mrs. Catherine Hamilton, of 3501 Forbes street; Mrs. Esther Toth, of 401 Whigam street, McKeesport; Mrs. Leo Yarbrough, of 2810 Vera street; Mrs. Susanna Kribel, of 2126 Lautner street; Mrs. Margaret D. Orr, of Butler road, Springdale; Mrs. Eleanor C. Edmundson, of 607 Thirteenth street; Mrs. Bertha Covert, of 125 Frankfort avenue, West View, and Mrs. Lillian Buffington, Box 142, North Fayette Township.

Gas Defeats Woman In Police Gun Battle

CHICAGO, June 18.—(INS)—Mrs. Walter Zarnecki, 39, was in custody of police today following a revolver battle last night with a score of policemen, in which she used her 8-year-old daughter as a shield. Tear gas subdued her. When officers arrived to serve a warrant Mrs. Zarnecki shot, for more than an hour keeping police squads off.

MODERN BOAT LAUNCHED HERE

With many industrial and river leaders among 500 spectators lining the Neville Island bank of the Ohio River, the first of four modern towboats, Ohio of St. Louis was launched at the Dravo Contracting Company yards yesterday.

Christened by Mrs. Carl Baer, wife of the vice president of the Mississippi Valley Barge Line Company of St. Louis for whom at was built, the towboat slid down the ways as whistles of nearby plants and boats serenaded. The boat was a twin-screw tunnel towboat, 200 feet long with 40-foot width and 11-foot depth. It will be used between Cincinnati and New Orleans.

Among officials present were L. W. Cheldress, president of the barge line; Frank R. Dravo, president of the Dravo company. Among guests at a luncheon that followed the launching were Congressman Victor Heintz, of Cincinnati; Councilmen W. Y. English, John S. Herron and Robert Garland. More than a score of other prominent leaders were guests.

TARIFF RATES IN EFFECT

WASHINGTON, June 18.—(INS)—When customs houses at all American ports of entry opened this morning, collectors placed into operation the schedules and administrative features of the tariff act of 1930. The new rates, signed by President Hoover yesterday, became law at 12:01 a. m. today.

Although the new law was put into effect, its opponents did not cease their tactics of harassing the administration. The Senate was faced with a resolution by Senator Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, opponent of the measure, designed to test the flexible provisions which were so highly praised in a statement by President Hoover when he said that he would sign the bill.

Borah's resolution would direct the Tariff Commission to investigate differences in the cost of production between foreign and domestic shoes, cement, furniture, hose and certain farm implements. Indications pointed to its passage.

Weather Conditions.

The weather is still unsettled over the Upper Ohio Valley states and eastward to the coast. The lowest barometer, 29.86 inches, is at Buffalo. Another disturbance extends southward over the eastern slope of the Rocky Mountains to New Mexico. The rainfall for the last 24 hours was mostly light, limited to the far West and to the eastern states. Temperatures are not greatly normal, with little change indicated for the next few days.

River Conditions.

The rivers are stationary or rising slightly. Gage at Franklin is 3.1 feet. Lock No. 7, 11.0; Pittsburgh, 11.5; Dam No. 6, 8.5; Dam No. 8, 8.7; Dam No. 9, 11.4; and Dam No. 12, 3.8. The rivers are up.

Aviation Bulletin.

Skies are overcast this morning, nearly everywhere east of the Mississippi, and rain is falling at scattered places in Ohio and Indiana. Over the mountains and eastward the ceiling is only 100 to 1,000 feet. Northern Indiana, 200 to 500 feet; Western Pennsylvania and Ohio from 2,500 to 5,000 feet.

Visibility is one-fourth mile over the mountains and one mile over Northern Indiana. Elsewhere it ranges from three to eight miles. Wind is light, mostly from the southwest.

HOOVER BACKS MORROW

WASHINGTON, June 18.—(AP)—Confidence that Ambassador Morrow would be the next senator from New Jersey was expressed at the White House today on behalf of President Hoover.

"The White House will give every possible support to the Republican nominee for the Senate from New Jersey," the statement said. "The President and the administration have every confidence that Mr. Dwight Morrow will be the next senator from New Jersey."

It was emphasized that this was the only comment which would be forthcoming from the White House on the results of the primary which nominated Mr. Morrow.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—(INS)—As the aftermath of an automobile ride with Fred Pettit, father of five children, Miss Mildred Sloper, of Antioch Chapel, Va., was dead today, and the wife of Pettit was in a serious condition from a suicide attempt. Pettit, Joseph A. Mills, Jr., and John Harper are charged with contributing to the girl's delinquency.

She was burned fatally in the car which caught fire at a filling station at Merrifield, Va.

SENATE RACE RUNAWAY VICTORY

Overwhelming Vote Gives Ambassador Record Total In New Jersey Contest

By GEORGE R. HOLMES,
International News Service.

NEWARK, N. J., June 18.—A veritable tidal wave of anti-prohibition sentiment rolled through Jersey today, carrying on its foaming crest the perhaps fateful political figure of Dwight W. Morrow.

By a margin almost unbelievably large and upon the single issue of opposing prohibition, Ambassador Morrow has won the Republican senatorial nomination hands down.

He carried yesterday's primary by landslide proportions, decisively defeating three other candidates: Congressman Franklin W. Fort, bone dry, backed desperately by the Anti-Saloon League; ex-Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, a recent convert to the anti-dry cause, and John A. Kelly, a little-known candidate, who was the wettest of all.

UNPRECEDENTED SCORE

With returns still coming in this morning it appeared that Morrow's victory would be in excess of 200,000 votes, which is unprecedented in Jersey primaries. Fort was running a very poor second, closely pursued by Frelinghuysen.

With only 7 districts missing, or of the 3,304 in the state, the vote this morning stood:

Morrow	188,936
Fort	111,467
Frelinghuysen	44,417

In November Ambassador Morrow will be opposed by Alexander Simpson, anti-dry Democrat, who was unopposed for his party nomination.

Thus the anti-dry victory in New Jersey is complete. Often cited as "wettest state in the Union," Jersey confirmed the designation in yesterday's primary in stentorian tones. The Democrats of the state always have been anti-dry, and now the Republicans have joined them.

URGED FOR PRESIDENCY

Inevitably, the effect of Morrow's smashing victory will be felt politically far beyond New Jersey.

During the hectic campaign that preceded yesterday's vote, and much to the Ambassador's embarrassment, his enthusiastic friends were nominating him for the presidency. Probably such talk now will be accentuated.

At any rate, whether he likes it or not, the monumental proportions of his victory automatically send Ambassador Morrow to the forefront of the anti-prohibition movement.

CLEAR CUT ISSUE

The issue in Jersey was clear-cut. In his campaigning over the state, Ambassador Morrow talked of but two things—Prohibition and the London navy treaty, which he helped to frame. On prohibition he took the position that the Eighteenth amendment should be repealed, and in its stead an amendment enacted which would restore to the states the power to deal with the control of liquor.

Because of an unusual situation created by Senator Baird's resignation, Ambassador Morrow will oppose two Democratic nominees for election in November.

There is a vacancy existing in the regular term extending from November until March. For this short term the Democrats yesterday nominated Miss Thelma Parkinson, a social worker. She was unopposed, as Simpson was, for the long term.

Morrow stood for both terms.

Mayor, Capone Aide, Gets Prison Term

CHICAGO, June 18.—(INS.)—Anton Rench, mayor of Stickney and alleged protege of "Scarface" Al Capone, today faces a year's confinement in the Grundy County Jail at Morris in addition to a fine of $1,000 assessed on him yesterday when sentenced for prohibition violation.

Rench's wife, Erna, was fined $500 and his bartender, James Sindelar, was fined $500 for selling liquor and was sentenced to three months in the Kane County Jail at Geneva.

Community Church Plan Rejected in Sheraden

The proposal to create a community church in Sheraden, consisting of Presbyterians, United Presbyterians and Disciples of Christ under jurisdiction of the Pittsburgh presbytery, was unanimously rejected last night at a congregational meeting of the Disciples group.

A federated church of the three groups in which each retained its identity and its separate church administration, was formed a year ago. The tabernacle of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, Allendale avenue, was leased as a place of worship. The Rev. J. M. Briceland, Presbyterian, was called as minister.

On Easter Sunday the Rev. Mr. Briceland was immersed, stating that if called on to immerse others he, too, should be baptized in that manner.

On June 1 a joint meeting of the three church boards was held to determine the policy of the federation for another year. Many urged that the federation had not resulted in increased attendance and that the enterprise should be conducted hereafter under denominational direction. A plan was drawn up to create a community church in Sheraden under the Pittsburgh Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church.

This proposal was rejected at a meeting of the Disciples congregation last night. A special meeting was called to be held Sunday afternoon, June 29, in the Christian Church building, Sheraden, when plans for future work will be discussed.

In the federated church the United Presbyterians had about 300 members, the Presbyterians 600, and the Disciples 125 members.

HUMES STATEMENT

Maj. E. Lowry Humes, counsel for the Clinton Brick Company, chief complainant in the case, made the following summary to be read into the record:

"We insist that the Highway Department adhere to its standard specifications which place both wire-cut lug fire clay brick and wire-cut clay brick with lug on equal footing and discontinue the use of the monopolistic and limited specifications used on the Ardmore boulevard letting.

"The open specifications which we are asking for assure the state of lower competitive prices than the state can secure under the limited specifications, and the state should profit by the experience of Allegheny County, which used the same limited specifications on the Ohio River boulevard and was penalized to the extent of approximately $57,000 by the elimination of competition on the fire clay brick used in that contract."

FACE DAMAGES IN XY PLAN

Representatives of public utilities companies served notice on City Council today that they expect to be reimbursed for any damages that may arise from the Pennsylvania Railroad terminal construction.

The warning was given at the final hearing on the ordinance authorizing the so-called X Y Plan for the betterment of Penn and Liberty avenues and Seventeenth street.

Frank S. Phillips, representing the Pittsburgh Railways Company, Duquesne Light Company and Equitable Gas Company, said it would cost the group $725,000 to relocate its facilities as would be necessary under the X Y plan. If, later, the plan should be put into effect, he said, the bill would be $400,000 higher.

James [illegible], attorney of the Bell Telephone Company, said it would cost his company $100,000 to remove its conduits.

Phillips said he wanted to make it plain that he did not oppose the ordinance but merely desired to call attention to the consequences that would follow from its enactment.

SETS FORTH CLAIM

Any financial burden the companies might have to assume he warned would eventually be shifted to the street car riders and users of light and power, Phillips said.

"The cost may be so great that it will be impossible for the railways company to maintain its present service.

"We will be willing to settle these claims on a reasonable basis, but if necessary we will fight for them. I merely want Council to know our attitude."

Edwin W. Smith, counsel for the railways company, pointed out that the improvements would necessitate the closing of the Seventeenth street incline and declared neither the city nor the Pennsylvania Railroad had the right to do this.

City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt answered that was for the Public Service Commission and the courts to decide.

Councilman W. Y. English read a clause in the agreement between the city and the Pennsylvania Railroad, in which the latter agreed to reimburse the city in case public utilities companies got judgments for damages. Smith expressed doubt that the public utilities would be able to collect under that clause.

EASEMENTS NOT GIVEN

L. W. Montevercle, head of the City Planning Department, said: "I regret very much that the railroad company has not recognized the necessity of giving the city easements for the Twelfth street viaduct."

Charles M. Reppert, chief engineer of the Department of Public Works, said the "X Y Plan" made provision for the more expensive improvements contemplated in the "Z Plan," which had been rejected as too costly. The city, he said, would acquire all the land necessary if it should be desired later to place traffic on two levels through ramps.

Sitting as a committee of the whole, Council considered the ordinance this afternoon. Indications were it would be passed unanimously at a special meeting Friday.

RIVERS FIGHT EXTENDS TERM

WASHINGTON, June 18 (INS).—The date for adjourning the first regular session of the Hoover Congress was postponed indefinitely today due to a Senate battle over the $136,000,000 rivers and harbors bill and a deadlock between House and Senate on the District of Columbia appropriation bill.

The waterways row found senators from the upper lake states battling to limit the amount of water to be drawn from Lake Michigan for use in the Illinois waterway. The Illinois senators were fighting to prevent any limitation. Both sides threatened filibusters.

The House set aside the $66,000,000 second deficiency bill temporarily (tentatively) will resume consideration tomorrow with passage slated before the day is over.

Approval of the $29,000,000 public buildings bill, $250,000 for the Wickersham Law Enforcement Commission and $10,660,000 to start work on the Boulder Dam project seemed assured.

Tarantula Hides In Bananas, Captured

While John Miller, employed at the Diamond fruit market, 119 East Eighth avenue, Homestead, was unloading bananas from a truck, a tarantula fell on his neck. Miller did not feel the venemous spider, but a fellow employe noticed it and brushed it off. They captured it alive and placed it in a glass jar.

The tarantula is one of the largest ever seen by fruit dealers of Homestead. The bananas were shipped from Jamaica.

1 VICTIM IN LAKE MYSTERY FOUND

TOLEDO, O., June 18 (AP).—The finding of clothing and the body of John Lipiack, one of eight Toledoans lost in Lake Erie, strengthened the belief today that all the men are dead.

The manner of their death remained as much a mystery as when their speedboat was found Sunday floating upright in the lake near West Sister Island.

Girl, Chinese Held By East End Police

East End police today were holding Hazel Roberts, 22, of 4508 Liberty avenue, and Harry Yee, 46, Chinese, of 6006 Houston street, as suspicious persons. Officers say they saw the girl enter Yee's laundry and later found the doors locked. Policeman Michael Connelly alleges he caught the girl as she was leaving by a rear door.

MAN HERE ASKS DROWNING QUIZ

CLEVELAND, O., June 18 (AP).—Police inquiry into the reported drowning of three youths in the capsizing of a small boat in Lake Erie off the mouth of the Chagrin River early last Saturday was opened by Safety Director Barry upon the request of William H. Brown, Dormont, Pa., father of William Brown, one of the supposed victims.

The elder Brown hinted he believed some or all of the reported victims might still be alive.

Taxi Cab Battle Causes $10 Fine

Harry Thomas, 37, a former taxi driver, of 372 Atwood street, was fined $10 on a disorderly conduct charge by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg today. Thomas is said to have leaped onto the running board of a cab at Sixth and Liberty avenues last evening and slugged the driver, Michael Underko, 28, of 5905 Ripley street. Thomas told the Magistrate he was almost run over by Underko's cab.

Gold Star Mothers' Ship Pulled Off Reef

NEW YORK, June 18 (AP).—The liner President Roosevelt of the United States Lines went aground in the mud and silt of Robbins Reef in New York Harbor this morning, but tugs pulled her loose in less than two hours and she continued to her pier. On board were 252 gold star mothers, mostly from the Pacific coast, returning from a pilgrimage to the battlefields of France.

Church Bells Hit By Lightning; 9 Killed

BUCHAREST, Rumania, June 18 (AP).—A dispatch from Schoarch, Transylvania, today said that three persons were killed and six fatally injured when lightning struck the tolling bells of a church sheltering a crowd in a terrific storm.

Three peasants, frightened by the storm, climbed to the church belfry and swung the bells in signal to the crowd to pray. They were killed.

The church caught fire and six died of burns received.

BRITAIN PASSES FINANCE BILL

LONDON, June 18.—(AP).—The House of Commons shortly after noon today passed the chancellor's finance bill by a vote of 222 to 86 and adjourned after a session that had lasted for more than 22 hours.

The House battled all night long, sometimes bitterly over the bill.

Exchanges between Winston Churchill, former conservative chancellor of the exchequer, and Philip Snowden, a clause of whose present bill was in the balance, were frequent.

JUDGE TO RULE ON CONTEMPT

Judge Thomas J. Ford was expected to decide late today whether James F. Richards, former Wilmerding tax collector, is in contempt of court because of his testimony in the Wilmerding election contest.

Richards testified today before a commission in accordance with a ruling by Judge Ford that he be given one more chance to refresh his memory.

Richards previously had said he did not remember testimony given by him before Judge Ford last January regarding a list of names on which he issued tax receipts. Today he testified the names had been given to him orally and he did not remember them. Richards is contesting the election of C. R. Shiring as tax collector.

Child's Visit Reveals Grandmother's Death

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., June 18. — Mrs. Mary Kiesling, 74, was found dead in her home in Wurtemburg when her young granddaughter, Ruth, came to visit her. The aged woman met death through asphyxiation. Windows of the rooms were closed and three gas jets turned on. When the child arrived to visit her grandmother she found the door locked and summoned neighbors.

BERRY AN ARTIST

"Butch" ... a man of the ... ugly, hard, ruthless, respecting no one but criminals and no criminals but killers. As played by Wallace Beery, "Butch" is the greatest characterization of the screen. Beery has himself way down into the very inner depths of "Butch." There be remarkable. To the end. It is the work of one of the world's greatest artists.

"Butch" can neither read nor write. A moment of tenderness comes with the death of ... mother in an ... house. "Butch" was the true whelp of such a mother, a ... fiend. When the "cops" arrested her son she fought them and bit off the finger of one. This was apparently "Butch's" only recollection of his mother. He told this incident joyously, gloatingly. No wonder "Butch" was the leader of the gang, the strongest man in prison, the man of power, the desperate, doomed soul. His spirit controlled the prison.

Always "Butch" plotted to escape. One day while hymns were being sung, "Butch" was planning, plotting, and while prayers were being said, guns flashed fiercely, as they flashed at the outbreak at Folsom Penitentiary.

FLOWERS AS SIGNAL

The signal for the outbreak was a bouquet of flowers being passed through the gate. Then came the furious rush of "Butch" and his men, the onslaught of the guards, followed by defeat and death for "Butch" and his followers, "Butch" the victim of his own valor.

Morgan plays a valiant part in the outbreak, saves the prisoners and the state, is released and joins his sweetheart to start life anew. The love episode in the play is delicately and beautifully done.

"Big House" is a great drama, a remarkably true picture, not only of the prisons in California, but of all other prisons. Nothing that is important is omitted. While nervously wrought up by seeing this film, I rejoiced that at last there was an opportunity for every man, woman and child to learn what prisons do to the youth of America.

TRUTH ABOUT PRISONS

It shows that the state in its ignorance sends young men for their first offense to the "Big House" to be reformed, to be made into law abiding, useful citizens. It is the reverse of this that happens. The young men are equipped not for citizenship, but for burglary, robbery and murder. The state turns them out either broken in spirit or desperate, and in most cases confirmed criminals.

I now have great hope. The result of this presentation to the American public will, I believe, do more good than all of the influences that have been at work on this problem for a hundred years.

I prophesy that changes will come quickly when all of the people of this great nation know the truth about prisons. I am even optimistic enough to believe that the "Big House" may turn out to be another "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

Women would like to know

"How do they make the perfected loaf?"

WHEN women are told that Mother Hubbard Bread is perfected bread, they want to know just what that means and how it is made.

It means perfection in every step of making the loaf:

First: The most perfect bread ingredients. The world's finest wheat flour, the very best for flavor, taste and nourishment. First grade, rich milk. Table-quality granulated sugar. Purest salt. The finest shortening and yeast obtainable.

Second: These perfect ingredients are then blended and perfectly mixed with the most careful supervision.

Third: The raising of the dough is of the greatest importance. Here controlled temperature and scientific timing have been brought to the highest degree of perfection.

Fourth: The baking—neither too fast nor too slow. It is highly important in making the perfected loaf that it be perfectly baked for just exactly the right length of time.

Mother Hubbard Bread, the perfected loaf, is the result of the perfected process of bread baking. You will find it perfect for crust, for texture, for slicing, for taste, for toasting—perfect on every point by which you judge bread.

Get a loaf of Mother Hubbard, the perfected bread, at your dealer's today.

THERE is a prestige in the possession of beautiful jewelry that can not be had by any other means. Jewelry, although certain pieces are within the reach of every pocketbook, connotes wealth. Certainly a gift of jewelry indicates a deep affection on the part of the donor. For the groom's gift to his bride, we can suggest nothing more appropriate than jewelry. The most timely gift suggestions are always found in the advertisements of Pittsburgh's leading jewelers in the Sun-Telegraph.

HOLDUP SHOCK KILLS RUNNER

ing stopped with his car by Anderieni, who leaped into the machine with a package under his arm. They were joined a moment later by Manning, he said. Motorcycle Patrolman Leroy Gibson, who gave chase, also identified the two accused men.

Coroner W. J. McGregor ordered an autopsy to determine if Stauff's death could be ascribed directly to the shock of being held up.

Friends said Stauff had been ill in a hospital, that it was his first week back at work, and that in his weakened condition he was in no shape to withstand the shock.

Stauff leaves his wife, Ellen, and three children, Jack 9, Dorothy 7 and William 3. He was a lifelong resident of this district, a member of the Mt. Lebanon Presbyterian Church and a Shriner. He had been manager of the trust company real estate department for two years.

Stauff was robbed of $2,300 at Shiloh street and Grandview avenue Monday morning. Anderieni was captured in McKees Rocks after a ch[illegible] police and a revolver battle and was taken to detective headquarters. The messenger, police say, identified the robber and then collapsed.

Monday night and early Tuesday Stauff was unconscious. He regained consciousness yesterday, but in the afternoon his condition became serious. Hospital attaches said the shock had resulted in paralysis of the throat and complete loss of speech.

KEEP GRILLING SUSPECT

Stauff is said to have been a [illegible] with high blood pressure.

Detectives are continuing to grill Ardo[illegible], an alleged dope addict, who they say is wanted on robbery charges at Columbus, O., and Louisville, Ky. In Columbus, police say, he is wanted for participating in the robbery of the Mazer Cressman Cigar Company. Two other participants are serving terms in Ohio penal institutions. The robbers obtained but $231, having arrived a few minutes too early for a bank messenger bringing a $15,000 payroll.

Ardi[illegible] has denied taking part in the holdups last week of a bank messenger in the East End and the paymaster of the American Coat and Apron Supply Company, North Side.

GONE 17 YEARS, HUNTED AS HEIR

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 18.—(AP.)—A man who disappeared 17 years ago in London may share in a million dollar estate if, as his former legal adviser believes, he is alive and will return from the jungle lands of Quintana Roo, Mexico.

Joseph W. Martin, once a wealthy cotton broker here, vanished in London in 1913. Detectives reported finding his opera coat and hat on the banks of the Thames. Search for him was futile.

S. M. Neely, former attorney for Martin, brought forth the contention that he still is alive in testimony given in Chancery Court here yesterday preparatory to distribution of the $1,000,000 estate of the late William M. Wood, grandfather of Martin.

KLINE DENIES AX SWINGING

In these words Mayor Kline today denied reports of wholesale discharge of city employes:

"I don't know of a single discharge to be made, nor do I expect any."

The report had it that the dismissals would not be announced until Mayor Kline sailed for Europe this summer.

The Mayor pointed out that, rather than firing there will be hiring, inasmuch as 100 police and firemen are to be added to the payroll before July 1 to protect annexed boroughs.

Texan New Chief Of Masonic Body

OMAHA, June 18.—(AP.)—Alvin V. Lans, Dallas, Tex., was elected grand sovereign of the Red Cross of Constantine, exclusive Masonic order, at the national convention here.

Other officers included Herbert A. Graham, Indianapolis, grand high prelate; Arthur E. Hopkins, Louisville, grand almoner, and Joseph C. Keiper, Washington, D. C., grand chamberlain.

Woman Gets Prized Paris Medical Title

PARIS, June 18.—(AP.)—A woman for the first time has been given one of the most coveted titles in French medicine—"Doctor of Paris Hospitals."

The woman is Madame Therese Bertrand Fontaine, 33, mother of two children, who was appointed to that title yesterday by a jury of eminent doctors after a long series of competitive examinations.

Chief Gets Buggy After Chase on Motorcycle

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., June 18.—Martin Ballda, 58, was arrested for driving a horse and buggy while under the influence of liquor.

Chief of Police John C. Wall's attention was attracted to the zig-zag course of the vehicle as Ballda pulled unsteadily on the reins and the horse responded.

Giving chase on a motorcycle, the chief "got his man."

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS

ILL FOR YEARS; KONJOLA MAKES QUICK RESCUE

Happy Lady Eager to Tell Others of New Medicine—"Konjola Wonderful," She Says.

Strange, but true. Konjola, America's most highly praised medicine, has won its most outstanding triumphs over the most stubborn ailments. Yet this need not appear so strange when it is considered that Konjola is a scientifically blended medicine containing the juices of 22 roots and herbs together with other valuable medicinal ingredients. These ingredients are designed to attack the ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness.

MRS. DOLLY RIZOR

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Store, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, and is waiting to tell you about this new medicine. Read the experience of Mrs. Dolly Rizor, 323 Wayne Street, Washington, near Pittsburgh, as she told it to the Konjola Man recently. Mrs. Rizor said:

"I suffered with stomach trouble for twenty years or more and try as I would I was not able to find anything to help me. My food lay undigested in my stomach and caused gas and bloating. I was subject to shortness of breath and smothering spells. I had severe pains in the back of my head and was very nervous.

"Although I have but just concluded a two weeks' treatment of Konjola I feel like a new person. The gas and bloating have gone and I am no longer nervous. I sleep well and have a good appetite, and am free from pains in my back and head. I advise anyone suffering from the troubles I did to give Konjola a trial."

The files of Konjola are filled with just such happy endorsements. After all, life teaches no finer lesson than to profit by the experiences of others. Why not try Konjola today?

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Store, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, explaining the merits of this new and different medicine. FREE SAMPLES GIVEN by the Konjola Man. Konjola is sold at all Dow Drug Stores in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

CLICQUOT CLUB
Pale Dry Ginger Ale
in full pint bottles!

THERE'S a bargain in ginger ale at your store. It's Clicquot Club Pale Dry, the only nationally known dry ginger ale put up in full pint bottles. It offers you 4 extra ounces for your money.

Little 12-ounce bottles are not quite enough to go around . . . and near quarts often go flat before they are used up. The full-size pint of Clicquot is the economical way to buy.

Clicquot Club Pale Dry, the famous aged ginger ale, comes to you in clean new bottles to protect its purity.

Read the label on the bottle. It guarantees a full 16 ounces.

PALE DRY

"Clear up your skin, dear, and you will be popular, too"

If you desire a clear skin you must keep your blood in good condition.

Skin troubles and sallow complexion speak of body weakness — a deficiency in the red-blood-cells.

A lovely, clear skin is within your reach

may be found in every good drug store in America. Thousands of users have testified to its benefits in unsolicited letters of gratitude. Seek energy, vitality and a clear skin through the remedy which is made from strictly fresh vegetable drugs and has stood the test for over 100 years. Sold in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

© S.S.S. Co.

WITH the last blemish gone, confidence returns. More friends, more invitations—more good times. With the joy and pride of possessing a clear skin, self-respect increases.

First impressions cannot be good without a clear skin—first impressions are quickly made and are not soon forgotten. Old friends may excuse pimples and secretly sympathize, but new acquaintances may not be so charitable. Skin blemishes are not inviting. Neither can they be covered up. They embarrass. Hold people back. Steal away joy and happiness.

A lovely, clear skin is within the reach of all. To you who have lost it, hope is offered, that you, too, may have a beautiful skin, rose-petal in texture, pretty as a picture and without a single pimple.

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of skin eruptions as being an indication that the body's power of resistance is low.

The natural way to remedy this condition is to restore the red-blood-cells to normal.

This is why so many thousands have been enabled to free themselves of these unsightly blemishes and painful skin annoyances by taking a course of S.S.S.

S.S.S. helps Nature restore the blood to its normal state. Healthy blood nourishes the body and works against infection and disease.

Without plenty of rich, red blood there would be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or healthy, beautiful women.

If you are troubled with so-called skin disorders, take a few bottles of S.S.S.

Clean-up!

542 SUITS

These are well made suits—odd lots and broken assortments taken from our regular higher priced lines that we are going to clear away tomorrow while they last at

EIGHTEEN DOLLARS

Your first reaction to an "Eighteen Dollar Suit" would probably be—"well, that can't be so good for so little money"—and ordinarily that old reaction would be right, but in this instance we are out to make a clean-up and all costs or former selling prices are forgotten to achieve this definite purpose! These are standard, well made clothes that we sell year in and year out at considerably higher than this clean-up price tomorrow—

EIGHTEEN DOLLARS

Now about sizes—Naturally in a clean-up of broken lots there would not be a complete size range in all colorings—but there's all sizes in the lot—young men's models in quite a good selection of most desirable patterns and colorings as well as the more conservative styles and colorings for the older man. You're sure to get a suit that will fit you—and will please you—at a "Knockout" price—

NEWS AND COMMENT ON HOLLYWOOD AND BROADWAY HAPPENINGS

Diamond for Bebe Daniels And Tennis Court For Ben Lyon

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., June 18.

WHAT A SEND-OFF Hollywood gave Bebe Daniels and Ben Lyon!

From a little after 8 when the wedding was over until the early hours of Sunday morning, [illegible] guests made merry at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel. The main dining room and the mezzanine of the hostelry were taken to accommodate the multitudes.

And [illegible] Bebe and Ben enjoyed [illegible] the middle of the night, while secret [illegible] pressed [illegible] and Ben. Before [illegible] her [illegible] She [illegible] M. had [illegible]

Do You Remember When —

—they wore bathing suits like these and considered them quite daring? Louise John Bartels, Marion Davies, Walter Catlett and Dorothy girls in "The Florodora Girl," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture.

—and when the boys and girls made whoopee like this? Marion Davies, Lawrence Gray and tally-ho party in "The Florodora Girl," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture. The picture opens here Friday at Loews' Penn.

[illegible] lasting and [illegible] have didn't say anything [illegible] Lila Lee was with Al Hall who at one time was reported engaged to Doris Jeanne Arbuckle. Sally Eilers was with Hoot Gibson, of course. There will be another June wedding. It occurs on the twenty-seventh at Hood's ranch about 50 miles from Hollywood. After that they'll have a month's honeymoon at Banff and Lake Louise.

WEDDING PRESENTS

Bebe and Ben received gorgeous wedding gifts. Ben gave Bebe a diamond necklace and she'll give Ben a tennis court at the new Italian villa they are to build on a several acre estate in the hills.

Among the many other gifts were a complete service of old English silver [illegible] a Burano lace banquet cloth, two complete pewter wave tea sets, a marble floor lamp, an overland silver on black cocktail and buffet smokers set, goblets to match, chests of embroidered [illegible] linens, an antique miniature of Lady Grey by Romney. It would be impossible to enumerate everything. The wedding presents along will take almost a wing in the new house.

LOOKING FORWARD

A hint of coming changes in the movie industry may be obtained from several new clauses that Warner Brothers are putting into their players' contracts.

In the first place each new performer signs up for stage as well as screen work. Walter Pidgeon, Joe E. Brown, Bernice Claire, Loretta Young, Betty Compson and Noah Beery all have such a provision in their contracts. Even now Miss Compson is on her way to New York to do a stage musical that Warners will produce.

A phonograph record clause also is in the new contracts. This is a result of Warners' purchase of the Brunswick Company. Noah Beery already has made two records for Warners.

Looking even farther into the future, Jack Warner is signing his actors up for television rights.

All this seems very significant to me. It shows whither the movies are heading.

Carroll Erecting $1,000,000 Theater

NEW YORK, June 18 — (AP) — Earl Carroll is erecting a $1,000,000 theater for musicals shows with a top admission of $5.

Sister Role

Sally O'Neil comes to the Harris stage and screen Saturday. She will be seen in the picture, "Sisters," which also features her real-life sister, Molly O'Day, and in person on the stage. Molly will be on the stage too.

Dedicate Greentree Building Saturday

Addresses by State Senator Frank J. Harris and State Representative M. A. Musmanno will feature the program at the dedication of the $30,000 municipal building in Greentree Saturday. Brief talks will be made by officials of Crafton, Dormont, Mt. Lebanon, Carnegie and Bridgeville. The ceremony will be preceded by a parade.

ROAD PROJECTS APPROVED

New road work totaling $1,000,000 has been approved by the county grand jury and Quarter Sessions Court on recommendation of the county commissioners and will be confirmed in five days if no exceptions are filed and the work started. The projects include:

Flaugherty Run road, Findley Township, $395,000; Elwyn road, Mt. Lebanon and Baldwin Townships, $266,400; Glassport-Elizabeth road, from Glassport to Clairton Bridge, $205,000; Turtle Creek and Monroeville road, $150,000, to eliminating curves along Sewickley road, Sewickley Heights, $3,000; to eliminating curves on Glenfield road, $3,000.

DeMolay to Hold Outdoor Initiation

An outdoor initiation will be held Saturday by Pittsburgh Chapter No. 1, DeMolay Alumni, on a farm near the Freeport road. Fifty candidates will be received. The committee in charge is composed of James A. Wieland, Rees E. Price, Jr., Clifford W. Douglass, Alvin W. Dorfield, William C. Kial, Robert Harris and George Gillander.

Fraternity Chapter Selects Officers

Officers were elected at the annual meeting of the Alpha Chapter, Chi Sungs Nu national fraternity as follows: President, G. J. Gould; vice president, J. R. Walter; treasurer, M. A. Bresee; secretary, Arthur L. Schroeder; guard, G. J. O'Brien; and trustees, C. A. Ruckert and Carl A. Koch.

$164,733 SPENT BY ANTI-DRYS

HARRISBURG, June 18 — (AP) — Receipts of $167,889, expenditures of $164,733 and unpaid obligations of $11,802 were shown in the expense account of the Bohlen-Phillips Campaign Committee filed at the Elections Bureau here.

A contribution of $100,000 was reported from the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment. Thomas W. Phillips, Jr., candidate for governor on the ticket, gave $14,000.

The Pinchot for Governor City Committee of Philadelphia submitted a report showing receipts of $50,175 and expenditures of $50,165. Gifford Pinchot and Mrs. Pinchot each contributed $5,000 to the committee.

Other reports included:

Brown-Davis committee of Beaver County, $5,000 received and $4,987 expended. Pinchot committee of Beaver received and spent $829.

Mercator Club Host At Hotel Luncheon

The Mercator Club will be the guest at the Inter Club Luncheon in the English room of the Fort Pitt Hotel Thursday noon. The speaker will be Capt. William Hallowell, Rough Rider who served under Col. Roosevelt in Cuba. The reception committee includes Harry Saltman, Frank Weiland, Norbert Sexton and Harry Brockett.

"Before my little daughter was born I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound regularly. I was able to do my usual work and take pleasure in doing it. We were so happy when a wonderfully fine baby girl arrived to bless our home. I have enjoyed better health since the baby's birth than ever before. I am sure that I owe it all to your medicine and I heartily recommend it to all women who are weak or ailing."—Mrs. Chester Decker.

"Although I am only 22 years old I have four babies to care for. Before my first baby was born my mother urged me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I was so terribly weak. I had to lie down four or five times a day. After three bottles I could feel a great improvement. I still take the Vegetable Compound whenever I need it, for it gives me strength to be a good mother to my family. I will write to any woman about it."—Mrs. Vern L. Dennings.

Fooled You!

Phyllis is pretty and charming;
Blessed with an amiable way;
Born with a manner disarming,
Sweet as a morning in May;
Fervent and dear are her kisses,
Clinging and soft her embrace;
Isn't it queer that such misses
Often are lost in love's race?

Betty is bored and conceited,
Treating her suitors like swine;
Keeping their bank-rolls depleted,
Drinking their praises like wine;
Robbing each youth of his laughter,
Leaving a sickly remorse;
Whom do you think I run after?
Phyllis, of course!

—Brooke Edison.

A Form of Criticism

Take it from H. Reuttenbach, most columnists are good listeners trying to be writers.

Add Sillies

Ed Wynn, star of the late "Simple Simon" show, had a difficult time with the census taker recently. He asked Ed if he had a radio.

"Yes," said Wynn, "a little one."

"How little?" asked the man.

"Oh, very little," said Ed.

"Well, what do you mean by very little?"

"It's so little," chirped Wynn, "that when Amos 'n' Andy are on, I can only get Amos."

Of All Things!

On Broadway, a chiseler is one who is a form of knitter, a pest, anyone who crashes a place where he hasn't been invited, one who profits on something he doesn't rate, etc.

The New York telephone directory on page 209 reveals the book's only error. Because of an apostrophe, the Chiselers Club is listed twice.

Hot Weather Joke

Guy Lombardo, who is now conducting his band at the Pavilion Royale on Long Island, was playing golf the other afternoon when his opponent pointed to one of the players immediately behind him.

"See that fellow," said Lombardo's companion, "He's worth five million dollars, and would you believe it, he can't even write his name."

Just then the player referred to hit the ball a wallop and shouted: Fore!

"Well," said Lombardo, "he can count gain-way."

Aren't We All?

He is a doctor by profession and a grade A chump by his Broadway inheritance. He went for a Ziegfeld femme last year, but how! Even his best friends couldn't tell him. They never do, you know, when it comes to girl-trouble. That is, if they have any sense. So they all watched from the sidelines and it was sad. She bagged him for diamonds that would choke a colt, and other doodads, but he really thought she was going to marry him.

It's all over now but the chutting. He probably will knock himself off as a result of the "deal" she handed him. But this will show you what a yap he is. On her last birthday she asked him to let her throw her own party. He agreed — and she invited an army of former sweethearts.

He had to go out on a sick call. When he returned he found her necking furiously with a former rival.

"There's your chance to give her the air," someone suggested.

"Oh, I couldn't do that," the yap yipped. "She doesn't know what she is doing. She is drunk."

He's Punny That Way

Harvey (Pittsburgh) Boyle was at the Sharkey-Smelly fight long before the first round went on. He listened attentively to other newspapermen who commented on Heywood Broun's recent discussion of Gandhi.

"If you asked me," said a lad, "I thought Broun was disrespectful to Gandhi."

"Well," ho-hum'd Harvey, "what's sauce for the goose is sauce for the—finish it yourself."

Drama

Another little lump in the throat concerns the Italian lad who came to New York five years ago to study music. The going has been pretty rough, but last week he scraped enough together to go up to one of those places where you make your own phonographic records. He took an accompanist along, made one operatic recording and on the back-up sang a little ditty in his broken English. At the end of a song he speaks a few words of greeting to his mother in Italy, to whom he is going to send the record. She believes that he is making regular operatic appearances, and she scans the papers all the time for word of him.

The kid is a waiter in a Greenwich Village speakeasy.

The esteemed Mr. Idwal Jones remarks that "a bit of insanity is very helpful to columnists. In fact, most of them are crazy, and who wouldn't be if they had to pull ideas out of their heads like rabbits out of a hat?"

Or as Mr. Jones might have added, ideas from other letters columns.

"All right, mister, . . . don't believe a word I say-but try AMOCO-GAS"

It happened in a garage in a small Virginia town, but it could have happened anywhere in the eleven states in which AMOCO-GAS is sold.

A motorist stopped at a pump that happened to be dry. There were three other gases available, but the garage-man suggested AMOCO-GAS.

"No, it costs too much," said the motorist.

"It will save you money in the end and make your car run better than it knows how," said the garage-man.

"Save me money how?"

"More miles to the gallon and by keeping your car out of the shop. I know half-a-dozen cars around here that have gone over 25,000 miles on AMOCO and never had the head off. And when you get on a hill -- why, she'll go over the top so fast you'll think you've stolen the car."

"Go on," said the motorist, "I've heard that story before. I've never found a gas yet that could live up to half the claims made for it."

"All right, mister," said the garage-man, "don't believe a word I say, but try AMOCO-GAS."

He's been using AMOCO-GAS ever since. Right now this same motorist is the best advertisement for AMOCO-GAS in the entire county.

The records of the Register of Wills Office show a growing tendency of people to use the services of Trust Companies as Executors and Co-executors of Estates.

The fact that the records of this office show that never a dollar of trust funds in the hands of trust companies has been lost through failure, mismanagement or any other cause, has given great impetus to the increased use of trust companies. Unquestionably the modern trust company represents the safest and most practicable means of administering an estate.

Among other advantages, trust companies make it a practice to retain as counsel in the estate, the attorney who acted for the decedent during his lifetime. In the administration of the estate this attorney represents the widow and heirs, thus preserving the close attachment between families and their lawyers, and in that way all receive the benefit of the attorney's intimate knowledge of the thoughts and wishes of the decedent.

That the trust company's investment of clients' money is wisely made and is governed by well defined legal restrictions, is another appealing point.

Then, too, trust companies are under the supervision of our Orphans' Court—one of the strongest courts in the nation. Audits are made at regular intervals, and these audits are exceedingly thorough. Every precaution is taken to completely safeguard the interests of the widow, children and all legatees.

Trust companies unfailingly preserve the principal and earn the highest possible interest, consistent with safety, for their clients, and at the same time follow the decedent's wishes as expressed in his will.

The fee charged by a trust company is never more and sometimes less than that of an individual executor.

The trust company is "always at home," and can be seen and talked to at all times. There are never any annoying or disadvantageous delays due to absence or illness on the part of the executor. Trust departments are familiar with estates and there is always an experienced trust officer ready to "carry on," no matter who may die, resign or leave the institution. Estates left in the hands of trust companies are never tied up because of illness or death of the executor.

Trust companies are in close and constant touch with all matters pertaining to finance, and are always alert to changes in financial conditions affecting their clients' welfare.

To the man who wants his family ever safeguarded from the pitfalls of finance and the possible unfortunate results of inexperience in business affairs, the trust company has much to offer.

We have seen many things that deal with this important subject and have heard of many others in our offices. Some are distressingly sad and in many of the cases, family misery and financial havoc could have been avoided by having "your own lawyer write the will," as explained in my story last week, and by a wise choice in the selection of the executor.

Consult your lawyer, your banker and your friends about these observations I have made.

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN,
Radio Editor.

SURPASSING IN MAGNITUDE anything yet attempted in world-wide radio communication, the NBC today at 4 o'clock will link the World Power Conference in Berlin with the National Electric Light Association convention in San Francisco. The broadcast will present as speakers to both assemblies Thomas Edison from Orange, N. J.; Senatore Guglielmo Marconi from London; Owen D. Young from San Francisco, and Lord Derby from Camberley, England.

Damon Runyon

At a microphone in San Francisco, Phillips Carlin will call the roll of the points of origin of the program. Responses from all points called are expected. This gigantic network will be by radio, cable and wire with W6XK at East Pittsburgh playing an important part.

KDKA and WCAE will broadcast the program in Pittsburgh.

Damon Runyon, sports authority of the New York American, will give listeners the low-down on the Sharkey-Schmeling fiasco when he answers Grantland Rice's questions over WCAE at 10:30.

If Palmolive WCAE at 9:30 sticks to schedule don't miss Elizabeth Lennox singing Habanera from Bizet's "Carmen."

Verified reception of 307 stations is the proud record of Leo LaSota, 16, of 215 Zero street, Loupurex, Pa.

* * *

A microphone under the million dollar pier at Atlantic City will bring the swish of waves to WJAS listeners in a series of CBS programs this summer.

A gigantic organ in the Civic Auditorium will be put on the air through WPG. This instrument, costing half a million and five times larger than any other organ in the world, has a beautiful true tone.

* * *

When Jesse Crawford played this organ at the recent RMA Show it was hard to keep traffic moving. Among spectators was Jack Phillips of the North Side who loves good music well played.

Downtown dentists complain that radio announcers are the most fastidious about their teeth. Reason: Dental work sometimes interferes with enunciation.

William A. Farren is now raising one dentist some sleepless nights—all because of a nervy bicuspid.

TODAY'S TID BIT:

Prancing into the Westinghouse Salute last night we were much concerned about the illuminated drum used in this program. Zoel Parenteau explained that an electric bulb is kept burning inside the instrument to remove the dampness and increase resonance.

3 Stations Here To Broadcast Byrd Arrival

Three Pittsburgh stations will pick up the description of Rear Admiral Byrd's arrival in New York tomorrow morning.

As soon as the City of New York is sighted off Quarantine the broadcast will begin via short wave. KDKA, WCAE and WJAS will be local outlets.

KDKA was the only station in the world to maintain a consistent communication with Admiral Byrd's expedition, broadcasting prearranged programs and messages to the crew from the time they departed New York, in October, 1928, until a week ago.

Son of Wealthy Business Man Calls on Anne

CHAPTER XII

In the little silence that followed Anne Murdock's reply, Lawrence Eaton's gray eyes encountered his secretary's blue ones. The look which endured between them was curiously searching, deep. On his part, it was a look of trust, of gratitude and of something more, something concealed and veiled. In her answering eyes there were loyalty and an unspoken reassurance.

"Fine," said Eaton, following that appreciable pause. "We'll go over the situation again together. Get Lawson back on the wire for me, will you?"

She did so, and a little later Eaton was talking to the impatient man in Chicago.

"I'm sending my secretary to you—Miss Murdock. Yes, she knows what it's all about. She's leaving on the Broadway Limited at two tomorrow afternoon. See that she is met."

A moment's listening, and then Eaton turned to Anne.

"He wants to know what you look like. He reported aggressively."

Anne chuckled. He was staring at her over the telephone as if he never had seen her before. No, not quite as that, but as if he were taking her into his mind small, blue eyes. She proposed lastly.

"If you'd like him not to bother meeting me I could take a taxi to the house."

Eaton, with a rush of relief, transmitted the message and hung up.

"I don't suppose that you'll get tonight," he said, "because I might make it difficult for you to arrange your plans. Aren't there tasks you want to get through with tomorrow morning. So that you'll be free tomorrow afternoon, time enough. You'll reach there at 10 on Tuesday, and can probably get an afternoon train back."

Dines With Boss

When the Lawson plans had been gone over again and Anne had had her instructions Eaton looked at his watch.

"I've an hour or so before train time," he said, "and my bag's at the station. Suppose we go out and have some dinner?"

She asserted quietly enough, but her heart was racing. The moment seemed to mark a new milestone in her secretarial progress. She had often heard comments a little cynical about girls who dined with their bosses. Well, why shouldn't they?

They dined at a hotel where there was good food and pleasant lights and the melody of music flooding across the tables to veil the clatter of service. Eaton looked at his watch not of business but of a book he'd read with her. Also had read of a play they'd both seen. He listened to her observations and said, as if casually:

"We have to do a show together sometime, Miss Murdock. If you get as excited as this over a mere discussion of a play you'd seen, what would you be like in the audience watching one? I think you'd be a stimulating companion. Most of us be a groan pretty blase."

Makes Safe Trip

Anne laughed. "I'm a fool of course," she admitted. "I once knew a girl who played small parts. I used to go back to see her be seen, and well, I suppose it was disillusioning backstage and yet when I got out in front again I was so convinced that the things I saw happening were real as if I'd never seen the wheels go round on the other side of the curtain."

She went home that night and Eaton, after seeing him at the lobby doors, started walk across to the station, he said. Leaning back against the upholstery she found that she was excited, more excited than she'd ever been at any play. She chatted with Lawrence Eaton. They hadn't talked business. They might have been friends, even a little more than friends.

She told her family of her mission to Chicago and asked:

Haven't we a small bag I could take?

Mrs. Murdock beamed. "He does trust you," she commented and went to look for the bag.

But Murdock was wontedly gloomy. "I don't like it," he protested. "Shipping you all over the map—a young unprotected girl. Anything might happen."

Lawson Surprised

Anne's tickets were secured for her by the office. She had a drawing room, owing to the orders Eaton had left. She traveled comfortably, slept fitfully and presented herself at Mr. Lawson's house without mishap or misgiving.

Lawson, a middle-aged gentleman in a broad-brimmed hat, received her at the door. "A nurse" fishermen, Anne," he told him, disappeared discreetly after warning her Mr. Lawson must not be agitated.

Anne thought that he had been bored, that was all. not sorry. She opened her briefcase, laid certain papers on the library table while Lawson stared at her.

But suddenly he exploded. "A nurse, indeed!"

Anne, not quite knowing how to reply to this obvious statement, said:

I thought, of course, you were a man.

A little, irritably, Lawson said: "Miss" and she.

"Well, that could sound like Mr. and he couldn't it? Well you're here now," said Lawson in an I-can't-be-helped tone. "let's see what you know about the muddle."

Anne explained. She then re-explained for the better part of an hour. After which Lawson remarked grudgingly:

"You've a good head. Tell Mr. Eaton it's O.K. with me." He asked her to stay for luncheon but she refused.

"It's my first trip to Chicago," she said, "and I'd like to see something of it before I return."

Attractive Morning Dress

Pattern 1958

Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

1958

By ANNE ADAMS.

A dainty fresh wash dress finds its smartness in cleverly designed yoke trimming and low placed skirt flare. The short kimono sleeves are mighty comfortable in warm weather and easy to launder.

Pattern 1958 makes up beautifully in piqué, percale, gingham, chintz, shantung, linen, etc. A pastel ground brightly printed in floral or geometric designs will be most attractive, or one might use a solid color and trim it with contrasting bodice banding, cuffs and belt. Tiny buttons add a chic touch.

May be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards of 36-inch material.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern. Yardage for every size and simple, exact instructions are given.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins carefully wrapped, or stamps, for each pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE wanted.

Our BOOK OF PATTERNS for adults and children, also transfer patterns, is FIFTEEN CENTS, but only TEN CENTS when ordered with a pattern. Address all mail and orders to Sun-Telegraph Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

1.—Enclose 15 cents in coins.
2.—Write clearly NUMBERS of patterns and SIZE wanted.
3.—Write or print your NAME and ADDRESS plainly.
4—If you want SUN-TELEGRAPH Style Book send 10c extra.
5—Address your request to

The library door opened before he could reply and Lawson Junior, a gay and personable young man, came in.

Anne Amused

Hey, Dad!" He stopped and stared.

His father made the presentations and explanations. So it was that half an hour later Anne found herself committed to the daytime sights of Chicago and environs, luncheon and a safe convoy to her train.

She wired Eaton the successful conclusion of her business and wondered how he would like the way she'd elected to cool her heels till train time if he knew it. Not of course that he'd care, nor was it any of his business after all. But still—

Lawson Junior was entertaining. Anne was amused, the time passed pleasantly to the tune of a little light-hearted flirtation and eventually he put her on the train with candy, magazines and flowers enough to take her to San Francisco.

May I look you up when I come to New York?"

Why not?" asked Anne.

When Eaton returned from Washington she had a verbal report for him. She then said, a little defiantly because she felt curiously awkward:

After the business was over Mr. Lawson's son took me to lunch and we drove about the city.

Young Allan? He's a nice boy," Eaton said carelessly and added: Glad you had a good time." And Anne found herself relieved and absurdly disappointed.

Allan Visits

I didn't know if you— He and his father engineered—" It wasn't strictly business, she explained unnecessarily.

You deserved some reward for the trip," Eaton told her.

But he remembered and with no perceptible pleasure that Allan Lawson was an attractive youngster and an eligible one. And two or three weeks later when Allan walked blithely into the office of Miss Murdock her employer had occasion to recall his attractiveness and eligibility.

Eaton had been talking to Anne at her desk and he greeted the caller who remarked coolly:

I'm taking Miss Murdock to lunch."

Anne shook her bright head. "I haven't time. I'm sorry."

Dinner then. Where'll I meet you?"

He ignored Eaton. So the older man stood back, trying to feel amused but only succeeding in experiencing irritation. Anne, sensing that irritation and the inappropriateness of the conversation, answered quickly:

"At my sister's." She gave him Kathleen's address and named an hour. She'd taken to leaving a dinner frock and a change of clothes at Kathleen's. It was easier than going home before an engagement in town when she worked late.

When Allan had gone Eaton commented dryly: "A fast worker."

Goes to Night Club

No." She smiled at him. "It's just that he's one o' these young men with nothing to do and lots of money to do it with."

You don't admire the masculine lily of the field, then I take it?" Eaton asked.

Not me!" said Anne with plenty of emphasis if little grammar.

That night she dined and saw a play and went to a night club with Allan Lawson. He was as amusing as he had been on their first meeting, and she liked him well enough, but confessed to herself that she was soon bored.

My old man wants me to go into the business," he told Anne over the narrow table against the wall.

The club was crowded. There was a scent of powder and heavy perfume of food and liquor in the low-ceilinged room. A Frenchwoman was singing and the orchestra wailed out the accompaniment. It was all very noisy.

I suppose," thought Anne, "you can only enjoy it if you're in the right mood. I generally am. But not tonight."

Cigarette smoke hung blue and thick on the heated air. Her eyelids drooped. But she groped out of the drowsiness that threatened her to ask Lawson:

You will, of course?"

Not if I can help it." Lawson looks. Isn't that rude?" I spend my time breaking—not making—them. Love laughs at them, or at their manufacturers, and I," said Allan, "have a sense of humor, too."

Anne laughed. And he went on:

Allan Goes Away

I've a few shekels of my own, thanks to a dear dead grandma. Work is the only thing I can't see. I'm not sure how long I'll live—"

What?"

Who is nowadays, what with wars and machine guns, airplanes, bad booze and banana peels?" he asked cheerfully. Anyway, I'm sure I'll be dead a long time. So while I've the use of life and limb I intend to suit myself."

He took her back to Kathleen's and tried to kiss her as they stood together in the dim hallway.

No! Well, no hard feelings, then," he told her gayly. "Some of you kiss and some—forever—of you don't. When I meet a pretty girl of the 'don't' class, that's my hard luck and her poor judgment. Lunch with me tomorrow?"

Anne laughed. "A year ago I might have let him kiss me, just, oh, just because. Why not now?" she marveled.

No," she told him. I can't. Remember, I'm a business woman."

Gosh, how I pity 'em! Listen here, if I go into business after all will you come and be my little secretary?"

I certainly will not!" said Anne.

That settles it. I won't go. I sail tomorrow at midnight anyway. Good night. Look here, girl, take my tip and don't sew yourself to a typewriter. It doesn't pay. Life's too short—and you're too darned pretty!"

It is on record that she never saw him again, but she remembered the slim boy with his top hat tilted on his fair sleek head, his arm flung carelessly about her shoulder, his gay voice whispering, advising, warning.

Montana Woman Lost 19 Pounds of Fat In 4 Weeks

Here's a letter written October 21, 1929, by Mrs. Fred Barringer of Lewistown, Montana, that ought to be read by every overweight woman in America.

When stout women can lose fat and at the same time gain in energy and vigor.

Gain in charm and vivaciousness.

Gain in healthy complexion and have eyes that sparkle with buoyant health.

And at insignificant cost—isn't it time to use common sense?

Please read this letter carefully:

"Gentlemen: I first saw your advertisement in a Billings, Montana, paper and decided to try Kruschen Salts.

I was the first to purchase a bottle in Billings.

I started taking them every morning, as directed as I was very much overweight and wanted to reduce.

I started going on a diet but would get so hungry that on diet would not stay with it, so decided to give Kruschen Salts a fair trial. The first I started to take (was) I weighed 256 lbs. and at present, which has been just four weeks, I weigh 237 lbs. And I must say I feel better, have more pep, am looking much better. Kruschen Salts had a decided effect upon the quantity of food I took and stimulated my desire to greatly reduce.

I have recommended Kruschen Salts to many of my friends in fact have a number of them taking Kruschen Salts.

May all large people, both men and women who want to reduce in an easy way, give Kruschen Salts a fair trial. I am sure it will convince any one.

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts four weeks costs but $5.5c at all Mays & Lippett's Drug Stores, or any drug store in America.

FATHER HUNTS 2 DAUGHTERS

Two young girls are being sought today by county detectives after their father, Michael Byrne, 445 Johns street, Braddock, reported them missing since midnight yesterday.

Irene Byrne

The girls, Marie, 16, and Irene, 12, disappeared from home while their parents were absent, according to the father. Detectives were also informed that the missing pair left a note saying that they had gone in search of work.

Marie Byrne

Marie is described by her father as five feet seven inches tall, bobbed hair, 132 pounds, blue eyes and wearing a pink dress. Irene is five feet seven inches tall, 103 pounds, brown hair, burn on left hand and wearing a white or lavendar dress.

STEEL LEADER SEES UPTURN

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., June 18.—(AP.)—The National Association of Flat Rolled Steel Manufacturers was told here that business recessions were over and that manufacturers should now prepare for the future. E. P. Thomas, vice president of the United States Steel Corporation, told members of the association at its convention here:

"Perhaps the hectic expension and abnormal prosperity of last year created a mirage of potentialities which will take some years to translate into actualities. Nevertheless, this great surplus reservoir of capacity over demand presents an intriguing challenge to engage, through our best efforts, that capacity, and maintain and increase employment to our labor."

Francis Sisson, of the Guarantee Trust Company of New York, will address the convention today.

Scottdale's Troop Wins Scout Prize

GREENSBURG, Pa., June 18.—Boy Scout Troop 1, of Scottdale, has scored 895 out of a possible 1,000 points to win the "overnight contest" of the Westmoreland County Council at Camp Wesco, near here.

Troop 2, of Irwin, finished second and Troop 3, of Jeannette, third.

Stewardess Denies Cowardice By Fairfax Crew

NEW CASTLE, Pa., June 18.—Mrs. Ruth Brown Strebel, stewardess on the steamship Fairfax when it collided with the tanker Pinthis near Boston, is spending a vacation at the home of her sister, Mrs. Harry Shaffer, here.

In an interview she denied members of the crew of the Fairfax acted in a cowardly manner and refused aid to passengers. She declared all hands showed gallantry.

For several hours, she said, it seemed as though those on board faced the choice of death by burning or drowning. She escaped falling into the sea when forced, with other members of the crew, from the promenade to the hurricane deck over the side of the boat. She lost her hold and was dragged back by a sailor.

WAR VETERANS TO PICNIC JULY 5

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

The late Judge Cohen was just reaching his nineties when he died, but the chances are he enjoyed his last few years more than any other period of his life.

His sense of humor was alert and there were few in the Courthouse who had not been victims of his jokes, which never created bad feeling. He himself liked to sweep aside all signs of race or religion, as witness the hearty laugh he enjoyed when a group of Republicans, banqueting him, presented the jurist with nothing more nor less than—a ham.

There was also the time when, a young lawyer, he was named by the late Senator Knox as counsel in a case involving maritime law. Young Cohen labored hard on the case and at its successful conclusion was about to enter a bill for a modest fee when he was stopped by Senator Knox.

"That's not enough," Knox decided. "You charge 'em three times that, and you'll get it."

"Senator," Lawyer Cohen quoted the Bible, "almost thou persuadest me to be a Christian."

In the district attorney's office they'll miss him because he usually dropped in there each day to tell or create stories. More often than not he would request that prosecuting Scot, Roy Clunk, to drop down street and buy him his favorite cigar, and Clunk, lest he offend the dignity of the bench, would comply. When somebody asked Judge Cohen why he invariably chose Clunk above others, he answered:

"Well, it strikes me as an accomplishment when a Jew can make a Scotchman buy."

It was Clunk who was prosecuting a case before Judge Cohen one day when, at recess, the judge complained that he had an important engagement for that day which he would have to cancel because of the court session.

"I think I can help you, Judge," Clunk offered. "Some of my witnesses aren't prepared, and I'm going to ask you for an adjournment this afternoon."

"That'll be fine," Judge Cohen beamed, "if there's no other way out. That'll be fine."

When court reconvened Clunk stepped to the bar and gravely asked for an adjournment on the grounds mentioned.

"What?" Judge Cohen ejaculated. "No witnesses prepared? Are we to spend the taxpayers' money and the court's valuable time waiting for you to prepare witnesses? Motion overruled. Proceed with the case."

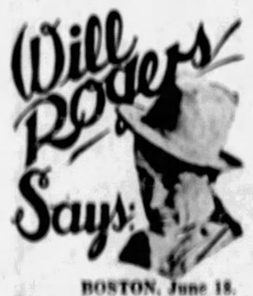
On another occasion Judge Cohen literally stopped the show in Criminal Court's assignment room. He was hearing motions there on a busy day.

Nearby, the court's clerk, Jack Moore, was explaining to a rather deaf friend why he could not play tennis on that particular rainy day.

"The court's wet," Jack shouted a second time into the mouthpiece. "The court's wet."

"Mr. Moore," Judge Cohen entered the conversation, "I realize the court's wet, but let's be quiet about it."

Will Rogers Says:



BOSTON, June 18.

We have been awful busy up here celebrating Bunker Hill. Daniel Webster made that opening address so I was really pinch hitting for him. He spoke good English too. He wrote his own. You give me a chance to write my own dictionary and make a word mean anything I want it to and I will show you some English.

They are a broadminded people up here. They celebrate a victory that the British won and the monument is not on Bunker Hill, it's on Breeds Hill. But one thing they have got and that's the old fighting ship "Constitution," the only ship that has withstood every disarmament conference.

Yours,
WILL.

Kent Knocked Unconscious By Powerful Cell Mate

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Dean Ward Kent, a successful young college graduate, gets drunk while celebrating on New Year's Eve. His automobile, going at top speed, crashed into another machine and two persons are fatally injured. Kent is charged with manslaughter and sentenced to serve seven years in the penitentiary. Duncan Morgan, a handsome chap who had been a bank clerk, is sentenced to the penitentiary for robbery. He has been in prison before and does not fear the new sentence. Kent is assigned to share a cell with Morgan and "Machine Gun Butch" Schmidt. Schmidt, a hardened criminal, is serving life for murder.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER III.

Machine Gun Butch Schmidt, gangster and killer, was holding forth on his favorite topic—murder. His activities in that line were indefinitely curtailed, as he was doing "the book in stir," but he liked to talk about his former exploits. He had plenty to remember. He had killed his share. And for death they had given him life.

"Be happy—that's me motto," Machine Gun Butch was saying, as he sat on the edge of his bunk in Cell No. 329, Section B. "And whenever you go out to clip a guy always have yer head about you—see? Dey wouldn't a-got me if I hadn't o' took that last swig o' swill dey called gin. Why, I clipped dem three guys from a taxi like nobody could-o' clipped 'em. Eh, Morg?"

He butted his head against the top of his bunk, which was the bottom of Duncan Morgan's. Morgan who was lying with his face to the wall, merely snorted. He was doing a bit of active thinking, too. Usually he enjoyed Butch's macabre humor. But tonight a queer mood was on him and he was thinking of what his life might have been—with the right woman.

On the subject of women he and Butch could find no common ground. To the killer a broad was a broad—and that was as broad as it was long. He sometimes recalled with a bit of sly sentimentality that "Sadie was a good old blister." And he lamented the fact that he had "croaked her with that ant poison." And he would sigh.

Kent Arrives

Shares Cell With Morgan And Schmidt

Butch was a giant of a man—his heart harder than his muscles. His sense of humor was usually of such a vicious nature that it easily turned into brutal fury. He was liked and feared by the men. He bullied them and inspired in them a hatred for the prison guards. To those he was sardonically polite. He appeared always smiling, humble and obedient in their presence, but the minute they were out of sight he called down on them the damnations of the devil. Butch had launched into his slaughter of the Mulligan brothers and how he had wiped out the De Lacey gang, when the keen ear of Morgan heard the footsteps of several men in the corridor. They grew nearer and paused in front of his prison door.

"Here's your bunk, Kid," said Sandy, the guard, and he opened the cell door. Kent, seeing the size of the cell and the size of Butch, who seemed to completely occupy it, hesitated. The guard pushed him in and shut and snapped the door.

Butch Inquisitive

Questions Kent About His Case

Kent caught the bars of the cell and peered through. He made as if he would cry out in protest.

"Hello, Kid," greeted Butch grinning. Then he butted the bunk above with his head. "Look down here, Morg, there's company in the parlor."

Kent turned and surveyed the small cell with its three bunks one above the other—its three pegs for the clothes, and its solitary bit of furnishing—a large bucket. He looked into the evil eyes of Butch, beneath their shaggy awnings, and then into the steady, sympathetic eyes of Morgan, who had turned over for a peep.

"Make yourself right at home, Kid," said the garrulous Butch, waving his huge paw. "That's your Pullman up there. Plenty o' fresh air. Gonna be with us long? What you in for?"

"Manslaughter. It was" began Kent, tossing his blanket and mattress in the top bunk.

"Oh, not bad—put her there," enthused Butch, offering his hand.

"It was an accident," finished Kent.

"An accident!" and Butch grinned in a knowing way. "Hey, Morg, this guy ain't no pansy, no matter how he looks."

Cigarets Stolen

Butch Picks Them From Kent's Pocket

"My car hit another—"

"Oh-h!" and Butch's tone was contemptuous. "So that's how you got the manslaughter rap, eh? Huh. I thought you was a real man, now I see you ain't dry behind the ears. Huh, a foreigner, Morg."

Butch spat disdainfully. Not a muscle in Morgan's face moved as he continued to gaze at the boy. Kent removed his coat and Butch jumped up and took it from him with mock politeness. Morgan smiled. Butch made as if to brush it off, slipped his hand in the pocket and palmed Kent's package of cigarets. He then hung the coat up. Kent did not see the theft, but Morgan did.

"Don't they have any air in here?" mournfully asked Kent.

"Yes—plenty of air—hot," said Morgan, glancing at Butch, who had deftly extracted a cigaret from the pack and lighted it. Kent reached over to where his coat hung and placed a hand in the pocket. Then he turned and looked at Butch accusingly.

"You got my cigarets!" he said.

Butch leaped up and towered over the youngster. A wicked grin on his countenance, he deliberately blew the smoke into Kent's face.

A Warning

Told That He Must Keep Quiet

"Why you dirty little liar—you know you never had no cigarets," he said teasingly.

"Yes I did," insisted Kent. "And you took them when you hung up my coat."

"Me?" shouted Butch, fanning the smoke away with a menacing gesture. "You say I took your cigarets! I may be a

RIOT OF RICE FOR BRIDE AND BRIDEGROOM LEAVING CHURCH

Mr. and Mrs. (the former Miss Stella Swarz) Albert C. Roll's rice serenade as they left First Presbyterian Church.

SHOWER GIVEN NEWLYWEDS

Albert C. Roll's and Stella Swarz's hopes for a quiet wedding were upset when, as they were leaving the First Presbyterian Church in Sixth avenue as bride and groom they were showered with exclamations and rice.

Roll's fellow employes at Price Waterhouse Company contributed the serenade.

Roll, 27, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Roll, of Brookline. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Swarz, of Dormont.

WIFE CHARGES ABUSE TO MATE

Mrs. Helen O. Miller, of 4131 Perrysville avenue, testified before Judge George V. Moore in her divorce action against Harry Miller, that on one occasion when she sat on her husband's lap, he shoved her so hard she fell to the floor. Mrs. Miller said this happened in the presence of her mother.

On another occasion she testified her husband threatened her with a revolver. They were married in 1925, parting in July of last year.

Women Arrange Glider Contest

A glider meet will be held June 29 at the Greensburg Airport by the Women's Aviation Association. The meet originally had been scheduled for June 22.

OLBUM ESTATE CONTESTED

A contest over the estate of Mack Olbum, Pittsburgh furniture dealer, who was drowned while fishing in the Allegheny River near Warren, Pa., April 19, has developed.

Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell yesterday issued a rule to show cause why letters of administration taken out by Aaron Olbum, a brother, should not be revoked and letters granted to Marie M. Olbum, of near Warren, who, according to a petition, was the lawful wife of the deceased.

Olbum left no will. His estate is estimated at $20,000. A reward of $1,000 was paid for recovery of his body, missing for several days.

FIVE ARRESTED IN STILL RAID

A raid on an alleged moonshine plant in North Fayette Township resulted in the holding today by prohibition agents of five men they charged were its operators.

A 250-gallon still, 5,110 gallons of mesh and 130 gallons of moonshine were found when the agents raided the place last night, they reported. Those arrested and held at Central Police Station in default of bond gave their names as Fred Giginate and J. Piazno, both of Beaver Falls; Mike Spino, Peter Pimians and Fred Schmidt, of Imperial.

Man Reports Bandit Took $23 and Watch

Henry McGinness, of 4830 Mossfield street, was robbed of $23 and a gold watch by an armed Negro at Liberty avenue and Thirty-first street, last night. McGinness reported the robbery to police at the Penn Avenue Station.

Pair Parted Five Times, Wife Wins Divorce

Judge George V. Moore has granted Margaret A. McCammon, of 1154 Pemberton street, a divorce from J. Edward McCammon, of 1153 Pemberton street, who contested the action, following five separations. No disposition has been made as to custody of the children.

In his opinion Judge Moore says that the respondent's sweeping denial of the wife's contentions "is not accepted by us," adding that McCammon's testimony was not convincing.

Judge Moore found that, instead of McCammon being niggardly regarding money matters, he was thrifty and sought to establish himself in business. The wife charged him with indignities, including pulling her out of bed so that she fell to the floor, use of improper language and nagging. Mrs. McCammon had left him five times before the final break. They now live across the street from each other. McCammon was ordered to pay the costs.

New Roof Voted To Keep Zoo's Tenants Dry

Lions and tigers and elephants and zebras, and what have you, at the Zoo in Highland Park don't like leaks in the roof any better than the average tenant in an apartment house.

Council yesterday approved an ordinance appropriating $20,000 for a new roof. It is badly needed, according to C. B. Connelley, chairman of the parks committee.

PAIR TO FORFEIT U. S. PAROLES

Orville Dove, 21, of Cincinnati, under a two-year parole from the Federal District Court here for transporting a stolen automobile in interstate commerce, is in jail at Cincinnati on a state automobile theft charge. A detainer of the District Court was lodged against him yesterday by Federal Probation Officer George G. O'Brien.

Dove was arrested here last February with Patricia Lusk, 20, and three boy friends, for possessing an automobile stolen in Cincinnati. Dove and the girl said they had come here to be married.

The five pleaded guilty to violating the national motor theft act. All were paroled, but Russell Meyer, 19, was sent to the United States Industrial Reformatory.

Clarence Cole, another of Dove's companions, is in jail at Cincinnati on a murder charge. Federal Court detainers filed against him and Dove are for the purpose of bringing them here for revocation of their paroles.

Girl Asks $15,000 For Loss of Teeth

Catherine Thompson lost five teeth when, she claims, her foot caught in a hole in the floor of the porch at 2317 Fifth avenue, McKeesport, causing her to fall. She has sued Max Goodman, owner, for $15,000 damages. Miss Thompson is a minor and her father, Edward Thompson, who joined in the action against Goodman, is a tenant of the latter. They say that Goodman was warned that the porch was not in proper repair. Morse J. Kellar represents the plaintiffs.

Collision of Autos Brings $15,000 Suit

Fred Bair and his father, Michael Bair, of 10 Private street, Homestead, have sued Max Berger, Braddock, for $15,000 damages for injuries received by young Bair when two cars collided September 11, at Forbes street and Dallas avenue. The Bair machine was upset, Bair being hurt about the right leg and arm and injured internally. Louis and George Little represent the plaintiffs.

P. R. R. GRANTS PLEA FOR CAR

A daily merchandise car, to handle less carload shipments between Pittsburgh and Greenville, has been placed in service by the Pennsylvania Railroad in response to a request from the Chamber of Commerce. Complaints from shippers that they had lost business due to inadequate facilities prompted the chamber's action.

Donald O. Moore, traffic manager of the chamber, announced the United States Department of Commerce has published an available list of freight transportation lines in the United States operating on rivers, canals, bays, sounds and lakes, exclusive of the Great Lakes.

It covers operations and equipment of 200 common carriers, 98 contract carriers and 187 private carriers. Copies of the publication may be obtained in the Pittsburgh branch of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Chamber of Commerce Building.

SPECIAL TRAIN FOR ROTARIANS

A special train leaving the Pennsylvania Railroad Station Sunday morning will carry Rotarian members from throughout Western Pennsylvania to the silver anniversary convention of Rotary International.

The convention opens Monday in Chicago and will continue through Friday. The Rotary Club of Pittsburgh committee making arrangements for Rotarians of the district includes Charles W. McChesney and William A. Crawford. The train will leave at 10:40 a. m. (daylight time).

Following the convention, the special train will begin a tour that includes a visit to Yellowstone Park. The tourist will return to Pittsburgh July 7.

DINNER WILL CLIMAX EVENT

Sun-Telegraph Arranges Free Amusements for Eleventh Annual Outing

The picnic to ex-service men and women of Western Pennsylvania, sponsored for the third year by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, will be held at Kennywood park Saturday July 5.

To them will be granted tickets to amusements, afternoon dancing, special athletic and entertainment events, climaxed by a dinner to Civil War Veterans and disabled men from the government hospitals who are able to be taken to the park.

PLANS UNDER WAY

Preliminary plans are under way, committees are being chosen by Jack L. Bingham, general chairman, and Harry S. Hall, assistant. Arrangements have been made with the park, and all ex-service men, regardless of branch or term of service, are invited to the park for the day.

Veteran and service organizations will co-operate in the event—planned to be the outstanding frolic for their members and service men who are not members.

ANNUAL EVENT

Already 10 picnics have been held, one annually. The one July 5 will be the eleventh.

The day was especially chosen due to it being, for most men and women, a holiday, following Independence Day. And influence will be brought to bear on the weather man.

6 ROBBERS GET 3 TO 18 YEARS

Sentences of from three to 18 years were given in Quarter Sessions Court yesterday by Judge Harry H. Rowand to six young men for a series of holdups in East Pittsburgh and Turtle Creek last month. The convicted youths and their sentences were:

Steve Pushkar, 26, of 505 Talbot avenue, Braddock, seven to 18 years in the penitentiary.

Anthony Kuzniewski, 21, North Braddock, four to 11 years in the penitentiary.

George Petrick, 21, 310 Cliff street, East Pittsburgh, one to 4 years in the workhouse.

Joseph Soligo, 18, of 1316 Erma street, North Braddock, three years in the Huntingdon Reformatory.

Thomas Stead, 19, of 253½ Braddock avenue, Turtle Creek, three years in Huntingdon.

West Point Officers Get College Degrees

Two Pittsburgh graduates of the United States Military Academy, will receive degrees today from Mount Saint Mary's University, Fort Sam Houston, Tex. The officers, Lieut. Frederick R. Bent and Harold Hayes, are of the Army Air Corps and are stationed at Brooks Field. They attended the university night school, taking the regular course leading to A. B. degrees.

Court Hums as Husband, 'Other Man' Clash

Morals Court was thrown into an uproar today by a clash of principals in a domestic triangle.

The flare-up came when the husband, Charles E. Darnham, of 341 Arabella street, was accused by Theodore Burket, 24, of 226 Marland street, of having asked him "to see what he could do to help him get a divorce."

Darnham shouted at Burket:

"You ought to be hung."

Burket was being arraigned on the charge of entering a building with intent to commit a felony.

He had been arrested yesterday on complaint of Mrs. Darnham, who testified that he entered her home and refused to leave.

She told the court:

"Two years ago, he broke up my home."

Mrs. Darnham said she and her husband had been reconciled for two months, but that Burket had persisted in attempts to force his attentions on her.

Denying this, Burket insisted he was a frien dto both Mr. and Mrs. Darnham.

Magistrate Thomas D. Jones held the accused for court.

The Camera Question Box

Today's Question: Do such passing fashion features as sun-tan backs and bare legs have any effect on public morals?

Mrs. Solomon

MRS. V. SOLOMON, saleslady, Pittsburgh: Sun-back dresses and bare legs are quite all right on beaches and at resorts, but in any other surroundings they are quite out of place and should not be worn.

E. S. Dolaway

E. S. DOLAWAY, salesman, Oakland: I see no harm in sun-tan backs in dresses worn in the streets but I do think that bare legs are a little too much for such public places.

Mrs. Wilson

MRS. A. M. WILSON, milliner, East End: Yes, in my opinion, such extreme fashions have a decidedly bad effect on public morals. There are places for everything and the streets of a city are not the right places for bare legs and backs.

W. Lautenslager

WALLACE LAUTENSLAGER, salesman, Dormont: These fashions have a slight effect on public morals but no serious one. It is hardly any more important than the length of time such a fashion lasts.

Miss Stewart

MISS VIRGAL STEWART, saleslady, Homewood: The right place for sun-tan backs and bare legs is at the beaches, and I do not think they should be worn for street wear or business. The effect is obviously not a good one.

L. A. Schmidt

L. A. SCHMIDT, clerk, North Side: No, I don't think the effect of these fashions is a bad one at all. People are given to making too much of them and of exaggerating their bad points to extreme degrees.

West View Foregoes July Fourth Fete

The West View Board of Trade will forego its usual Fourth of July community celebration this year, according to announcement.

This is the second of the North Boroughs to take such action. Bellevue Board of Trade previously having voted to undertake no observance of the day. Avalon is planning a big celebration on the high school athletic field.

AUTO PARKING IN TRIANGLE DISCUSSED

Better Traffic Committee Scans Latest Survey in Effort to Map Rules

Parking in the downtown district will be discussed at a meeting of the Better Traffic Committee in the City-County Building tomorrow.

Surveys of parking in the Triangle were made by the traffic committee in 1927 and again in 1929, with modifications for 1930. The final report shows that parking space on the streets and off-street has grown from sufficient for 5,900 in 1925, to 13,500 in 1930. Of this total capacity, only 1,900 may park legally at one time on the streets.

FEW SHOPPERS PARK

The 1927 survey pointed out that 15.2 per cent of the shoppers of 48 typical stores in the downtown district entered the district by automobile. It also pointed out that only 2.8 per cent of all shoppers left cars at the curb while making purchases.

Frank L. Duggan, chairman of the committee, said:

"Many of our streets are now handling more traffic at peak hours than they can handle with efficiency and safety.

"Examples of this are furnished by figures gathered in the recent traffic count.

SPACE NEEDED

"The answer is that we need more space in which cars may be operated in the Triangle. The streets cannot be widened for this purpose without a huge expenditure of funds. Street parking, since it represents only a small percentage of the total number of cars parked in Pittsburgh and represents an enormous burden of dead space, is the easiest thing to eliminate. Such a method has been found to be highly beneficial for everyone in Chicago, and especially for the business establishments."

GOODWILL TOUR ROUTE GIVEN

Itinerary of the 1930 Goodwill Tour of the Chamber of Commerce, which leaves Pittsburgh September 23, was announced yesterday by Harry W. Neely, chairman of the special committee in charge. More than 100 representatives of business concerns in the Pittsburgh district will make the trip.

Stops will be made at Wheeling, W. Va., Cambridge, Newcomerstown, Coshocton, Zanesville, Marietta, Chillicothe and Portsmouth, O., Parkersburg, Huntington, Charleston, Clarksburg, Fairmont and Morgantown, W. Va., and Uniontown, Pa. In each city special programs will be prepared by chambers of commerce and other business organizations.

Besides Mr. Neely those on the committee are J. C. Roush, vice chairman; P. L. Andrews, George R. Aufderheide, Verner C. Boggs, William Bradford, Alan Chandler, Ephriam W. Curry, Harry Dangerfield, John D. Duff, L. F. Entriken, J. N. Ewing, A. D. Finkel, James B. Fisher, E. J. Lauth, F. H. Lewis, Sherman Massingham, William H. Oetting, Edward M. Power, Jr., W. DETAILS FRAUD, THEN FAINTS

Falling in a faint as he left the witness stand, George A. Coleman, of West Willock road, Brentwood, former bookkeeper of the Western Savings Bank, was carried to the first-aid room of the Court House. He later revived and was able to go home.

Max Green, of 1036 Lemington avenue, a tailor, is on trial, having been indicted with Coleman for conspiracy and as accessory to embezzlement of funds of the bank. Coleman pleaded guilty when the pair was arraigned before Judge Joseph M. Swearingen and took the witness stand at the call of Assistant District Attorney Ralph Phillips, who is prosecuting the case. He was cross-examined at some length by Attorney Charles B. Prichard, Green's counsel. Coleman said he had cashed numerous checks for Green during the last two years, the amount totaling between $17,000 and $18,000, when Green had no money in the bank. The transactions were concealed on the books.

M'KIBBEN NEW AD CLUB HEAD

J. M. McKibben was elected president of the Pittsburgh Advertising Club at the annual meeting of the club in the William Penn. He succeeds R. B. McDaniel. McKibben is succeeded as vice president by F. A. Weston. Secretary J. A. Cullison and Treasurer P. W. Morgan were re-elected.

Directors elected are J. C. McQuiston, R. B. McDaniels, B. L. Davis and D. J. Coullie. The officers will be installed next month.

NEED $220,000 TO COMPLETE GRADING

Director Brown Predicts Field Will Be Ready for Service in Early Autumn

Allegheny county will have to find $220,000 to finish the grading of the county airport. It developed during discussion of the port at the commissioners' meeting yesterday that to purchase 100 additional acres fronting on the Lebanon Church road, additional funds also will be needed. This land was condemned by the commissioners.

The port when finished will cost $2,220,000, according to Director of Public Works Norman F. Brown. It will be ready for use late in the summer or early in the fall, Brown said.

The $2,220,000 will provide the field, exclusive of hangars and other buildings. These will either be built by the county and leased, or built by private enterprises. The $1,500,000 bond issue and the $500,000 share that the city is to pay in the project will not be sufficient.

Heber Dithrich, county solicitor, said that the county will probably not have to pay this money until next year.

WOMEN TENDER SOOST DINNER

Magistrate William J. Soost, of the Eleventh Ward, was honored by friends, neighbors and political associates at a testimonial dinner in Snavely's Grill, East Liberty. About 500 persons were present. Soost, magistrate of Traffic Court, last week was elected city Republican chairman. The dinner was sponsored by the women voters of the ward in recognition of Soost's service as ward leader.

Mrs. Harvey Lowry, general chairman of the committee in charge, introduced Ben Giffen as toastmaster. Mrs. Eleanore W. McClymonds, chairman of the ward, presented the honor guest with a gift. Short addresses were made by President of Council John S. Herron, Judge Frank P. Patterson and Edward C. Chalfant, Congressman P. J. Sullivan, State Senator W. D. Mansfield, Alderman Harvey A. KING CAROL (LEFT) WITH HIS BROTHER, PRINCE NICHOLAS, IN ROYAL CARRIAGE DURING HIS TRIUMPHANT RIDE

Carol shortly after his arrival as crowds in Rumania's capital acclaimed him as an errant king come home to take his throne. Carol took the throne from his son, Michael, 7, officially proclaimed King of Rumania late in 1926.

PLACE IN RANKS GIVEN MICHAEL

BUCHAREST, June 18.—(INS.)—Crown Prince Michael, heir apparent to the Rumanian throne, will become a corporal in an Alpine regiment of the Rumanian army on his ninth birthday, November 7.

"The Little Corporal," beloved throughout the nation, will have had the unique experience of beginning at the top and then reverting to the second lowest rank in the military forces of the country. Until King Carol II returned to assume the throne, Michael, as king, was at the head of the army. Now, he is returning to begin where his father first served—in the same regiment and company.

Michael's new military career became known after discussions in the Chamber of Deputies concerning appropriations for the royal family's income. Proposal was introduced to give King Carol $750,000 annually; Dowager Queen Marie, $125,000, and Queen Helen and Michael, $45,000 jointly.

COUNTY PHONE SYSTEM VOTED

Allegheny County will have a modern inter-communicating telephone system in the new County Building costing $400 a month. The County Commissioners have different opinions as to the new system.

Commissioner E. V. Babcock, who made a motion that the system be installed, believes it is just what the county needs. Babcock said:

"We will be behind the times if we don't put in this system. Without it we will have to get more operators."

Commissioner C. C. McGovern opposed the new system, asking:

"Why did Congress just throw the dial system out? We can put more of our boys and girls to work if we use the old system."

Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong smiled at McGovern's remark. Armstrong always refers to the employes as "our boys and girls." He seconded Babcock's motion. It passed with McGovern asking to be recorded as voting "No."

Schools Hold Picnic At Kennywood Park

Schools of the Tenth Ward were at Kennywood Park today for an outing, with Samuel J. Potts and John Allen in charge of arrangements. This is also picnic day for the Garfield and Fort Pitt schools, with Mary G. Caulfield, principal at Garfield, and Louise B. Wright, Fort Pitt principal, in charge.

Schools of McKees Rocks, Stowe Township and Kennedy Township will hold outing tomorrow at the park.

REDISTRICTERS GET PART PAY

Having completed about half their work, members of the county redistricting commission have been ordered paid $3,500 each on account by an order signed by Judge Harry H. Rowand in Quarter Sessions Court. The final compensation is to be determined in a subsequent order.

Members of the commission are John T. Small, George E. Meyers, Howard Neely, David L. Lawrence, Charles Flinn, Mortimer B. Lesher, Joseph G. Armstrong, Jr., W. H. Ziefel and N. R. Criss. The former redistricting commission was paid $6,000 each.

The commission, which is dividing the county into a smaller number of voting districts before the installation of voting machines makes fewer polling places necessary, filed a partial report, setting forth that the work had been completed for Pittsburgh, McKeesport, Duquesne and Clairton. The Pittsburgh districts were reduced from 750 to 404, McKeesport from 48 to 33, Duquesne from 16 to 12, and Clairton from 16 to nine. Exceptions must be filed before June 27.

LIBERTY BRIDGE RAMP VOTED

A ramp that will enable inbound motorists to swing from the Boulevard of the Allies to the approaches to the Liberty Bridge was virtually assured when Council yesterday approved two ordinances putting the project into effect.

After some debate, in which costs figured ominously, the two ordinances passed without a dissenting vote. The cost of the physical work is estimated at $130,000, with $38,000 for property damage.

Council also approved the opening of Hampton street from Highland avenue to Farragut street, and the advertisement of the opening of Lebanon road, which is a continuation in the city of the county-state road from the new municipal airport.

Man Struck by Auto; Taken to Hospital

Nick Donacliski, 25, of 3010 Paulowna street, is in Allegheny General Hospital suffering from bruises after being hit by an auto today at the Boulevard of the Allies and Blockhouse way. The driver is G. W. Bauer, 23, of 912 Ivy street. No arrests were made.

TWO BOYS, AUTO VICTIMS, DIE

Fred Lerch, 9, of Pittsburgh street, Springdale, was killed last night when struck by an automobile driven by Harry Beckman, of McKean street, Butler, according to a coroner's report. Beckman was ordered to report to the coroner today.

A fractured skull suffered in an automobile collision at Hamilton and Dallas avenues, Sunday morning, caused the death yesterday in the Pittsburgh Hospital of Paul Predmore, 19, of 5821 Holden street, deputy coroners reported. Predmore was riding in an automobile driven by his brother, Joseph, of 522 Paulson avenue. He and J. A. Sentinger, of 4223 Geneva street, driver of the other car, are at liberty on $1,000 bail each pending an inquest.

Matthew LaBell, 45, of 3162 Griffith street, suffered lacerations of the head when an automobile in which he was riding crashed into a pole on Brown's Hill last night. LaBell was treated at the Homeopathic Hospital.

CHURCH TO SET STONE SUNDAY

Churchmen from many parts of the Pittsburgh district will attend the cornerstone laying of the $250,000 Mt. Lebanon Baptist Church Sunday afternoon. The principal speaker will be the Rev. Dr. C. W. Petty, of the First Baptist Church of Pittsburgh. The Rev. Edward Bleakney will preside.

The new church will have a seating capacity of 600 and a fellowship room seating 400. The first floor will be ready for occupancy in September. The building will be dedicated in November.

Lutherans to Hold Outing July 15

Lutheran churches and Sunday schools of Western Pennsylvania will hold their annual outing July 15 in Rock Springs Park, Chester, W. Va. Five thousand are expected to attend the affair, according to W. K. Hodgkinson, president of the committee of arrangements. To stimulate attendance a silver cup will be awarded to the church having the largest percentage of attendance.

APPROVE WATER WORKS FUND

Immediate action has been ordered to relieve the water shortage in the Squirrel Hill and Greenfield sections of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth wards.

Council yesterday approved an appropriation of $60,000 for immediate relief, pending final action on a bond issue proposal for $2,034,000 for water supply purposes.

The bond issue was recommended by the Department of Public Works. Mayor Charles H. Kline, expressing general disapproval of additional bond issues today, excepted the situation so far as the water works are concerned.

An emergency will stop the flow of water to the Squirrel Hill section under existing conditions, representatives of the works department told councilmen.

The $60,000 emergency appropriation will provide a new electrically driven pump at the Brilliant Pumping Station, a new booster station in a vault below Beacon street, and a new pipe line along Beacon street.

Council plans a conference with Mayor Kline and others on the bond issue proposal.

TAXI HEARINGS POSTPONED

Hearings before the Public Service Commission regarding extension of Pittsburgh taxicab service were indefinitely postponed today when both petitioners, the Hiland Taxicab Company and the Pitt Cab Company, asked continuances.

No explanation was offered by the Pitt Cab Company, said to be backed by J. R. Pierpoint. The Hiland Taxicab Company sought the continuance, it declared, because its attorney, Charles B. Prichard, could not be present at a hearing today.

Negro Gets 10 Years In Card-game Killing

Sentence of from 10 to 20 years in the penitentiary for second-degree murder was given Adrian Anderson, 25, Negro, of 2233 Liberty avenue, by Visiting Judge Charles M. Culver in Criminal Court today. On May 11 Anderson, in a fight over a card game, stabbed and killed Edward Boswell, 34, also a Negro, of the same address.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Nancy Craig Making Bow At Tea

Today really has the honor of ushering in that charming interlude, the little season, which one might say opens officially today with the debut of Nancy Scott Craig, daughter of the Mark Rodgers Craigs of Sewickley, who is making her debut this afternoon at a tea her mother is giving in the family home.

During the past few years the latter part of June has been a popular time for a few of the girls to make their debut bows instead of waiting for the overcrowded winter season.

The debutante will receive with her mother in the rooms of the home before an embankment of garden flowers. Garden flowers with yellow tones predominating are used throughout the home.

The bud is wearing a charmingly simple frock of cream lace and is receiving different gift bouquets during the afternoon and her mother has chosen a Patti blue chiffon gown.

Among the ladies is Elizabeth McKay who will make her debut on Friday and she is wearing a purple flowered white crepe dress. Shell pink grosgrain and net with a high waist and a bertha collar of net is being worn by Jane Arnold Sloan, a debutante of the past winter, with an eggshell lace straw hat.

Anne and Margaret Rose who made their debut a year ago in June are wearing similar frocks of flowered chiffon with beige straw hats. Ann Martha Edmondson is in pink and gray printed chiffon with a cape collar and two tiers of pleated chiffon forming the long skirt. Her picture hat is of pink organdie.

Other girls whom Nancy named as her aides are Barbara Irwin, Ruth Willock, Elizabeth Miller, Elizabeth Childs, Laura Colford, Margret Bull, Adele and Marianna Lippincott and Martha Leggate, all sister buds; Sylvia Robertson, Martha Edmondson Rosamound Fitch, Dorothy Jarvis, Katherine Colin, Rebecca Doyle, Susan O'Neil and Caroline Cuttenden, buds of the past winter.

As more and more folks succumb to Cupids darts weddings and engagements are becoming more and more numerous with each giving that day of romantic June.

To Wed Saturday

Today I want to talk about another June bride, Margaret Alexander Elliott, daughter of the William Swan Elliotts, of Woodland road, has named Saturday as the date for her marriage to Louis Eberhard Nehl, of New York.

The wedding will take place at 5:30 o'clock in the garden of the Elliott home with only the two families and a few friends as guests.

The bride-to-be is a graduate of Rosemary Hall and of Smith, class of 1926, and her fiance of Columbia, class of 1925. Their betrothal was made known earlier this month.

Beginning tomorrow and continuing through the first days of July, some charming buds will blossom forth in society. Nearly every day will bring either a debut party or an entertainment for the debutantes of the "little season."

Dance For Bud

Among these important dances will be that of Madelaine Alexander, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Maitland Alexander, of Ridge avenue, North Side and Sewickley, who'll be presented as I've said before at a tea her mother will give Wednesday, June 25 at "Franklin Farms," the Sewickley Heights place of the Alexanders and the William Christopher Robinsons, the debutante's uncle and aunt.

And after the tea Dr. and Mrs. Maitland Alexander will entertain with a dinner and dance for the younger set at Franklin Farms in honor of their daughter.

Madelaine will be home the first of the week from the East, where she has been attending the boat races.

There are over 100 entries already for the annual dog show to be held one day Saturday, June 28 in the showring of the Allegheny Country Club, Sewickley Heights. The event is a benefit for the social service department of the Allegheny General Hospital. At the show a Shetland pony will be raffled off.

Dog Show

Yesterday the committee in charge of the event held a luncheon in the Allegheny Country Club following a meeting. On the committee are Mrs. William Christopher Robinson, Mrs. Christian I. Shannon, Mrs. J. Frederick Byers, Mrs. Maitland Alexander, Mrs. A. Marshall Bell, Mrs. Lewis A. Park, Mrs. Thomas A. McGinley, Mrs. R. F. Jones III, Mrs. Alexander Laughlin Robinson, Mrs. Robert Milligan, Mrs. Henry B. Rea, Mrs. H. V. Van Voorhis, Mrs. William Baron Schiller, Mrs. Sidney Liggett, Mrs. George Crawford, Mrs. William Booth Tranter, Mrs. James H. Childs, Miss Martha Jamison, Mrs. Frank Ward Severance, Mrs. W. B. Mitchell, Mrs. B. F. Jones Jr. and Mrs. H. L. Mason.

I have still further news of social happenings that I can tell you of today. Col. and Mrs. Samuel Harden Church are sailing Friday on the Olympic for France, where Col. Church will represent the Carnegie Institute at the celebration by the French government of the twentieth anniversary of the founding of "France-Amerique," the department of French foreign affairs which seeks the promotion of peace and cultural relations between the people of France and the people of all the countries on the American continent. Twenty-two countries in North, Central and South America are to be represented and the celebration in Paris will occupy the entire week of June 30 and July 5 commencing with a dinner to be given by President Doumergue, to be followed by other meetings and discussions the following days. Prime Minister Tardieu is directing the arrangements.

But to return to that ever entertaining subject, entertainments for the buds. I've heard that the Benjamin Rush Townsends of Fairway, Sewickley Heights will give a tea dance on Saturday, November 29 in the Allegheny Country Club for their niece Barbara Perry Irwin debutante daughter of Henry Taylor Irwin of "Twin Hollow," Edgeworth.

There'll be entertainments for the women who'll be here for the two-day international golf tournament to open at the Allegheny Country Club Friday.

Mrs. James I. Schoonmaker Jr. of Sewickley will give a dinner tomorrow night and tomorrow Mrs. J. Boyd Rose will also entertain the women golfers. She'll give a luncheon in her home. On Friday evening there'll be a dinner at the Allegheny Country Club for the golfers.

Mrs. James I. Schoonmaker Jr., Mrs. Cyrus B. Miller and Mrs. Henry Clay Bughman will be hostesses to the women golfers who will either be guests in Sewickley homes or at the Allegheny Country Club.

The wedding of Miss Ariana Haymaker, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Edward Graham Haymaker of Winona Lake, Ind. and niece of the late John C. Haymaker of Pittsburgh, and Percy Lemar Osborne of Port Arthur, Tex., is taking place this evening at 8 o'clock in the Winona Presbyterian Church. Officiating is the bride's father assisted by the Rev. Frederick Comer, pastor of the church.

Miss Mildred Gochert is the maid of honor, and the matron of honor is Mrs. Willis Graham Haymaker. The bridesmaids include Miss Mary and Miss Eva Laurien.

Robert Haymaker, the bride's brother, is the best man, and ushering are Jack Preisch of Menominee, Ernest VanEssen of Winona and Donald Shaw of Warsaw. The bride's father, Charles Edward Haymaker, is the ring bearer and the flower girl is her niece, Martha Lou Haymaker. The bride is being given in marriage by her brother, Willis Graham Haymaker. There are to be songs by James Heaton and the church choir, and Mrs. Don Cochran and the music will be played by Mrs. Victor M. Hatfield.

The bride is wearing her mother's wedding gown of white silk and dewdrop tarlatan worn by her grandmother during the days of the Civil War. Her tulle veil, ending in a long court train, has a cap of old lace, worn by both her mother and grandmother, and she is carrying white lillies of the valley. The church is decorated with ferns, palms, peonies and pink roses. The bride's mother is wearing pale green georgette with iridescent bead trimming.

After the ceremony there is a reception in the church parlors for 255 guests with Mrs. Don Cochran in charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Osborne will leave for Beloxie, Tex., and after July 15 will be at home in Port Arthur.

Miss Haymaker is a graduate of Winona College. She was selected as the model for the Indian maiden, "Winona," at the college.

Press Club Fetes New President

The Women's Press Club had one of those delightful and informal affairs last night which so often mark the association of this group—a dinner in the Roosevelt Hotel honoring the incoming head, Miss Mary L. Hay, and her predecessor in office, Miss Marie McSwigan. There was no program only impromptu talks on vacation plans and other news of interest to the members. Mrs. Ambrose Nevin Diehl told of a visit she had made to the Denver Women's Press Club in its charming studio home and Miss Madelon Wildberg told of a recent reunion of former Press Club members at Miss Gertrude Gordon's home in New York City.

The vacation plans as outlined included everything from seashore trips and New England drives to teaching a daughter to cook, going to summer school, farming and painting Pittsburgh's gardens.

The club will give a luncheon Friday at 12:30 o'clock in the Woman's City Club in honor of Emily Newell Blair, lecturer and author.

One of the finest features in this month's Congress Outlet is an editorial which discusses most convincingly the non-political, non-commercial and non-sectarian character of the Congress. In the message of the president, Mrs. Ralph W. Johnston, suggestions for improving activities next year are asked. News of the various departments and of affiliated clubs and a letter of invitation to the Chicago Woman's Club all go towards keeping the current issue up to standard.

Congress Outlet

Of especial interest is the questionnaire which was used at the May meeting of the Carrick Mothers' Club—the series of questions relative to the club arranged by the president, Mrs. Robert A. Schneider, who offered three prizes for the best answers. The questions had to do with the club motto, the club colors, the club officials, federation, the various activities and departments of the organization, and space was given for each member to set down constructive suggestions as to the kind of work she prefers in the club, what she considered the most helpful meeting of the year and what subjects she would like repeated.

DESIGNERS PRESENT NEWEST FROCKS FOR WARM EVENINGS

—Sketched in Paris—

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, June 18 — Simply delightful for summer evenings is the best description that can be applied to one's frock destined for wear on torrid nights. For it is on oppressive evenings that most of us turn from the more elaborate type of frock and seek something that is cool, simple and yet sparkingly refreshing. Such a frock of simple material plainly cut with soft, graceful touches is neither to be classified in the formal or informal category. It is just a warm weather frock designed to give comfort without sacrificing good looks or chic and no woman should hesitate to obtain such frocks for her wardrobe, and to make adequate use of them.

SEMI-SHEER materials typified especially by georgette, are well in the lead this season, as the sensible compromise between the very sheer fabric and materials of heavy or close weave. Black georgette is ideal for summer days as well as evenings as it both tailors and drapes gracefully and well and doesn't crush easily which fact saves it from the sad and indifferent appearance that characterizes so many thin fabrics in hot weather. Many houses are showing frocks with little capes of black georgette relieved with touches of white that seem absolutely weather proof and are really awfully neat and nice.

AS A SUGGESTION for a cool, friendly little frock for summer evenings may we offer for your consideration a sketch of a frock depicting a Lenief model created for such requirements. It is of white mousseline barred in gray and black. The deep bertha forms a cap in back. The skirt is built in a series of tiers, irregularly placed and very circular and flaring. On the black satin ribbon belt are placed at one side, two large red flowers.

* * *

THE AFTERNOON frock of black georgette is from Cherruit. It has a removable cape which dips in a deep point at the back. There is a flaring cuff placed over a close undercuff of white silk pique matching the pique collar. The flaring overcuff, the cape and the skirt are timmed with horizontal folds each about one inch in width.

THE BIG HOUSE

By JACK LAIT

killer, but I'm no thief, you dirty little rat."

Kent looked at Morgan for corroboration and seeing only a level, unrevealing gaze, he turned to the cell door and called:

"Guard! Guard!"

Butch grabbed his shoulder with a vise-like grip. He threatened.

"You think you're in a Y. M. C. A.! Shut up, you little squawker—I'll wrap both o' your legs around your neck an' tie 'em in a butterfly bow-knot."

"Give me my cigarets," weakly protested Kent. The guard's steps were heard approaching. Butch flopped down on his bunk. Kent, rubbing his shoulder, went to the cell door.

"What's wrong in here?" called Sandy.

"He took my cigarets," whined Kent, pointing to Butch.

"He's all wet," complacently from Butch, who was removing his trousers.

"Did he take them, Morgan?" asked Sandy.

"I don't know—I was asleep, sir," from Morgan, who yawned and turned over.

"Now listen young fellow," warned the guard, "any more of this racket and you'll spend your first night in the hole."

"But—"

"Pipe down!"

The guard was gone. Kent turned toward Butch, who had arisen, a vicious leer on his face.

"You will yell copper, eh? Well, you're gonna get your first lesson in stir. Don't ever bleat, see?"

Butch let got a swift left jab which caught Kent on the jaw. The boy crumpled and sank to the floor of the cell.

"I only tapped him," said Butch, half apologetically, as Morgan leaped from his bunk, his lips tightened.

"Put him in his bunk," ordered Morgan.

Butch lifted the boy in his giant arms as though he were a cat, and laid him on the top bunk. Morgan, his eyes narrowed, waited until he had covered him and then caught Butch's arm.

"Now put those cigarets back in his coat," he said in a low, mandatory tone.

"Who? Me? I ain't got that Kid's ciggies. What's eatin' you?"

"Don't try to stall ME," and Morgan never lifted his voice.

Butch fidgeted, shrugged his shoulders and then grinned sheepishly.

"Well, I ain't no slicker like you, Morg," he said finally. "I did borrow them fags, but I'm goin' to return them, see?"

He took the package from his pocket. "Put them back," ordered Morgan. Butch stuffed the cigarets in Kent's coat and his investigating fingers found the photograph, which he promptly took out. He looked at it and whistled.

"Look at the floozy!" he exclaimed.

"Let me see."

Morgan took the picture in his hand. The eyes of Anne Marlowe looked into his with an honest, open gaze.

For the first time he felt ashamed. Her eyes seemed to rebuke him for the evils of his life and the worthlessness of his existence. It was such a knowing, understanding look. Morgan felt the blood rush up. Here was the thing he had so long been denied, and which he felt he wanted so badly—a lovely, good woman. This, he believed, was the woman of whom he had dreamt that evening. He would not part with this picture now for anything, and he would learn her name. She was too good for that whining weakling who had been thrown into this threesome where he played the baby act and couldn't protect or defend himself.

Butch had fallen into his bunk and had drawn the dirty blanket over his head. Morgan placed the picture in his blouse pocket. He crawled into his own bunk and stared straight above. The eerie, forlorn notes of taps trembled in the air. The guards began to call, one after the other, their "Nine o'clock and O. K.!" their voices trailing off into moribund cadences. The lights went out.

In the bunk above, the boy began to groan. Butch was already snoring loudly. Morgan, whose tortured thoughts gripped him, turned suddenly on his stomach and buried his face in his rude pillow and blubbered.

Ninety-one members of the Oakland Women's Club went out to the Pines yesterday for the club's annual luncheon. This is the one occasion in the year when all business is dispensed with and the members meet each other on a purely social ground. Mrs. Norval R. Mrs. Frey was the winner of the door favor, a beautiful rose pajama case made by Mrs. Daugherty. Table favors for bridge and bingo, which occupied the afternoon, were decks of cards.

The outing was in charge of a committee headed by Mrs. W. B. Gress, Mrs. J. A. Grace, Mrs. W. B. Early, Miss Barabar Hardiman, Mrs. Mary Kerr, Mrs. J. F. Campbell, Mrs. Arthur Morris, Mrs. James Williams, Mrs. Howard Neely, Mrs. Edwin Reed and Miss Emma Mullin.

WILL ENLARGE BEN AVON FIELD

The Ben Avon School athletic field is to be enlarged by acquisition of a tract adjoining the grounds in Emsworth Borough. Condemnation proceedings have been instituted and three buildings now on the tract will be removed by August 15 to permit grading of the new field by the time the fall term opens.

The addition will more than compensate for the loss of part of the present athletic field taken in construction of the Ohio River boulevard, according to school officials.

ITS TANG SAYS "HELP IS COMING!"

Once you try it, you are never long in doubt about the ability of PEBECO Tooth Paste to help you get the charm that white, gleaming teeth alone can give. It is far apart from sweet, insipid tooth pastes. You just feel from its delicate, "bitey" tang that it "means good." After a week you KNOW! The results—which include helping Nature check cavity-forming mouth acids by stimulating the flow of neutralizing saliva—are really amazing. Try it and see.

GIRL UNAFRAID

Ardeth Learns of Cecile's Suit for Divorce

CHAPTER IX

Something of the first fine edge of courage with which she had taken this headlong plunge, deserted Ardeth after the first few days.

Often in the weeks which followed she would find herself standing, her hand creeping to her throat in the old childish gesture of fright, her eyes large and dark. Once when she was sweeping the pine needles from the porch, the brown road, the long files of pines standing motionless in the morning sunshine, overwhelmed her with a sudden sense of unfamiliarity.

Another time she awoke in the middle of the night to hear the rain pouring on the cabin roof. She had been sleeping so soundly that for a moment she lost track of her surroundings; she fancied herself back in the flat with the Hallocks. The window was on the wrong place . . . Surely there was no window there . . . he must have moved the bed to a different position when she cleaned the room today . . .

Through the open door she could hear Ken's even breathing and the present flooded in with stabbing recollection. It was true . . . not a romantic dream after all. She was up here with Ken.

In such moments she could not whip up the proud defiance. Faintness passed like a cold wind through her. She smothered her face in the pillow and cried.

But in the morning waking to the long shafts of sunshine quivering through the pines . . . breathing deep of the tingling air, there was no room in her heart for fear or unhappiness. The dream still held her.

Ken Worried

On Ken as well was dawning the sense of reality. It was the rat of worry gnawed his heart in secret. The realization of Ardeth's sacrifice rushed in on him at moments making his heart leap. He wanted to shout in panic that she must go away—at once. A glorious, reckless thing to do. A dreadful impossible, splendid thing. But she must go away for her own sake! Oh . . . . too late. Too late in the scornful eyes of the world. He blamed himself bitterly and futilely as he lay awake in the dark. All very well to rant against narrow-minded critics, but now he had delivered this girl he loved into their mercies. They would tear to pieces the impulsive generosity of her. They would search her sweet frankness for ignoble motives. Soiling the fineness of her as hot fingers can bruise delicate petals.

When she appeared in the doorway of his room in the morning a gay little greeting on her lips his heart would ache in secret. Dressed in the plain aprons of pink or blue gingham which she had bought in the mountain store, her hair damp and combed in loose waves of dark gold, she looked like a good little girl freshly primped up for school.

He had hurt her . . . . he had hurt her . . . the knowledge beat through his thoughts like a doleful bell.

Ken Improves

As Ken grew stronger the note of tenseness in their relationship deepened.

For long hours now he sat on the porch in the morning sunshine or lay in the afternoon shadow of the cabin where the hill sloped away to a brown trout stream. Ardeth always nearby sewing or reading aloud from one of the books Tom faithfully sent up every week.

Ken was still thin, but there was a coat of tan now on his face and hands and the haggard look had left his eyes. He was very gay and bantering when he talked to her. They had adopted the laughingly belligerent poise of children who bashfully strive to conceal their true feelings.

Ken never kissed her now. Once when their fingers met both drew sharply back as though the contact had burned. Ardeth was startled to a little nervous laugh. Her eyes fluttered up to the man's fell away when she saw that he was watching her with eyes gone deep and intense.

The next moment they had themselves in hand. They were laughing at the antics of "Grumpy" the tame bluejay who had adopted them for the sake of the dinner crumbs. But there was a strained note to the laughter and in a moment the girl slipped away to the house on a pretext.

How long could they play the role, she was asking herself, frightened. How long . . . when she was so tinglingly aware of Ken in every drop of her blood. When his mere touch could rouse such shivering gladness in her heart.

She became rebellious and unhappy. She hated the murmur of the pines. They became the scandalous whispers of the women who had haunted the smokerie in the old days. Futile . . . trivial women like Jeanette . . . like Maida Durant . . . women half alive, poured into conventional molds. She raised her face in the sunshine and grimaced at them. Then she broke into startled laughter.

At Ken's questioning glance she exclaimed: "I'm growing foolish up here in the mountains, Ken. Pretty soon I'll be answering my own questions, like the old prospector who went by here the other day talking to himself."

But there was no answering smile in the man's eyes. He had guessed her thoughts.

One day as she stooped to draw the collar of his robe closer about his throat which they moved in the afternoon shadow the mask of reserve broke. She was suddenly in his arms, her head against his breast, eyes looking almost fierce into eyes.

"Where's your pride, you crazy darling?" he spoke through set teeth. "What are we to do when I'm well and we have here?

Letter From Tom

The pretext of camaraderie dropped from them like a cloak.

"I don't know, Ken," she whispered. "I've wondered."

"Now the fat is in the fire with us up here together," he said, and she could not even laugh at his unpoetical simile.

She was suddenly the reckless, generous giver. "Others have done it. I mean real people, people who care enough to defy the world. We'll go far away. We'll work together. We'll manage somehow."

"Ah, we've earned our happiness, dear."

He held her face between his thin brown hands and regarded it a little sadly. A sweet, vital thing . . . tenderly colored . . . easily hurt . . . He shook his head. "Can't get away with it, honey. We're not the kind to go sneaking about the world. What a mess it is . . ."

She drew away, trembling.

Silence fell like a curtain between them. A curtain neither of them dared to lift.

Ardeth tried to think of trivial things—the sensible little tasks of every day which were small anchors holding her safe. Prunes for breakfast to be set to soak. A list of things to buy from the store down the road. She must go down there; there would be mail waiting for them. It was the day for Tom's letter, for methodical Tom wrote twice a week regularly. Long careful, rather solemn letters. . . .

Happy Ending

A long legal-looking letter for Ken and a fat one from Tom for herself.

She read it as she walked back from the store along the brown dirt road. Ringing silence of the mountain afternoon about her, broken only by the scolding of the jays and the whirring of insects. Now and then a jeweled flash as a bluejay swooped from a pine tree with a rush of wings.

Then sunshine and pines and the ribbon of road were receding to a great distance and the mountain stillness seemed to buzz with voices . . . .

Ardeth was reading with eyes gone wide and dark and a heart which had set up deep pounding . . . . Tom's letter telling of the divorce suit which Cecile had an unexpectedly filed. Tom's letter bringing release making their world turn suddenly right . . . .

Ardeth found that she had gathered the precious sheets of paper close to her breast. She had started on a stumbling run to the cabin.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Thursday, June 19

Excepting for those matters concerning social, domestic and romantic interests this day may develop some hostile and unprofitable activities. Those in the employment of others are under an adverse influence and should be more careful in all dealings with superiors or those in positions of authority.

It is not an auspicious time for seeking favors or advancement. Also the finances are not under encouraging sway and may meet with loss or peril, either through loans, investment or speculation, unless well fortified.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a rather critical state of affairs during the year, with employment as well as finances in jeopardy. The latter should be protected in loans, investments and speculation. It is not a favorable time for seeking promotion or preferment from employers or those in power. Personal matters will be particularly lively and fortuitous.

A child born on this day should be popular and socially accomplished, but may have much to encounter in attaining satisfaction in employment or financially.

THE RIVALS— -:- Dark Humor or the Gentle Fair? -:- Drawn by NELL BRINKLEY

THE WORLD never tires of the battle over the dark and the fair. When I—and it must be so with all the army of artists making pretty girls for the subway and the Rolls-Regal travelers to look upon—when I I say make a fair bevy I am sure to get a plaintive letter from a girl with midnight hair telling me just why blondes are not all part of the world seems to think them. When I obligingly and happily dip the camel's hair in a big pot of the blackest ink made and make my beauts all gloom and sparkle, then—along comes a pale blue note with a silver monogram, and the pale-blue note wants to know if the artist happens to be dark herself—is that why she makes so many of the girls that are!

One day drifts in a letter from a young gentleman from Arizona, and he cries with enthusiasms and a flourish to his pen. "Give me the dark, vivacious girl with the French cheek-bones, the dimple, the roguish eyes, a sense of humor, and gayety; no placid blondes for me. They say they're not so placid when you know them better."

The next day "Believe It or Not Mr. Ripley," in slides another one from a young gentleman from Maine, and he vows with equal flourish and ardor, "give me the blue and gold blonde—placid—gentle—sunny, but serious. No dark stormy Medeas for me. Their eyes are like dark velvet, it's true, and mighty soft and bright and mysterious, but they say they are not so pleasant to fall into and drown oneself."

And so it goes—and never gets anywhere in particular, this verbal war. That's why Cupid rubs his hands together and is happy. What does he care—dark—or fair—so long as there is a Jim and John to like them both, and the best!

Love's Reawakening -:- Continuation of Loves Awakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Grandma Takes Hand in Adjustment of Boys' Scrap

My father looked up from his reading as William Harrison and I came back to the living room from the library and gave me a mirthful smile in which, however, there was a subtle something besides amusement, something which my knowledge of him translated as a mildly indignant commiseration.

"Where is everybody?" I asked.

"I fancy your mother-in-law and Roderick are in her room," he answered. "Richard and Junior may be there also. When you did not return within the —hundred seconds"—his lips twisted whimsically—"which she thought sufficient for your errand, she exercised her powers of the high justice, the middle and the low, and swept Roderick out of the room with her, demanding that Richard and Junior follow her. Richard waited a minute or two longer for you and then he too left here. But where he went I do not know, except that knowing your mother-in-law——"

He stopped abruptly with the patent disinclination to discuss the captious old autocrat before her grandson. But I could finish the sentence mentally. He meant to say that Dicky and Junior must have obeyed her summons, else she would have come back after them.

"I'll go right up," I told him, and went out of the room with footsteps which I tried to make brisk but which I knew were perceptibly lagging.

As I came into the upper hall I saw Mary and Katherine, sketchily arrayed in bathrobes, standing midway between Noel's room and Mary's.

"There seems to be a military engagement going on around here," Katherine said, and over her low, amused tones I heard Mother Graham's imperious ones raised in some command so rapidly put as to be unintelligible through the closed door.

"No, a pugilistic one," I answered.

Involuntarily I looked toward Noel's door and Katherine gave me the grin described as that of the cat which just has swallowed the canary.

He has the first healthy mad on I've seen him exhibit since he was ill," she said. "He loathes jazz, you know, and the concert downstairs started just as he was getting interested in a book, the first one he's looked at. That set him back up a bit and then, when the other ruction started, I heard him mutter a malediction on all boys. He didn't know I heard him—you know he's so darned polite he wouldn't make an oral criticism of another guest for worlds—but our little Noel swore and very emphatically, and the spirits of his nurse have risen perceptibly. I'll bet he's a good deal better in the morning, especially if Roderick and Junior keep this up a bit longer."

"They appear likely to keep it up all night," I retorted tartly as another howling protest rose from both small boys. But as I took a step toward my mother-in-law's door Mary put out her hand and grasped my arm.

"Why are you always the goat, Auntie Madge?" she said warmly. "Uncle Dicky and Grandma took those kids on themselves. Oh, I heard Granzie scolding about your not coming back and saying she would have to attend to the matter herself. Now why don't you let 'em go through with it? Do you know what I'd do if I were in your place? I'd beat it into my room and lie doggo. Then if they want you, they can come after you. I'll stay out here in the hall and if I see Granzie's door open I'll pretend to be just coming out of my room, and if she wants to know where you are I'll tell her you're in your own room. How's that for a scheme?"

Her eyes were alight with mischief, coupled with a very real desire to serve me.

"It's darling scheme, Mary," I told her, "and I'd love to try it. But I can't."

"No," Katherine said softly, as I turned toward my mother-in-law's door.

The Marry-Go-Round

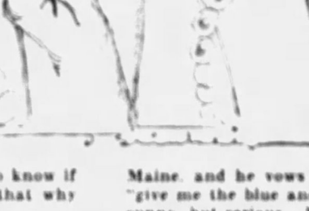
By HELEN ROWLAND

Mrs. Solomon Says—

Consider the bathing-suit, my Daughter.

* * *

For, amid all the new styles of nineteen-thirty, it shineth as the one bright ray of hope, in a dowdy world. Yet, it adorneth and enliveneth this summer of our discontent.



As a witty remark at a deadly dinner-party, it cheereth the spirit.

Behold, it is glorified, so that its inventor would not recognize his own brain-child!

It hath more "attachments" than a show girl, more "extras" than a Hollywood production, and more variations than a prima donna's temperament.

It starteth out in the morning as a yachting costume, and windeth up as a spot of color upon the crest of a curling wave.

It beginneth the day as a suit of pajamas, and endeth it as a pair of shorts or a suit of swimming tights.

* * *

It swatheth the form in concealing folds and graceful draperies at one moment—and bareth the spinal column to the sun-rays in the next.

Verily, verily, the Bathing Beauty of Nineteen-thirty hath become a lightning-change artist, who slippeth from one role and into another, from siren to mermaid, before the startled eyes of men.

Behold, she doffeth a hat and looseneth a button; she tosseth aside a cape or unhooketh a belt. And lo, she is transformed from a languorous lady in lounging costume, into a sea-nymph ready for the plunge.

* * *

For, such is the magic of the beach-ensemble, whose mysteries confuse and confound men, but delight the hearts of women.

Let us give thanks and sing hallelujahs! For, once again, MODESTY and feminine charm are in our midst!

* * *

Yea, the beaches are now things of beauty, which have blossomed forth as flower gardens in a riot of color.

No longer are they made hideous by rows of human legs and sun-tanned arms, which smite the eye with their unsightliness. No longer are they disfigured, by undraped "forty-eights" and uncamouflaged joints.

For, at last, the damsels have discovered that a LITTLE concealment lendeth charm to comeliness, whereas too frank a display of beauty maketh men only to yawn and turn away their eyes.

* * *

Then, give the fashion-makers their due, and sing praises unto the BEACH COSTUME of Nineteen-thirty, which hath brought sweetness and light and grace into a dull and prosaic world.

How to Keep Well

By DR. COPELAND

Early Training Helps Child

We are just beginning to realize the full importance of early training. Education must begin at birth and be most intensive during the first five or six years of a child's life. Most parents feel that a great responsibility rests upon them during these first years of the child's life. This causes them to deal with the problem in a wholehearted and intelligent manner.

DR. COPELAND

The parents must see that a child is properly fed and clothed. He must be trained to right habits of living. It is the period of character formation, and the spiritual values must not be overlooked.

The mind of a new-born baby is like an unexposed film. Beginning with the very first days of a child's life the mind records impressions received through the five senses. During these formative years parents have a wonderful chance to provide the right impressions. This is the period to plan correct habits of living.

This early home training will have lasting results in the child's mental and emotional life. It will stand him in good stead through all the trials and activities of later life.

Child psychology has taught us many things. The understanding of a child, his mental development, his moral and spiritual training, his behavior, his health—they are all matters better understood today than they ever were before.

Your baby's health is of paramount importance. Methods of bringing up babies have improved in the past generation. The child who does not thrive well should receive individual care and training.

Every mother should give her child the benefit of the wider knowledge on child care which is accessible now as never before. Mothers of children who need special attention now have the advice of trained workers—physicians, the visiting nurse, the clinic and hospitals.

It is vital to build solidly the foundations of child health. The habits and education of youth mean that the adult will be better fitted for the emergencies he must meet all during life.

Living conditions in every community are improving slowly but surely. Every one must help in making the world better. The water supply, milk supply, housing conditions, cleanliness of the streets and atmosphere, playgrounds, park systems, industrial conditions, hospital facilities, wages of the breadwinners, availability of medical and nursing care—all these must be made safe and sure. They must be looked after for the sake of the children and of the community.

The quality of citizenship may be measured by what happens to the babies and children.

Tell It to Sally

By SALLY MARTIN

What Happens When the Eternal Triangle Becomes Obstinate?

When Pop sidesteps the fireside and decides to be a regular devil with the ladies, who does the real pursuing—Pop or the other woman?

Gerda's right here to tell you that it's the female of the species, and none other. And Gerda should know. For her particular Pop has just been all through it.

Yes, maybe he did start it. But now he wants to stop. And come home to Gerda and be a good boy. But will the lady let him? She will not! She's having hysterics all over the lot, and just can't give him up!" And we're willing to bet our new lace mitts that it will be many a weary day before Pop goes chasing again!

"I am the wife of one of the pals of your column, and I've seen a lot lately about women falling for married men . . . and I want to say a word in defense of the men.

"You see I have been married for several years to a man whom I love, and who loves me, deeply and dearly. We've been through some real trials together . . . and weathered them all . . . including an affair he had with another woman.

"Dick is bitterly sorry for what he has done now, and wants to make a new start. I have forgiven him, and want to keep him, and he wants me. We have the dearest baby on earth, and we both worship her. And we have a lovely home, and we're good pals. And we could be very happy now, but for the fact that this woman absolutely refuses to accept the situation and leave Dick alone. She seems to have fully determined to leave nothing undone to separate us and get him, whether he wants her or not . . . This my husband say she will never do.

KNOW WHAT SHE'S DOING

"Now, Sally, when a married woman has an affair with a married man, she knows what she is doing. No married woman is so dumb that she doesn't know her way around. And it seems to me that if a woman has any self-respect at all, and really loves the man instead of herself and her power over him, she should be good enough sport to allow him to be the man he wants to be, and not play on whatever weakness she imagines he has, in order to try to hold him to her.

"There is nothing more deadly to a man's success than to have a woman stoop to hound him like this one has.

"My husband has all the faults of the average human, but he also has a profound desire to make up for his mistakes and live a clean life, and be happy in our home, as we were, and as we intend to be again. And we love each other and our baby, and I think we ought to be allowed peace. Don't you?

GERDA."

GERDA A GOOD SPORT

Before I answer, I'm going to hand you a big, shiny medal for being the best sport I've met in years, Gerda.

But take a tip from a friend, sister!

Don't overdo this charity act!

If you fuss over him much more and get much more worked up about this Hysterical Hettie of his—you'll have him thinking he's one of the world's great martyrs, instead of the common, garden variety of sap which he is.

Be loyal and loving—but don't try to fight his battles for him. Let him suffer a little. He has it coming to him. He started this ring-around-a-rosy. Let him finish it. If it finishes hard, so much the better. He won't be so eager to pick another little playmate.

Yes, I know that seems hard-hearted advice, Gerda. But it isn't. Many a woman has spoiled a perfectly good husband by trying to protect him from the consequences of his own idiotic acts. Your Dick seems like a Regular Guy. But it would take very little to make a first rate cad of him. And if you keep on kissing the bumps and calling her a Horrid Little Girl, that's exactly what will happen.

SPORT COMMENT

by JAMES J. LONG

Lopez Makes Dodgers. Deal Hinges on Grimes. Senators May Profit.

Bucs Begin Home Fight. East Outplays West. Jones' Big Contract.

ROBINS OWE MUCH TO YOUNG CATCHER

AFTER GIVING ALL due weight to the comeback of Glenn Wright, the improvement in Johnny Frederick and Walter Frederick resulting from a year of major league experience, and the reserve strength added by the acquisition of Mickey Finn and Gordon Slade, baseball men until recently were still unable to single out the main item that had transformed the Brooklyn Dodgers from a sixth-place club in 1929 into a league sensation and a pennant-race leader in 1930. But now they think they've found the big reason. Alfonso Lopez, the only full-blooded Spaniard in baseball, is believed to be the answer.

Alfonso Lopez.

John McGraw is one observing citizen who places the catching of this 21-year-old Atlanta recruit above every other factor that has entered into the rise of the Robins, and there are many who agree with him. Rarely has a kid catcher taken a big league by storm as Lopez has done. Excepting only the occasions when Hank DeBerry goes in to handle Dazzy Vance, the youngster is doing all the catching for the Robins, and already in his first year in the big show he has established himself as the best backstop to come up since Mickey Cochrane broke in five years ago.

SEEMINGLY LOPEZ DOESN'T lack a thing that should figure in the make-up of a great catcher. He moves around behind the plate in smooth and effortless fashion, throws with speed and precision and always to the right base, handles the pitchers like an old stager, and is wide awake and thinking ahead of the opposition all the time. But it's the spirit he puts into the rest of the team that counts for more than anything else.

He is continually on his toes hustling and fighting, and draws the others along with him in a way that makes the Robins look like a different club when their present fire and dash are compared with any spirit they ever showed in the past. He is a horse for work, as is attested by his record of having caught 132 games out of 153 played by Atlanta last year, is hitting .346, or 19 points better than his average in the minors in 1929, and in general comes close to being a whole ball team in himself. Without Lopez, the Dodgers would be anywhere but in first place.

IN ITS EAGERNESS to get rid of Burleigh Grimes and his two-year contract calling for $20,000 per season, the management of the Boston Braves finally consented to accept two Cardinal players instead of the three originally demanded in exchange for the spitballer.

This reduction in price accounts for the fact that the deal finally went through late Monday night after it had once been called off. As to which side is likely to profit by it that all depends upon the possibility of Grimes' pulling a comeback.

Burleigh Grimes.

IN HIS FORM of 1928 and the first part of 1929, Burleigh would have turned a club as strong as the Cardinals into a formidable pennant contender. But he has not been the same pitcher this year since the Pirates swapped him to the Braves. He has started nine games and has gone the route only once. He may take a brace with a stronger club behind him, otherwise the Cards will have lost just as much strength as Bill Sherdel and Fred Frankhouse present.

POSSIBLY THAT ISN'T a whole lot, as Sherdel has slumped since 1928 and Frankhouse would have been sent to the minors a few weeks ago if the Braves had not refused to waive, but at least the two appear certain to be greater value to Boston than was Grimes.

Burleigh is one of baseball's most widely traveled stars. He has been with five of the eight clubs in the National and with one in the American, and served two separate engagements with the Pirates. After a trial with the Tigers in 1913 he came back to the majors in 1916, and has since been shifted from the Pirates to the Dodgers, to the Giants, to the Pirates, to the Braves and now to the Cardinals.

THE OTHER TRADE put through just before the lid went down looks like one in which neither side gave up a great deal. Art Shires has not been very much more successful as a ball player this season

HOYLAKE, June 18. Two Americans and a Briton all equaled the course record of the difficult Royal Liverpool golf course on the first round of play in the British open championship today to make a three-way tie for first place.

The Americans Bobby Jones, of Atlanta, Ga., machine-man of golf, and MacDonald Smith, New York professional, combined with Henry Cotton, star British professional, to give ample demonstration that championship-plus golf will be called forth from the winner of the present tournament. All three took an even 70 strokes for their 18 holes.

Notwithstanding that the leaders all equaled the course record the hungry pack clamored at their heels with other American and British contenders trailing the leaders by a scant one or two strokes.

Long Jim Barnes shot a 37-34 for a 71, just one stroke behind Jones, MacDonald Smith and Cotton, and Fred Robson, professional Scotsman, had a like total while Horton Smith, Joplin (Mo.) youngster, and Norman Sutton, England, paired in third place with 72 strokes each.

Archie Compston, British pro who won the tournament medal, scored 74.

TWO YANKEES TRAIL

Of the small American delegation of eight, only two finished more than four strokes behind the pace-setters. Leo Diegel, American professional champion, and Don Moe, young amateur from Oregon, achieved advantageous positions by carding 74 each. George Von Elm and F. C. Stevens, Jr., U. S. amateurs, brought up the rear with an 81 and 80, respectively.

Cards of 74s and 75s literally fell all over the course, giving good indication of the kind of golf that was required for the contestants even to keep in the running today.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: DOUBLING THE SIZE OF THE ALTAR TO APOLLO—According to Philoponus, the Athenians were suffering from a severe plague of typhoid fever in 430 B. C., and were told by the oracle of Delos that Apollo required an altar in the form of a cube twice the size of the one existing. A new one therefore was constructed having each edge twice the size of the old one, but the plague was not abated. Suspecting some mystery, they applied to Hippocrates of Chios, who finally succeeded in reducing the problem to the determination of two mean proportionals: a:x=x:y=y:2a hence x2=ay and y2=2 ax. This is the equation of two parabolas and is equivalent to solution by means of conics. This problem, which is known as the Delian, is of great significance in mathematics, although it could not be solved by elementary geometry. The equation being cubic, the form 2n is inapplicable.

PIRATES LOSE SERIES FINAL TO PHILS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

Back home after a most regrettable Eastern trip, the Pirates today found themselves in sixth place as they prepared to take on the ambitious Giants. The only silver lining in the Pirate camp was noted in the return to Pittsburgh of Lloyd Waner, who was so stout he was bursting his clothes.

But Lloyd will not be considered as a performer before the Fourth of July, and Jewel Ens' woes continued to pile up when he surveyed his team to find George Grantham sick and Dick Bartell limping with a bad ankle.

MEINE TO HURL

Grantham was too ill to play against the Phillies yesterday when the Pirates took another defeat, 5 to 4. Bartell injured a weak ankle in going into second base. Ens stated he might have to open against the Giants this afternoon with Charley Engle at short and Ben Sankey at second. Heinie Meine will twirl for the Buccos. The foe probably will work behind Bill Walker.

Larry French pitched a one-run ball game for nine rounds yesterday, but owing to an awful collapse of the Pittsburgh defense and offense, the clever lefthander was beaten out in the tenth inning.

For the first time this year, the patient Ens was singing the blues as the Pirates came home this morning. Ens has seen six or eight of his star players go down with one thing or another, but to have to see his club kick away yesterday's contest behind the mound exhibition given by French was a little too much for the boss of the club. There was no note of bitterness in the pilot, however, in fact his face had a sort of a smile when he said:

"Well, when they start to fall down and get hit with line drives, I guess it isn't in the books to win. You can't get blood out of a turnip. Everybody on the team wants to win, but see what happens."

ENGLE BOOTS TWO

Grantham's illness forced Charley Engle into the lineup yesterday and it fell to the lot of the Local Man Sails With Tiger Crew

Charles H. Moore of Sewickley, a member of Princeton's 150 sculling crew, leaves today on the Aquitania for London, where his crew will take part in the Royal Henley regatta on the Thames River, July 2.

This will be the first time in history that a Princeton crew will compete in foreign waters. The Tiger scullers recently won the Joseph Wright Henley cup at Philadelphia.

Moore holds down the No. 7 position on the Princeton eight.

POSTPONED BOUTS JAM RING CARD

By HARRY KECK

Sports Editor

With the second postponement yesterday of the Tony Herrera-Eddie Elkins fight scheduled at the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, the local boxing situation once more is all jammed up with two outdoor shows scheduled within 24 hours. The Bowl will try to get its show off its chest tonight while Hickey Park Millvale goes on with its George Pankas-Tony Groves affair tomorrow night.

Hasty judgment exercised in calling off the show at Bowl alone prevented the Bowl from going through with its card last night for later in the day the sun came out and the sky cleared and the evening was ideal for an outdoor gathering. It was announced that wet weather today would result in definite abandoning of the show which would be a tough break for the boxers. Both Herrera and Elkins have been here since Sunday and have had to continue their workouts. They trained at different hours at the Pittsburgh Lyceum yesterday to keep from going stale.

GROVES LOCAL PRODUCT

The preliminary card for tonight stands as arranged with Johnny Willis of Erie and Johnny Chiodo of Johnstown in the eight-round semi-final and Georgie Bretsch of the North Side boxing Casey Hayes of Homestead and Al Iovino of Swissvale meeting Sammy Paris of the Hill in the two six-round preliminaries.

It develops that this fellow Tiny Groves first name Walter who boxes Panka at Millvale is a former Pittsburgh district athlete although he does his fighting out of Detroit. He formerly resided in Natrona and played on the Natrona Olympics football team and the Natrona Falcons basketball team. He is a 200-pounder and comes highly recommended as an opponent who may be expected to make Panka step his fanciest to win.

With the signing of U. S. Carpentier to take the place of Jack DeNeri in the eight-round semi-final, the card was completed yesterday for the Hickey Park show. Johnny Haggerty meets Mose Butch in the second bout and Al Becker makes his professional debut against Billy Brent in the opener. It is one of the best balanced cards of the season at the popular new arena.

Between Rounds

The Batting Gloss: Mickey Duke [illegible] scheduled for last night at Johnstown was another one that was postponed because of rain. They'll meet tonight. Duke [illegible] is matched to box Chet Smallwood again at East Liverpool, O., next Wednesday night.

Pete Latzo and Larry Johnson do their stuff again in the 10-round main bout of a show at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, tonight. Yale Okun boxes Harry Smith and Nick Palmer meets Jackie Aldare in two 10-round supporting bouts.

Paul Doyle, of Canton, will meet an opponent to be named in the main bout of a show at a new arena at Meyers Lake, O., on July 4.

Danny Dillon and Al Taylor have been matched for one of the preliminaries to the Tiny DeHart-Chuck Burns bout at Lorain, O., June 21.

Johnny Corbett and Tommy Mooney meet at Windsor, Canada, tonight. Both Touchstone boxers. O. Tom Johnson at Ypsilanti, Mich.

A new addition to the local battle rosters is Eddie Nemaks, of Louisville, who will be seen in action shortly against the leading featherweights and lightweights. He claims to have fought Nick Quagarelli, Tony Lapomi, Mario Bisogno, Young Rudy Johnson, Sparro Biffi, DePaw, Jimmy Hood, Harry Forbes and Roots Astley, among others. He is being managed by Whitey Whitworth and Walter Kolb, who also have Dave McCorkell under their management and ready for action.

A sore [illegible] in his arm caused Young Stribling to ask for a postponement of his bout with Otto Van Boxel, scheduled for Chicago tonight, until Friday night, and it was [illegible] granted. The promoters report an advance sale of 21,000 tickets for the show.

Henry Lenard, of Chicago, who knocked out Tony Leone, of Dover, O., in the first round of their bout at Chicago last Monday night, has been substituted for Leone against Johnny Dunn, of New Kensington, at Wheeling next Monday night.

Willie Davies, of Cleveland, knocks Rocky Pare, of Cuba, in the main bout of 10 [illegible]

BACK FROM A disastrous Eastern trip, on which they won only four games out of 13 played, dropping to sixth place and to a point only one game above seventh hole, the Pirates will have to make a far better showing in their 19 straight contests here than they made during their last stand at home if the slide is to be checked. For of their 23 previous games at Forbes Field they won only 10, and they were particularly unsuccessful in the home series against the East, in which they won only three games while losing eight. They can hardly fail to do better this time, though there can be no assurance of a lasting improvement until there is a return of steadiness and stability around second base and in center field.

IN BOTH BIG leagues the East won the intersectional series that ended yesterday. In the National it was a slaughter, the East winning 34 games to 18 for the West. The Giants won nine and lost three, the Phillies won 10 and lost five, the Dodgers won eight and lost four, and the Braves won seven and lost six. Of the Western teams, the Cubs won eight and lost five, the Pirates, who after all did better than Cincinnati or St. Louis, won four and lost nine, the Cardinals won three and lost nine, and the Reds won three and lost 11.

In the American League the East wound up with 26 wins against 25 for the West. The Yankees saved their division by winning nine games against only three lost. The Red Sox won six and lost seven, the Athletics won six and lost eight, and the Senators won five and lost seven. On the Western side, the Indians won eight and lost four, the Browns won seven and lost seven, the Tigers won six and lost seven, and the White Sox won four and lost eight.

ONLY ONE AMERICAN golfer ever won both the amateur and open championships of either this country or Great Britain in the same year, a feat that Bobby Jones is now attempting on the British side by going after the open title at Hoylake, following his recent victory for the amateur honors.

The lone American to score a double win in one year on either side of the Atlantic was Chick Evans, and it was in his own country that he turned the trick. He won first the United States open and then the United States amateur in 1916.

Chick Evans.

NO AMERICAN HAS ever captured both British titles in one year. In fact, even among Great Britain's own players, only one has ever succeeded in doing that, John Ball, Jr., having accomplished it in 1890. If Jones can get away with it, therefore, he will have done something that no other American ever achieved, besides reaching the half-way mark in a far greater feat of history-making that he is attempting in 1930, that of winning all four major titles of this country and Great Britain in the same year. Bobby himself has won all of these titles at different occasions, but nobody ever held the four at one time.

As Donie Bush points out, the White Sox have a first baseman in Bud Clancy, did not need Shires, who was recently benched, and therefore have gained a pitcher and a catcher. But at that the Senators may have an edge in the end if Shires can be handled successfully and brought to his senses. They were not being helped a lot by Braxton or Tate, and Shires will at least serve to plug a hole at first base if anything happens to the ageing Joe Judge.

Nick Altrock Says:

WASHINGTON, June 18.—I see that Boston is in eighth place in the census so that makes it unanimous. The Red Sox have not had any luck since last month when a rainy day prevented them from dropping a doubleheader. Now their luck has changed. They go looking for four leaf clovers and they get poison ivy. I asked Heinie Wagner, the manager, what was the trouble. He said they go through a game all right except they always have one bad 15 minutes. Well, that's all Bluebeard's first wife had. If I was down as low as the Red Sox, I'd claim foul.

Joseph Horne and Dravo will offer the feature game on the local sandlot program this evening. While the Reliance Life has the league first-half title pretty well sewed away, the clubs are still fighting for the position behind the insurance nine. Manager Stitzinger has gathered together a good club to play on the Neville Island lot and when the second half rolls around a different story may be told.

This also goes for the Horne team. Sam Craig and A. H. Burchfield, Jr., have played all of the Horne games on the road in the first half. This naturally is tough on the team. In the second half all of the teams will make two trips to delightful Camp Horne.

ETNA COLLEGIANS MEET

One game will be played in the Central League. Allegheny Collegians and Etna will clash at the Isabella Furnace grounds. Etna is not leading the league but many of the managers feel that the Allegheny River club is the toughest in the circuit. Etna has been beating all of the leaders and Tommy Carson's club will have a tough row to hoe this evening.

In the City League, the Jimmy Smith club goes to Woodman Field to meet W. O. W. while Pleasant Valley meets St. John's. Incidentally, the fact that the Saints are withdrawing from the league is more than gossip. Secretary Everett Stevenes has a letter on file awaiting action by the City League, announcing the withdrawal from the league at the end of the first half.

FINTEX GAINS GROUND

Fintex added further strength to its claim for the first half title in the Central League by defeating Etna last evening 7 to 4. In the City League, Pleasant Valley won over W. O. W. 3 to 1 and the North Side Civics walloped J. L. Thomas 15 to 3.

The Methodists won from the Presbyterians in the Crafton Church League 10 to 2. Verona defeated Reliance Life 6 to 2 and Universal won over Edgewood 8 to 7 in the Greater Pittsburgh circuit.

Wilmerding nosed out Dermont 2 to 0 in the West Penn League serving the Dormonters their first league setback. B. and O. won from Joseph Horne, 1 to 0, in the C. and I. League.

GRAYS DOWN HOMEWOOD

In the North Side Twilight League, Ingomar downed Troy Hill 2 to 1 and Immaculate Heart walloped St. Boniface, 8 to 2.

The Homestead Grays defeated Homewood 3 to 2 in a leading independent fusale. North Borough Collegians defeated the East Pittsburgh Cards 2 to 1 and Primrose won over Lawrenceville Reserves, 13 to 3.

Sport Vignettes

Believe it or not, but the latest story is that Tommy Loughran, who took that pasting from Ernie Schaaf in Philadelphia the other night, is on the verge of being broke, having given away most of his money in quiet philanthropies . . . How's this for a solution of the fouling epidemic in boxing? . . . Give the boxer claiming the foul a substantial rest period and make him continue the fight and fine his opponent a sizable sum for the first offense and disqualify him for a second foul and withhold his purse entirely and suspend him for a long stretch? . . . In case of doubt, or a suspicion that the claimer of the foul is shamming, count him out without hesitation, as they did in the good old days when few big matches were lost on fouls . . . Have you noticed, by the way, that few preliminary bout boxers claim fouls? . . . A New York scribe advances the thought that Mickey Walker, the middleweight champion, and a stiff puncher, would have a good chance to become heavyweight champion against the present crop of contenders and asks "Why not?" . . . Why not? is correct . . . It is taking away nothing from Max Schmeling to state that he would have had his hands full beating George Panka or Al Fay, the Pittsburgh district's two hopes, on what he showed against Sharkey fighting for the championship . . . In all of the hullabaloo about the big fiasco of last week not a word is mentioned about punishment of Joe Jacobs and Johnny Buckley, managers of the rival principals, for the young riot they staged in the ring before a crowd of 80,000 . . . Their actions smacked of the intimidating days of seconds before the advent of boxing commissions . . . Not long ago, a local manager was suspended for 90 days for entering the ring to pick up his fighter after the latter had been knocked out, the charge being that he might have incited a riot . . . Contrast that with the bulldozing methods of Jacobs and Buckley in the New York ring and it's still a lot of bologny . . . The grapevine reports are that George Godfrey is to go into the tank for Primo Carnera in their bout in Philadelphia next Monday night, to be the eighteenth "knockout" victim of the Ambling Alp's "triumphant" tour of the United States . . . Godfrey, of course, denies this . . . We'll know better next Tuesday morning just what is what . . . Life is getting to be more uncertain all of the time . . . Here we are in the midst of the British Open golf tournament and have no idea who will win it because Walter Hagen, winner of the event four times, is not defending his laurels . . . And Bobby Jones, who is in the field, has won it only twice . . . See next Sunday's Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph for Knute Rockne's first all-America intercollegiate track and field team. Maybe Pete Bowen, the big bimbo, will be on it.—HARRY KECK.

GIANTS FACE BUCS TODAY

Memphis graduate to make an error that led to all the damage.

A moment after he had booted one ball Charley fell down on another roller, the slipup setting the stage for a three-run inning. Not one of the tallies was earned in the strict sense.

And in this same game French came through with a line hit to right field with Al Bool on first and nobody out. Bool, however, neglected to get out of the way of the drive and he was out, much to the chagrin of himself and the whole club.

So it was this kind of goings-on that finally made Ens emit a mild protest over his luck. Down deeper, Ens probably figures that his ball team, especially around second base, is very much on the second-division order. But Jewel has nowhere to reach to strengthen the condition.

Before the Pirates went into spring training this same Ens remarked:

"Show me a club that has a pair of clever workers around the middle of the infield who can make double plays and I will show you a team that has a chance to get somewhere."

WEAK AT CENTER

Ens today elaborated on this theory:

"A club with championship designs has to have skill all the way through from the catcher over second and right through to center field. I must admit that we have been weak at all three of those straight-line points. Our catching hasn't been so hot, the second-base action is unsatisfactory, and many a game has been lost in center-field."

There is not a thing to be done right now. Lloyd Waner undoubtedly will straighten out the centerfield trouble in time. It might be well to state that hard-hitting Fred Brickell has played brilliant ball at times but there is only one Lloyd Waner in the league. Ens intimated that the second-base situation had him stumped and he is worried about his catching department.

RAIN KEEPS LOCAL COURT STARS IDLE

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN,

Staff Correspondent.

CLEVELAND, June 18.—Once more demon rain has put quietus upon hostilities in the Ohio State Tennis championships on the courts of the Cleveland Tennis and Racquet Club here, long-threatened downpour arriving yesterday afternoon just as action was about to commence.

As a result, although five singles tilts were completed in spite of the drizzle, none of the Pittsburgh delegation on hand for the Buckeye tourney and the United States Inter-City doubles has as much as delved into his luggage for equipment.

None the less, the Steel Citians have not all stood still. Sam Keller, former Duke varsity ace, advanced a notch by default of Harvey Jacobson, while Byron Baur, 1928 Pitt leader, did likewise at the expense of Bill Brown, Ohio State University luminary, who failed to arrive from Columbus. Today Keller will joust with Francis Stanton, No. 2 performer of the Yale freshman squad, and Baur will await the outcome of a match involving two local players, Milton King, Kiski captain, who was entered from Pittsburgh, did not appear and was defaulted to J. J. Fox, home entrant.

In the few engagements actually finished yesterday, seeded satellites were uniformly successful. George Jennings, Chicago southpaw and national public parks champion, registered in love sets over A. R. Wood, of Cleveland, with Cliff Marsh, blond Buffalonian, flashing splendid form to overwhelm Bud Tracy, Ohio State University contender, 6-1, 6-0. Kirk Reid, veteran Clevelander, outhitting and outstreadving Bill Stocker, husky Elkhart youth, won 6-0, 6-1.

M'CLURE SHANNOPIN LEADER

SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS

GREGG WINS SENIOR TITLE AT OAKMONT

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

Wright McClure, Chartiers Heights, paced the early finishers in the annual invitation tournament of the Shannopin Country Club today with a score of 77 and was the favorite to win the qualifying medal in the 18-hole test. Although almost certain to be the medalist McClure will be unable to go through the tournament proper and has withdrawn.

Right at the leader's heels was his brother, George McClure, also of Chartiers Heights, who had a 78. John Harper, likewise of Chartiers, and F. G. Bannerot, Pittsburgh Field Club, were tied for third with 79. The scores:

Wright McClure	37	40	77
George McClure	40	38	78

The favorite, Dr. George T. Gregg of Oakmont, national senior champion, wrested the Western Pennsylvania senior championship from the grasp of the veteran George Ormiston yesterday, winning the annual tournament played over his home course with a card of 79-4—75. Gregg turned in both a low gross and net score. C. B. Hollingsworth finished second with 84-14—73 and Ormiston, T. S. Jamison and G. A. Gill tied for third with cards of 79.

Ormiston's gross 86 was good for second with Hollingsworth third with 87.

Oakmont fared well in carrying off the prizes, Hultonites capturing the first four places. A field of 100 senior players competed, ranging in years from 55 to 81. J. C. Auffhammer, the eldest player, had a score of 129-28—101, which is not to be sneezed at. The scores follow:

WILKINSBURG WINS

The Wilkinsburg service clubs came through to cop the Bunker Hill inter-community tournament at the Edgewood Country Club yesterday, its six-man team scoring 511. Braddock was second with 517 and Swissvale third with 602. The Pittsburgh Rotary copped the club event with 286. McKeesport ranked next with 277 and Homestead was third with 275.

C. W. Harding and J. H. Euwer had the low gross honors for the day, each scoring 80, while D. C. Ulrich, W. D. Bowers, J. N. Whitaker, Fred Smith, Harry Mitchell, E. C. Stroebeck and G. A. McDonald shared in the kickers' handicap prizes, all having net 79s.

St. Clair and Chartiers Heights Country Clubs are staging an inter-club team match at the Chartiers Heights Country Club today. A field of almost 200 is playing.

Tomorrow a big two-ball mixed foursome tournament is slated for the Edgewood Country Club. A field of more than 200 is expected to compete, according to Professional Jimmy O'Donnell.

'LITTLE POISON' NOW BIG

LLOYD WANER — PAUL WANER

Lloyd Waner and his "big brother," Paul, of the Pirates, as they appeared on their return to Pittsburgh with the Pirates today. Lloyd gained 30 pounds during his convalescence in a Baltimore hospital and no longer is "Little Poison," of the famous "Big Poison" and "Little Poison" batting act.

L. WANER GAINS IN WEIGHT

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

You can't tell 'em apart now without a scorecard.

That is the Waners, Paul and Lloyd, outfield stars of the Pirates.

Lloyd, the "kid" brother, used to be known as "Little Poison," while Paul was known as "Big Poison" because of their batting proclivities.

Today, Lloyd came home with the Pirates from a Baltimore Hospital, where he has been convalescing for his general rundown condition, following his operation for appendicitis last winter. And, well filled out, and with the bloom of health in his cheeks again, he scaled 156 pounds in his street clothes, only one pound less than his "big brother," and was a half-inch taller.

When he entered the hospital five weeks ago, Lloyd was down to 126 pounds with his clothes.

Lloyd isn't ready to play just yet. He still is a bit shaky in the knees and will be on the bench for possibly two more weeks. After his adenoids and tonsils were taken out in Baltimore, Lloyd was placed on a big menu of nutritious foods, with the result that he gained almost 30 pounds. His clothes were ready to burst when he arrived with the Pirates from Philadelphia this morning. Paul offered him an extra suit, but Lloyd spurned the offer as he wanted to show his friends how his own clothes appear on him now.

Paul told his brother, with a smile:

"You'd better hustle and get better—I'm hittin' almost .400."

Lloyd retorted:

"Well, I'm hittin' a cool thousand."

And he spoke the truth. He batted once in a pinch this season against Pat Malone and made a hit for a perfect percentage.

BELLAIRE, O., June 18.—Markley Barnes, former University of Pittsburgh football star, has been named assistant coach of the local high school gridders.

JONES, COTTON, MAC SMITH SHARE LEAD

Jones, including scores of women fans to whom Bobby is almost if not quite the hero that he is in his own country. A dozen women enthusiasts anxious to get pictures of the great Bobby in action, began snapping their cameras while Jones was addressing the ball on the first tee. The clicking shutters annoyed him and, after a moment's impatience, he stepped aside and asked the women to please refrain from taking pictures while he was making a stroke.

After the first three holes today, Bobby's play was more like that of a machine than ever before. He retrieved bad shots seemingly just as easily as he made good ones, and but for the fact that his ball lipped the cup eight times on his round his score today probably would have been one of the most sensational rounds of golf history.

BOBBY NERVOUS AT START

A gallery of 2,000 or more trailed Jones as he went to the first tee. The Atlantan started nervously, broke his stance when something distracted his attention, took a walk around the teeing ground and tried again. He cut the corner of the dog-leg start too close and found a bunker. His third was just off the green to the left. He chipped well and took 5 on the par 4 hole.

Jones played his second from the rough at the second hole, but got his par 4. At the third he was down in par 5, taking three of them from the edge of the green. He got his par 3 easily at the fourth and just missed a birdie 3 at the fifth, where his 20-foot putt hung on the very edge of the cup.

Jones got his par 4 at the sixth and was down in the customary 3 at the seventh, his putt for a 2 just twisting out of the cup.

The eighth he played in regulation drive, approach and pitch, which almost went down. On the ninth he laid his iron second 10 yards from the pin and took two putts.

HOLES 25-FOOTER

Bobby holed a 25-footer down an incline for a birdie 3 at the tenth. He failed to reach the green at the short Alps eleventh, but chipped almost dead for his par 3. Playing his second shot safely to the twelfth, where he was bunkered the other day for 6, he went for the other side of the green too strongly, chipped inaccurately and took 5 on the par 4 hole. He got his par 3 at the thirteenth and a birdie 4 at the fourteenth.

He hooked his drive to the fifteenth, sent his brassie into a bunker. His long putt for a 4 hung on the lip of the cup and he took 5. He found rough at the sixteenth, played a great brassie hole high, two putted from seven feet for a 4.

Bobby holed an 18-foot putt for a birdie 3 at the seventeenth and needed a par 4 at the home hole to score 70 and lead the field. His card:

Out ... 5 4 5 3 4 4 3 4 4—36
In ... 3 3 5 3 4 5 4 3 4—34—70

VON ELM OFF FORM

Von Elm met disaster early in his round, after starting fairly well, the Detroit star took nine strokes at the fifth hole where he was bunkered. He steadied himself long enough to shoot par golf on the next three holes, but ran into more trouble at the ninth, where he needed 6 which brought his total for the first nine holes to 43.

Coming home, three 5's marred his card of 38, his 81, barring sensational golf on the next three rounds, was expected to put him out of the running for the title. His cord:

Out ... 4 5 5 2 9 4 3 5 6—43
In ... 4 4 3 4 5 4 5 5 4—38—81

MOE FINISHES STRONG

Moe experienced all sorts of trouble on the first nine when he used up 39 strokes, but he came home in fine style, shaving par figures by a stroke with a 35.

Out .. 5 4 4 3 5 5 3 5 5—39
In ... 4 4 4 3 4 3 4 4 5—35—74

Horton Smith suffered a bad start, taking a 5 at the first hole and a 6 at the third. He reached the turn in 37, with a 2 at the fourth and then five 4s in a row.

Smith's 6 at the third followed a visit to a bunker and then to high grass near the green. He dropped a six-foot putt for his deuce at the fourth. Although he three-putted the short seventh, he nearly holed a pitch for a 3 at the long eighth.

Horton played perfect coming home except at the fifteenth where his second carried over the green. A clap of thunder sounded as he putted from 12 yards for a 3 at the seventeenth. He missed the 3 but got par 4.

From the fourteenth to the eighteenth he played copybook golf and should have had a 70 for the round except for the bad breaks at the start of the round. His card:

Out ... 5 4 6 2 4 4 4 4 4—37
In ... 4 3 4 3 4 5 4 4 4—35—72

MOE GETS GREAT START

MacDonald Smith, played the first nine holes in a sensational 33, with six 4's and three 3's on his card, but he had to finish with a rush to tie Jones and Cotton. After taking 5's at the fourteenth, fifteenth and sixteenth holes, he was faced with the necessity of playing the last two holes in seven strokes to get 70. He negotiated a par 4 at the seventeenth and then sent home a putt of 18 feet at the home hole for his birdie 3.

He had only three 5's in the 18 holes but had the trio together, one representing a stroke over par. His card:

Out ... 4 3 4 3 4 4 3 4 4—33
In ... 4 3 4 4 5 5 5 4 3—37—70

DIEGEL TROUBLED

Diegel reach the turn in an uneventful 37 and began his homeward nine 3-4-4-3. At the tenth he sank a three-yarder for his birdie 3 but at the short eleventh he only just reached the green with his tee shot, over-ran the pin two yards with a long putt and needed 4.

He was forced to take three straight fives at the fourteenth, fifteenth and sixteenth. At the fifteenth he topped a brassie shot and was lucky to escape a bunker, but was far short with his chip, leaving a 10-yard putt which failed to drop. At the long sixteenth he was again short.

After a par 4 at the seventeenth, Leo pulled his drive at the home hole almost into a motor car park, but recovered and was in the regulation two putts. He finished with two par 4s. His card:

Out ... 4 5 5 2 5 5 3 4 4—37
In ... 3 4 4 3 5 5 5 4 4—37—74

Stevens slipped badly after a great start and returned a score of 80. He played the first nine holes in 35 strokes. His card:

Out .. 6 4 4 3 4 4 3 3 4—35
In .... 6 4 5 3 5 6 5 7 4—45—80

DOWNPOUR ADDED HAZARD

A sprinkle of rain as Jones finished developed into a downpour as Horton Smith finished and Barnes and Mac Smith started. Cotton's playing was featured by the straight, long drives which he repeatedly sent screaming down the middle of the fairways.

A par 4 at the eighteenth would have enabled Cotton to slip a stroke under Jones and make a new course record, but he took 5. He pulled his tee shot to rough and his iron shot rolled into a bunker. He was well out, but missed a six-foot putt for the par.

Out ..... 4 4 5 3 3 4 3 4 4—34
In ..... 4 2 4 3 5 4 5 4 5—36—70

BARNES FINISHES STRONG

Barnes went out in 37 strokes in spite of a 6 at the eight and started home with birdies at the tenth and eleventh.

He was too strong with his third at the fourteenth and drove into the rough at the fifteenth, but he holed a long putt at the sixteenth and his mashie pitch to the eighteenth hit the pin. His card:

Out .. 4 4 5 2 4 5 3 6 4—37
In ... 3 2 5 3 5 5 5 3 3—34—71

Giants Get Option On Coast Flash

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 18.—(AP.)—The New York Giants have been given a 36-hour option of Myril Hoag, sensational Sacramento outfielder, Owner Lewis Moreing, who gave the option yesterday morning, is reported to have asked $75,000 for the young outfielder.

Glenna Collett, Mary Browne To Play Here

Glenna Collett, national woman golf champion, and Mary K. Browne, famous tennis and golf star, will play in the Allegheny Country Club invitation tournament here Friday and Saturday, according to Mrs. J. M. Schoonmaker, Jr., chairman of the committee in charge of the event.

The field of 75 select women stars that will compete over the Allegheny links also will include other golfers of national repute, as well as the best in Western Pennsylvania. Play will wind up with a big driving contest Saturday afternoon.

ENTRY HEAVY FOR TENNIS, GOLF EVENTS

The golf and tennis tournament editors, who are in charge of the third annual Western Pennsylvania junior amateur golf tournament for the William Randolph Hearst Trophy and the first annual public parks tennis tourney, sponsored by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, literally are being swamped by the deluge of entry blanks that each mail brings to their desks.

From present indications, it appears as though a record entry will be on hand for the golf tourney, and an entry of surprising size, one that will force tourneys in years to come to step right along, will compete in the net event.

The golf tourney is open to all amateurs, 19 years of age and under, not attending institutions of learning above preparatory school grades, including caddies 17 years of age and under. In the case of the latter, if the club at which they caddy is within a 20-mile radius of Pittsburgh, they must qualify in a caddy tourney at their respective clubs.

The boy and girl who emerge victors in the tennis tourney will be sent as guests of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph to the national public parks championship in Washington, D. C. The tourney will get under way Monday, July 14.

The golf tournament will be played over the Schenley Park public links July 7.

SCOTTIES LOSE CLOSE FRAY

In a fine hurlers' duel, Fairmont defeated Scottdale at Scottdale yesterday 2 to 1 in the Mid-Atlantic League. Slaughter had the best of Clough in the close contest, two runs in the first inning providing the Diamonds with enough margin to win.

At Cumberland, Johnstown downed the Colts 6 to 4. The veteran southpaw, Chuck Trader, held the Colts safe.

Pitt Track, Tennis Players Get Letters

University of Pittsburgh track and tennis stars were awarded their letters yesterday, varsity and freshmen receiving their awards.

Varsity tennis letters were awarded to Edward Jacobs, captain; Dave O'Laughlin, Morton Baker, Milton Cohen, Irving Goodman, Walter Adler and Manager Sidney Rosenberg.

Varsity track awards went to R. F. Bowers, captain; Edward Kashiwa, Everett E. Utterback, Willard Harris, Robert Alberta, Gerald Vitulla, James Jeppe, Leon, and Mechanic, Raymond V. Kopinski and Elmer Myers.

Freshman tennis awards went to William O'Laughlin, Enos Jones, Joseph Tatala, Eugene Solow, Robert Jonas and Manager Jerome Rosenberg.

Large Orders Increase Pipe Output

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

ORDERS FOR LINE PIPE placed recently will keep most of the mills in operation at a high rate for a period of several months. Outside of this field, however, business in the Pittsburgh district has continued the drifting course of the past few weeks.

Further curtailment has taken place in steel production. This district is working at about 70 per cent of capacity. The decline in steel mill operations follows the normal seasonal trend.

Steel prices are still weak. Quotations are being maintained more firmly in some lines but the temptations of attractive orders still result in shading where many companies are concerned.

Steel Earnings

IT APPEARS CERTAIN that predictions of smaller earnings for steel companies in the second quarter will be born out. Not only will profits be substantially lower than a year ago but sharp declines will be reported in comparison with the first quarter of this year.

In a few cases second quarter earnings will not follow the general trend as a result of special circumstances. One of the independent pipe producers will earn as much as a year ago. This will be due to the booking of a large volume of business which has kept the company's plants working at a very high rate. While prices of the finished pipe are lower, the company's cost of semi-finished steel has also declined. Tin plate is the only branch of the steel industry which is producing at practically the same rate as a year ago and which has not suffered from price cutting.

Auto Production Declines

REDUCED MOTOR CAR production has been an important factor in holding back the activity of many types of manufacturing companies in this district. It has been estimated that the output of cars in the first six months of this year will be 1,000,000 less than in the corresponding period of last year. In the first half of 1929 3,413,804 cars were produced.

The estimated automobile production for the six months will be slightly greater than in the corresponding period of 1928. The fact that production has been concentrated in a few makes of cars has tended to accentuate the declines in the output of many producers.

Railroad Buying Reduced

THE ABSENCE OF NEW ORDERS for railroad cars is becoming apparent in the operations of some of the equipment makers. Westinghouse Air Brake has been curtailing forces at its Wilmerding plant. To compensate for this, however, its subsidiary, the Union Switch and Signal Company, has been increasing its pay roll.

The makers of building materials are feeling the absence of any great volume of construction work. Last year residential building was in a slump but a good rate of industrial and commercial construction helped sales to some extent. This year all classes of building show sharp reductions as compared with last year.

Stock Exchange Topics

General Motors Report on Sales for May Held Quite Favorable.

The General Motors report on sales to dealers and to consumers during May was looked upon as quite favorable, making due allowance for the fact that the corporation is feeling the full force of competition of its greatest rival this year. Domestic sales to dealers last month reached 136,160 cars against 132,265 cars in April, and 175,873 units in May, last year. That every effort is being made to provide against possible overstocking of dealers, is evident from the fact that domestic shipments ran only about 4,300 units in excess of dealers' sales to consumers, totaling 131,817 units last month. Five months' sales to dealers, including exports, reached 666,779 units against 971,114 units in the corresponding period last year.

This week's consolidation statement of member banks reporting to the Reserve is interesting chiefly in that while it shows loans against securities by New York banks reduced by $123,000,000, such advances are found substantially higher in other leading centers such as Chicago, Cleveland, Frisco and Philadelphia. In consequence the net contraction in the combined loan figure was reduced to $41,000,000. Commercial borrowings were reduced again by $32,000,000, the combined total of time and net demand deposits increased by $74,000,000. These banks sold freely of government securities held as investments and evidently placed funds so realized in other forms of security.

Best prices on the rebound in stocks were attained along about mid-afternoon yesterday when it was reported from Washington that an important statement relative to the new tariff schedules would be issued after the President had affixed his signature to the measure. Report had it that Secretary of the Treasury Mellon had forwarded his report on the new schedules to the President, and that the views of the treasury head would be made known. Inasmuch as it is generally assumed that he is in sympathy with the new legislation, it was expected that his

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

STOCK SELLING WAVE DUE TO 'NERVES'

Recent Episodes of Fright Bear Little Relation to Long-Term Trade Outlook

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, June 18.

Wall street has recently been witnessing the reverse side of the emotional fluctuations which dominated late last summer.

It was perhaps to be expected, in the light of economic history, that the financial public which showed emotional excesses during the period of whirling stock prices even to new heights would again show a lack of restraint in times of falling markets.

The recent episodes of fright bear little relation to cool economic analysis and give no important clue to the longer term business outlook. They are connected, of course, with the prevailing gloom over current business.

Irrespective of longer trends the speculator who put himself out on a limb has suffered severely if he has operated on the bull side. In recent weeks short selling has become unusually popular and much of the selling has been of a weak and uninformed character. But the vulnerability of the speculative price structure has also reflected the reluctance of informed financiers to hurry to buy.

At the very climatic moments of weakness the buying has come mainly from three sources. First from short sellers who took profits by buying back stocks which they had previously sold without possessing. Secondly support buying, which is temporary in character, from banking interests desirous of keeping the liquidation orderly and third investment buying. The last type of buying is the most significant but evidently has been placed on a downward scale.

PAYING PRICE

In the emotional excesses at the market place in recent years the country has been paying a price for the new democracy in finance.

The wide diffusion of ownership of corporate securities has made the stock market subject to mob psychology rather than to the arbitrary dictation of a small financial clique. As long as an oligarchy could pull the strings in Wall street, there was the reassurance that order would quickly follow temporary chaos.

Prof. F. W. Taussig of Harvard University, recently raised the question whether stocks did not have too much liquidity nowadays. He wondered whether modern facilities did not make it too easy for the capitalist to flit from one enterprise into another. The question is one of immense importance, and the answer depends on a very subtle analysis of new tendencies which are not fully understood.

The country of course pays a price even for its reforms. For example, before the war, critics of Wall street considered the alleged money trust a hazard to the liberties of the people. Before the panic last fall Wall street suffered from the absence of a money trust. Instead of central, co-ordinated direction of the market place, there was excessive competition and anarchy in the matter of creating new security issues. The over-issue of new securities last September was one of the immediate causes of the panic in October.

CASE OF "NERVES"

The bursting of liquidation through the dams of restraint after President Hoover announced he would sign the tariff bill is more an indication of the state of nerves of professional Wall street than an evidence of cool analysis. Though this column shares the views of scientific economists to the effect that the new hodge-podge tariff law is bad, it is inclined to believe that the adverse effects on the volume of business and on profits have been greatly exaggerated by political discussion. As a matter of fact, from the immediate standpoint, getting the measure out of the way will release business, which has been held up by uncertainty as to what the schedules would be.

The immediate economic outlook is hardly inviting to the new crop of hopefuls who are being graduated from the high schools and colleges of the country. Developing men, especially leaders, is a long-term proposition, and it is to be hoped that the great corporations will take on their usual quota of graduates in spite of present temporary trade recession. Those graduates who are in position to spend another year at fruitful post-graduate work would doubtless find it much easier to get placed a year hence. Those who start to work now will at least have the satisfaction of knowing that they are setting out when business is at the bottom, and that doubtless the next major swing will be upward. They will probably be operating in a rising market.

The true investor, with surplus funds to invest, should still adhere to a balanced financial diet, with reserves of cash, short and long term bonds, preferred stock and a diversified array of common shares. Recent dips have created buying opportunities for the long-term holder of high grade investment stocks.

Have Faith in Future Of U. S., Forbes Urges

By B. C. FORBES

THE EASIEST and most popular thing to do is to follow the mob. Whenever you hear a different and valuable thing be prepared for derision.

The writer was severely criticized by Wall Street a few months ago because he did not foresee the wild boom which ushered in the recent devastating collapse. But those who then were in partial or full accord with the purchase of stocks was recommended after panic-liquidation had run its course. Mute reference to what the recovery had become a few weeks too rapid criticism was soon hurled at the writer for advising profit taking.

Now because the view was expressed here some days ago that stocks purchased for the long pull would show substantial profits by and by several brainy gentlemen send Ha Ha communications — unsigned.

The statement has been repeatedly made here that the writer never under any circumstances attempts to even guess what the stock market will do any one day or in any one week or in one month. Any human being who could do that could make himself richer than Rockefeller in quick order. It simply can't be done.

There are times, however, when anyone who has closely followed the history of the financial world and particularly of the stock market over a long period of years cannot but form an opinion as to whether the future is likely to bring distinctly lower or distinctly higher quotations for the majority of good stocks. Of course even then the view taken may prove wrong.

I for one happen to have sufficient faith in the future of the United States and of ably-managed American corporations to believe that sooner or later sound stocks will sell well above even the best quotations touched during the last few weeks.

THE RATHER turbulent happenings of the last few days have not shaken that faith.

Rather have solid stocks become more attractive the lower they have fallen.

THIS IS SAID with full consciousness that even lower levels may be temporarily registered. Indeed when the writer recently mentioned that he had bought a few stocks "perhaps foolishly" he added that it would not be illogical for stocks to drag and sag during the summer. The severe drop experienced on Monday and for a spell yesterday means that there is that much less room for later declines.

I have long noticed, however, that any Smart Aleck who tries to buy at the lowest eighth and who waits to sell until there isn't one more eighth left usually gets left.

This column makes no pretense to appeal to speculators who jump in and out of the market every hour or every day. Tips "good for the day only" are never ventured here. The writer has never bought and sold the same stock in one day in his life and has no intention of embarking on any such superficial course now. He has found a much more conservative policy reasonably profitable.

NOTHING would be easier than to paint dark pictures at this juncture. The improvement in general business conditions which had been hoped for by this time has not materialized. Agricultural prices are distressingly low. The general price level still tends downwards. Unemployment is unpleasantly widespread. Industrial and even mercantile profits are far from satisfactory in most instances. Railroads report relatively light traffic and still lighter net earnings. Second-quarter reports will, on the whole, be uninspiring. More dividends will be reduced or passed. Mercantile failures are disagreeably numerous.

Oh, yes, the boom of yesteryear has not returned.

AS FOR STOCKS, new low prices for the year have been scored by the hundred this week. Not a few stocks are below their panic minimum. Nor does the public give any indication that its appetite for stocks has returned.

THEREFORE, the easiest thing in the world would be to join the pessimistic chorus and to weep on every convenient shoulder.

But it is exactly at such a time, experience has proved, that courageous foresight pays.

Have faith in the future of America!

AMERICAN HIDE TARIFF AID EXPECTED

Uncertainty Is Eliminated; Duty on Calf Leather to Equalize Production Cost

BOSTON, June 18.—Unsatisfactory conditions have characterized the upper leather industry for several months but all things considered American Hide and Leather Company has had a fair volume and has been getting its share of business.

Sales of side leather and patent leather have been below normal but volume of business in calf has held up fairly well.

Passage of the tariff bill should eliminate much of the uncertainty which has prevailed in the leather business and is quite likely to stimulate leather sales by domestic tanners. The foreign raw material market has probably already discounted the proposed 10 per cent duty on hides and skins.

HELPS COST POSITION

American Hide and Leather should especially benefit from the 15 per cent ad valorem duty on calf leather as imports of calf have been running about 50 per cent of domestic production. It is not considered that this duty is high enough to shut out foreign calf but it helps largely to equalize the difference in production costs in the United States and abroad due to lower foreign wage scales.

Wage scales are substantially higher in the tanning industry in the United States than in foreign countries but labor efficiency, output per worker, is considerably greater.

MARKETS IMPROVED

American Hide and Leather will close its fiscal year June 28. It is too early to determine just what the results of the last quarter will be and whether or not it will be necessary to make an inventory adjustment. Raw material markets are stronger than they were a few weeks ago and this gives ground for some encouragement.

The last report of the company covering the period of 36 weeks ended March 8 showed a net profit of $179,911 after depreciation, interest and reserve for taxes against a net loss of $1,026,159 in the same 1928-29 period. It is likely this will be reduced by the results of the last quarter of inventory adjustments but it is probable that the company will at least break even for the year and perhaps show a small profit.

Smelter Reduces Lead Ten Points

NEW YORK, July 18.—The American Smelting and Refining Company reduced the price of lead from 5.50 to 5.40 cents a pound.

Sales of Ethyl Gasoline Gain

NEW YORK, June 18.—Monthly sales have been more than [illegible] gallons of ethyl gasoline for the 12 months ended May 31, last refiners' reports show. This is an increase of more than [illegible] gallons over the total consumption of ethyl gasoline for 1929.

WARNS AGAINST GRAIN GLUT

MINNEAPOLIS, June 18.—Storage elevators in Minneapolis and Duluth-Superior held 50,621,181 bushels of grain and screenings as of June 5 compared with 44,232,859 bushels at this time last year, an increase of 6,388,150. This includes wheat, corn, barley, rye, oats, flaxseed and spelt.

First movement of winter wheat crop in the Southwest was a reminder that in less than 90 days first wheat from the spring areas should be moving. Relief to be found either than in the possible development of export or other demand that will start grain eastward over the Great Lakes is still conjectural. The Minnesota State Railroad and Warehouse Commission has issued a warning pointing out the situation and predicting congestion of serious proportions unless farmers hold back their new crop grain at marketing time.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Slump — Local Stocks Decline

MANY MARKET LEADERS SINK TO '30 LOWS

Stocks Slump Steadily With Numerous Losses of 3 to 15 Points Recorded

NEW YORK, June 17.—(AP.) Stock prices drove steadily lower during the forenoon trading today and numerous leading shares tumbled to new lows for the year at losses of 3 to 15 points. Absence of support encouraged large short sales and there was also considerable liquidation which affected all groups including the highest grade investment shares.

American Telephone sold at 209, a. 964. U. S. Steel got down to 191, New York Central to 158½, and American Can to 116½, all new 1930 minimums.

Allied Chemical dropped 15 points, Columbian Carbon 13, Auburn Auto 10, Worthington Pump, American Tobacco B and Eastman Kodak 6.

YOUNG FAVORS BRANCH BANKS

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 18.—America's banking system must be revamped to meet changing economic conditions and the logic of events forces us to conclude that branch banking within limited areas is a reasonable concession," Gov. Roy A. Young of the Federal Reserve Board declared today before the Minnesota Bankers Association.

Although declaring that the unit bank which has been the basis of the American banking system for many years always will have an important place in the financial structure, Young asserted he personally concurred in the general recommendations of Comptroller of the Currency J. W. Pole that national banks be permitted to extend branches throughout trade areas surrounding them.

ELGIN WATCH EARNINGS LOWER

Business Depression and Cost of Enlarging Sales Organization Cut Profits

CHICAGO, June 18 — Elgin National Watch Company's net profit for the four months ended April 30 was about one-half that of the corresponding period of 1929. The showing resulted from the business depression, due to greater sales expense and the dealer competition of watch makers, it was explained by Company officials in their annual report to stockholders.

POSITION IMPROVED

While earnings for the first four months has declined, the company has taken active steps to improve its position, officials said. The company's net profit for the first half year was $1,000,000, the last half DeForest Bruce predicts. Earnings for the normal year, he predicts, will compare favorably with 1929 results.

DIVIDEND OUTLOOK

Large percentage of Elgin's business is done in the last half of the year and as a result, earnings and dividend requirements are seldom earned in the first six months. Although profits have been hit harder the first part of the year than for many years, officials believe that the regular quarterly dividend of 62½ cents per share on August 1 will be declared at the directors' meeting scheduled for the latter part of this month. Whether or not the additional extra dividend which was declared at the December meeting of the board will be paid depends on results for the balance of the year.

OUTPUT CURTAILED

Production is now running close to 3,500 watches a day, which about conforms with the schedule adopted in the spring of 1929 when output was curtailed. No change in the production rate is likely at this time as it is the company's policy to manufacture ahead of seasonal demand.

Prices for products are stable and although around the low point afford the company a reasonable profit.

Houston Dividend, Stock Split-Up Approved

HOUSTON, June 18 — Directors of the Houston Oil Company of Texas have declared a dividend of 75 cents per share on the outstanding 1,200,000 shares of common stock, payable July 15 to stock of record June 30, it was announced today.

The directors also approved a split-up of the stock on a two-for-one basis, increasing the outstanding shares to 2,400,000. The dividend declared today is the first since the outstanding stock was split on a two-for-one basis in 1929. Earnings of the company for the first quarter of 1930 were $1,000,000, compared with $1,300,000 for the first quarter of 1929. Net income for the year 1929 was $4,000,000, against $3,900,000 in 1928.

CAR LOADINGS UP FOR WEEK

WASHINGTON, June 18 — Revenue freight loadings for the week ended June 14 totaled 1,000,000 cars, the American Railway Association announced today. This was an increase of 19,000 cars above the preceding week, but a decrease of 129,000 cars below the corresponding week of 1929. Loadings for the week ended June 7 totaled 981,000 cars, a decrease of 1,645 cars below the corresponding week in 1929. Loadings for the week ended June 14 totaled 1,000,000 cars, a decrease of 129,000 cars below the corresponding week in 1929. Loadings for the week ended June 21 totaled 1,000,000 cars, a decrease of 129,000 cars below the corresponding week in 1929.

Bond Men to Hold Outing on June 23

After luncheon at Schenley, in the William Penn Hotel, the Bond Club of Pittsburgh will suspend its regular weekly meeting until September. Luncheons around will be taken up with a discussion of arrangements for the annual outing of the organization to be held June 23 at the Westwood Country Club.

Board of Trade Suspends Company

CHICAGO, June 18.—Directors of the Chicago Board of Trade suspended from trading privileges the Rural Grain Company and its market operators, E. V. Maltby and S. J. Cottington, a director and first president of the government-sponsored cooperative, the Farmers National Grain Corporation.

The action followed receipt of notice from Mr. Cottington which said:

"Owing to irregularities discovered in the conduct of our business, our capital has been exhausted and we are unable to meet the demands of our creditors."

Firms Ask Wool Storage Permit

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 18.—Permission of the Interstate Commerce Commission to store thousands of tons of raw wool in Buffalo has been asked by the Minnesota-Atlantic Transit Corporation and the Great Lakes Transit Corporation. They gave as their reason the lack of demand for wool in the eastern factories, making it necessary to store the wool until prices increase.

Decision Favorable To Texas Ports

GALVESTON, Tex., June 18.—Texas ports won an advantage over New Orleans when the United States District Court handed down a decision authorizing lower freight rates to Texas ports on commodities originating in Texas, Oklahoma and Southern Kansas where the distance to New Orleans is 25 per cent greater than to Texas points.

Western Sugar Co. Advances Prices

CHICAGO, June 18.—Great Western Sugar Company has advanced prices of refined beet sugar to a .50c per pound basis in all territory west of Chicago.

Mexico Produces Less Oil During Month of May

MEXICO CITY, June 18.—Crude oil production in Mexico during May amounted to 3,350,935 barrels, valued at 6,420,792 pesos, compared with 3,319,393 barrels, valued at 6,750,528 pesos, during April, according to an estimate by the Department of Industry, Commerce and Labor. Last month's production was 273,457 barrels less than yield in May, 1929.

NO. 272.

AN ORDINANCE—Granting the Pittsburgh Railways Company, its successors, lessees and assigns, the right to construct and maintain a canopy over the junction of Sycamore and Smithfield streets in the City of Pittsburgh, subject to the terms and conditions herein provided.

WHEREAS, The Pittsburgh Railways Company is engaged in the operation of a system of street railways in the City of Pittsburgh including a line extending over and along Smithfield street, to and through the tunnel of the Mt. Washington Tunnel Company; and

WHEREAS, for the safety of pedestrians, street cars, and other vehicular traffic the Pittsburgh Railways Company desires to construct and maintain a canopy over the north portal of said tunnel of the Mt. Washington Tunnel Company, at the intersection of Sycamore and Smithfield streets, said canopy to be designed to catch stones, blocks and other debris which may fall from the hillside directly over the portal of said tunnel.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That the Pittsburgh Railways Company, its successors, lessees and assigns, shall have the right, and they are hereby authorized to construct and maintain a canopy over the north portal of the tunnel of the Mt. Washington Tunnel Company at the junction of Sycamore and Smithfield streets, in the City of Pittsburgh, said canopy to be constructed and maintained in accordance with plans to be approved by and in a manner satisfactory to the Director of the Department of Public Works of the City of Pittsburgh.

SECTION 2. The Pittsburgh Railways Company shall bear the entire cost of construction and maintaining said canopy, and all work incidental thereto shall be performed in such manner that the flow of traffic on Sycamore and Smithfield streets shall not be impeded thereby.

SECTION 3. Pittsburgh Railways Company, its successors, lessees and assigns, shall indemnify and save harmless the City of Pittsburgh from any and all claims for damages to property or injuries to persons which may arise from the construction, maintenance or operation of said canopy.

SECTION 4. The rights and privileges hereby granted shall be without and subject to the express condition that the City of Pittsburgh, its successors and assigns, reserves to itself the right to cause the removal of said canopy, or any part thereof, whenever in the opinion of the Director of the Department of Public Works of the City of Pittsburgh the same shall become dangerous to the public travel, or shall interfere with the proper use of the street or sidewalk.

SECTION 5. That the foregoing rights and privileges are granted subject to the payment into the City Treasury of the sum of Five Hundred Dollars ($500.00) and each year thereafter the sum of Twenty-five Dollars ($25.00) as rental for the use of the City's property.

SECTION 6. That the said grantee shall file with the City Controller its written acceptance of the provisions and conditions of this Ordinance, and shall deposit with the City Controller the certificate of acceptance of the provisions hereof and certificate to be executed by the said Pittsburgh Railways Company, with its corporate seal attached.

SECTION 7. That the said grantee shall be responsible for and save harmless the City of Pittsburgh from any and all claims for damages to property or injuries to persons which may arise from the construction, maintenance or operation of said canopy, and shall indemnify

DAILY TRUE STORY

"For Pete's sake, do you have to smooth out every wrinkle?"

"It was closing time at the big Bemis store. Lulu Gilmore stood waiting for her chum and roommate to put the linen cover over her counter.

Avis Lincoln, the chum and roommate, stood at [illegible] the counter, [illegible] and patted the last fold of the cover in place.

They [illegible] putting [illegible] a soft blanket of dust into the [illegible] trance, [illegible] and wriggled [illegible] upstairs [illegible].

Lulu was [illegible] home and [illegible] she had [illegible] around a [illegible] and [illegible] and Avis [illegible] dinner [illegible].

However, [illegible] anything [illegible] At the [illegible] Seventh Street [illegible] about [illegible] their ea[illegible].

For Pete's [illegible] being [illegible] Central Pete," Lulu [illegible].

"Hush, please, [illegible] hear you. Avis [illegible].

They got [illegible] walked up [illegible] room.

"Who is [illegible] he all right?" Avis asked as they were [illegible].

"Sure, he's all right. I met him at Mother Clarke's party; he's swell, that's all.

"But what's [illegible] does he do? And you can't be [illegible] isn't married, [illegible].

I don't [illegible] himself, he's [illegible] and gentlemanly and [illegible] a nice friend for you, when I took him I didn't [illegible] go out with him [illegible] I knew him better."

Mr. Holden arrived. He was quite dapper. He introduced a Mr. Sharpe who [illegible] and genial and who proceeded to call Avis "Girlie."

Dinner and Dance

Avis got a chance for a swing with Lulu.

"I don't like his looks and he's been drinking and he's kind of fresh—guess I'll say I got a sudden headache and can't go out," Avis whispered.

"And bust up my nice party?" For Pete's sake, you can't do that!" Lulu whispered back to her.

The men had a rail. They took the girls over to a place for dinner and dancing. It wasn't a very nice place. Mr. Sharpe had some more drinks. The second time he danced with Avis she left him in the middle of the floor.

Lulu and Mr. Holden were just sitting down at their table after their dance.

"He's no good. I'm going home," Avis said, her cheeks burning with anger.

"For Pete's sake, don't be a wet smack. Avis, and spoil everything."

Mr. Sharpe came up unsteadily.

"What's the idea, girlie?" he said.

She hurried out. Sharpe followed her.

He put an arm about her.

"Pretty slick girlie, what? We'll sneak away and go places."

Avis broke away. Sharpe made a dash for her and a young man stepped in between them.

"Friends of yours?" he asked.

She shook her head. "Keep him away," she whispered.

The young man was bareheaded and wore overalls. There were dark smudges on his face and his hands were very much soiled.

Lulu and Mr. Holden came out just then.

Mr. Sharpe proceeded to use vile language and the young man grabbed him and ran him out of the entrance. He turned and came back to Avis.

"She's a little fool!" Holden was saying to Lulu. Avis didn't know whether to laugh or cry. The young man said: "I'll walk over to the subway with you, miss."

Avis went out with him, just as he was, hatless in overalls and very grimy.

"For Pete's sake," gasped Lulu to Holden, "she certainly is a fool."

When Lulu got back around midnight Avis was still awake.

"Nice gentlemen friends you pick out!" Avis was still bitter.

"I can always take care of myself—as could you if you wasn't so dumb, Avis. That Mr. Sharpe is all right, got lots of money and everything."

Nice Young Man

Avis told her what she thought of him.

"That dirty day laborer lad you let take you home is no prize. Honest, sometimes, Avis, I think you are just hopeless. Who was that cheap skate all dirt and overalls? How did you get to know him?"

"His name is Donaldson," he said. "I never saw him before. He was the nicest young man, though—"

Lulu interrupted her with laughter, derisive and shrill.

"Nice? That dirty looking bum? For Pete's sake, is that the best you can do?"

"He was doing some work in the building and, anyway, he happened to see that I was up against it with that low-down brute your friend brought along for my escort, so he helped me out."

They didn't argue any more. They had to sleep because there was another of those seemingly endless days at the big store.

It was three days later that Avis told Lulu she had to meet a friend. When she came back around midnight and Lulu asked her all about it, she said: "I went to a picture with Mr. Donaldson, and then we had some eats and came up on a bus."

Lulu looked at her friend with concern.

Much in Love

When Charlie Mason of the rugs at the big Bemis store fell hard for Avis she wasn't interested. Once more Lulu gave her a talking to.

For Pete's sake get some sense, Avis. He's a grand boy, friends on in level and pulls down a good salary up in the rugs. He's crazy about you, gosh, I'd marry him in a minute."

Avis shook her head.

That night she went out with Mr. Donaldson again. Mr. Donaldson did not come to the girl's rooming place because there was no parlor and Avis wouldn't have him come up because she was afraid Lulu might make some smart cracks to his face.

Avis was very much in love.

Lulu told Avis to her face that night when she got back that she was a little fool that she was probably making the poor sap spend more than he earned on her and furthermore that she Lulu, intended to marry Charlie Mason herself!

That's nice," Avis agreed.

Lulu wasn't at all fussed over the fact that Charlie Mason had once told her he was crazy about Avis. Charlie knew now that Avis wasn't interested in him. He also knew from Lulu that she was silly over some cheap janitor or something who wore overalls and got all grimed up every day at work.

When Lulu proudly displayed the engagement ring Charlie had given her, Avis thought of the vaudeville joke about the girl who saw a friend's ring, noted the tiny size of the stone and remarked that her fiance must be a Lilliputian. But Avis was too nice a girl to make any such a break as that to her friend.

Avis took a smaller room alone when Lulu married Charlie Mason and she sent Lulu a set of breakfast dishes for a wedding present.

Lulu didn't intend to quit the store. She and Charlie together could make their salaries go very nicely in their kitchenette apartment.

Avis went up to see them now and then. They were quite happy.

"For Pete's sake, are you still going with that janitor or something like that?" Lulu asked one Sunday when Avis was up to see them.

Lulu felt very superior now that she was married and had her little two-room-and-kitchenette home.

Engaged

Avis admitted that she was still going with the young man.

"You got looks. Don't be so dumb. Don't make a fool of yourself, dearie," Lulu solemnly advised. "You can get yourself a real boy friend—one who dresses swell and keeps clean and you'll be proud of him, as I am of my Charlie."

"Peter suits me," Avis declared.

"Don't tell me his name is Peter!"

Lulu laughed long and heartily.

It was some months later that Avis was up to see Lulu.

"Here's a picture of Peter," she said.

Lulu looked at it.

"Not so bad when he's washed up," she admitted.

Lulu's husband stared at the picture and then at Avis.

"You going to marry him, Avis? Is that the chap?"

Avis admitted it.

"Why, honey," he said to Lulu, "that's Mr. Donaldson. He owns this block here and a lot of others!"

"You're crazy, Charlie!" Lulu cried.

"I'm not. I went to school with him. He owns a dozen blocks."

"That's right. He owned that block where the cabaret was the night I met him. He was examining the heating system, he's an expert in that—and that was why he was all smudged up and wore overalls," Avis explained.

"For Pete's sake!" Lulu cried. "Look!"

Avis showed her engagement ring, a wonder, around four carats.

"For — Pete's — sake!" Lulu gasped.

"Yes," Avis said, "that's why I am wearing it!"

Wharf Plans Are Ready; Now Let Us Have Action

The plans for municipal rail-river terminals submitted to Council by Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang ought to be good, for his department has been working on them for years.

For more than half a century Pittsburgh clamored for the improvement of the Ohio River. "On to Cairo!" was a slogan of the Chamber of Commerce for about as long as the oldest inhabitant can remember.

In 1926, when the completion of the river improvement was seen to be near at hand, Council made generous appropriation for the preparation of terminal plans. What was required was a project for municipal wharves permitting interchange of freight between steamboats and railroad trains and available to the general public. The appropriation was subsequently supplemented. Director Lang and his engineers inspected municipal terminals at down river cities. Exhaustive inquiries were made.

In 1928, when the Ohio Valley Improvement Association met in Pittsburgh to arrange for celebration of the opening of the nine-foot stage, the terminal plans were still incomplete. It was hoped to have them ready for the celebration last October, when a week was devoted to acclaiming the benefits the city was to get from river transportation. But still the plans were not forthcoming. Desired information was lacking, it was said. There were disputed points as yet unsettled.

The purpose of thus briefly reciting the history of the matter is to call attention to the fullness of the opportunity that has been afforded to prepare terminal plans that would be thoroughly adequate.

If there was ever excuse for delay, it can no longer be offered. Since the city has been committed for more than 50 years to the policy of making the utmost use of river transportation, it is to be hoped that Council, having at last been furnished the plans for terminals, will proceed to build and operate them.

Relief From Election Fraud at Last in Sight

The primary election was held nearly a month ago, but the outcome, officially, is still in doubt. Ballots are being recounted, charges of ballot box stuffing are being investigated, and, in Luzerne County, the vote is being contested because the ballots were perforated, by court order, as a measure to prevent fraud. If the Supreme Court should uphold the views of some of the attorneys in the case and throw out the Luzerne County vote, Francis Shunk Brown would be the Republican nominee for Governor, and not Gifford Pinchot, as we now suppose.

All this uncertainty, all this confusion, all this expenditure of time and money, would have been avoided if voting machines had been generally used, instead of paper ballots, in recording the citizens' wishes. In a few districts of Luzerne County voting machines were used, and the vote there is accepted without question.

The situation merely serves to accentuate the gratification that citizens of Allegheny County should feel in the announcement that the County Commissioners have authorized advertising for bids for 1,000 or more voting machines.

What a relief it will be to be freed from the perennial annoyance of election fraud, a species of swindling to which the system of paper ballots seems to lend itself with peculiar facility! What a relief to be freed from the necessity of guarding the boxes for weeks after the election and of painstakingly rechecking the vote!

A thousand voting machines will cost the voters a pretty penny, but, whatever the cost, they will be worth it.

Loss of Defense Liberty May Be Disastrous to Us

Both President Hoover and Secretary Stimson appear determined that the real issue raised by the London naval treaty shall not be clearly understood by the American people.

The real issue which this treaty raises does not turn, as President Hoover would have the public believe, upon the question "whether we shall stop competitive naval building."

For the United States WAS NOT ENGAGED in competitive naval building, and the treaty DOES NOT STOP the other signatory powers from competitive naval building. In fact the so-called "escalator" clause of the treaty PERMITS IT.

The real issue which this treaty raises does not turn, as Secretary Stimson would have the public believe, upon differences of opinion in the American Navy relating merely to 30,000 tons or three ships.

Of course, in the treaty now before the Senate, the question of large guns and ships versus smaller guns and ships is of no small importance.

But of far greater importance is the political point that in accepting the dictation of Great Britain as to the particular kind of cruiser that this country may be permitted to build, the United States is surrendering its independence and subordinating its freedom of choice and action to the dictation and domination of a foreign power.

Not only by so doing does the United States suffer tremendous loss of prestige in the eyes of the world, but it also suffers a loss of liberty in manner and means of national defense which may prove to be disastrous.

In fact the American delegation at London has placed the United States in a position not unlike that occupied by a DEFEATED nation which is told by its conqueror what it may do and what it may not do in the way of national defense.

The humiliation of such a position is obvious. Its danger will be equally obvious before long.

Making It Difficult for Prosperity

"Bugs" Baer Says:

The Age of Chivalry

The situation in Rumania is as complicated as a fishing line in a bramble bush.

Prince Carol of Paris has been made king of that precinct and has taken over the keys of the dusty office.

"Bugs" Baer

This is the way it happened. Queen Marie came rushing down stairs one morning waving an erotic postcard from Paris.

"Hey, Mike," she yelled, "your old man's back."

Then she got on her fast bicycle and started for the frontier.

She ran out of gasoline in Bavaria. When the panic is on a milestone is more important than a filling station.

"You ain't goin, are you Marie?" asked Mike.

"Sure as a pumphandle is iron," said Marie. "I've got the buzzer on Carol too often not to know that Carol is wondering how I would look in a museum. You stay here and make faces at the Army and I will carry the mail."

There hasn't been so much romance since Juliet chinned herself on a balcony. We thought the old days of royalty were gone where the woodbine twineth and the grass is evergreen.

A dowager queen loops for the border, an heir apparent looks at three straight strikes with his bat on his shoulder and a crown prince rushes into the arena with an old faded rain check.

That's real romance, Mike, the kid, loses a good job. All he had to do was to review the Army and there ain't no Navy.

Mike immediately skipped down to the imperial telegraph office and wired Eddie of Wales.

"Dear Eddie," he wired, "you ain't seen nothing. All you ever did was to fall off a hoss. I just fell off a giraffe."

Eddie wired back. "Tough break kid. I'll see you on Long Island during the bottle season."

This means war if Marie can get her men together.

She isn't the kind of woman who is going to look on and let people track up her linoleum.

When George Barr McCutcheon wrote Beverly of Graustark he didn't know that Rumania was going into the moving picture business.

If we were 20 years younger we would feel our Spanish blood coming to a slow boil. We would go to Rumania and fight for Queen Marie and Mike, the kid, until the food ran out.

LOCAL TIME

By Archibald Henderson

It is not necessary to be an expert astronomer in order to tell local time. Astronomers are familiar with many helpful rules of thumb which enable them to arrive, as if by magic at useful results.

Consider, for example, the physical figment known as the sphere of the heavens. The astronomical heaven is a mathematically perfect sphere. The center of this sphere is supposed to be the right eye of the observer. This, of course, is a mere fiction; but by means of it astronomers can determine with extraordinary accuracy the position of any given point in the universe.

The zenith, or topmost point of the heavens, may readily be determined. Pick out a star which appears to be directly above you. Gazing fixedly at the star, turn around slowly. If you have to move your head or your neck to keep the star in view, it is not vertically above you. After a few trials the zenith-point is finally determined with great accuracy.

A little practice, moreover, will enable you to measure any desired number of degrees on the sphere. Hold out your right hand at arm's length and separate your thumb and middle finger until the tip of your thumb covers one star and the tip of the middle finger the other. Keeping your thumb and middle finger rigid, bring your hand near your eyes and estimate this distance in centimeters. Suppose you find it to be about eight centimeters. Now it happens that this corresponds to eight degrees on our astronomical heaven. The simple rule is—one centimeter at arm's length corresponds to one degree of arc.

Now let us take up the question of determining what is known as local time. To all appearances the whole firmament rotates like a rigid sphere about a fixed line. This fixed line is an imaginary line drawn from the true pole of the heavens to our eye, and thence projected on through the earth. New stars are constantly rising in the east and southeast. This is easy to test. Fix your eye on a star in the east just covered by some stationary point, say the top of a lamppost. By the time we have slowly counted ten the star has "risen" into view. As stars rise in the east, they set in the west.

The following experiment is described in the delightful volume "Heaven and Earth," by Oswald Thomas, formerly chief, Urania Observatory, Vienna.

First, pick out the Pole Star, by means of the pointers of the Great Dipper. Now imagine a great circle about the Pole described in the heavens—a stupendous dial which we carry in our mind's eye. This dial is immovable, and is divided into 24 equal parts. At the top of the dial, say 30 degrees above the Pole Star, we may imagine the figure 0. To the left of the Pole, precisely on the line running from the Pole to the west point, we imagine the figure 6; immediately beneath the Pole, the figure 12; to the right of the Pole, the figure 18, and overhead, where we have imagined 0, we must also imagine 24—representing a complete revolution.

The pointer or hour-hand is the line joining the pole with the last star in the capital W of Cassiopeia, known as the colure-star. If the colure-star stands immediately above the Pole Star the astronomers say: "It is 0 (or 24) sidereal time." The rule now to be given holds good for the days near the 21st of the month—say, the latter half of each month. Suppose we read our huge imaginary clock on October 21, and find that it reads 4 o'clock star-time. Now October on the dial stands opposite the figure 22. Add this figure to 4 and we have 26 o'clock, or 2 a. m. local time. As another example, consider that it is August 21. We find the star-time to be, say 20 hours. Now August is opposite the figure 2. Hence we have the result of 20 plus 2 equals 22—or 10 p. m. local time.

∴ LISTEN, WORLD ∴

By Elsie Robinson

Beneath a beautiful painting on the walls of the Congressional Library in Washington, run these words—

"Ancient of Days — August Athena,
Where are thy men of might—
Thy grand in soul?
Gone glimmering through
The dream of things that were!"

Once Athens, lowliest city of the world, was proud and powerful. Her "men of might," her "grand in soul" faced the challenging reality of each day. They did not look back to the things their fathers had done—they were too busy doing things themselves. Each hour brought new problems, new triumphs to August Athena.

Then, gradually, grown too proud, Athens began to rest on her laurels and boast about the Things That Had Been. No longer did her people face the Present. They lived in the past—in that "dream of things that were." That dream was the ruin of Athens. It is the ruin of any city, of any life that is abandoned to it. And it is fearfully easy to abandon one's life to that drugging dream.

There is no glamer in Today. Today is harsh, grim, uncompromising. It looks us straight in the eye. It will stand for no pretense or evasions. It can't be kissed off with sentimental recollections or boasts of past deeds. Today demands that we do our stuff—NOW! We hate that. We want to do things if and when we get around to them—not NOW. We despise the risk and discipline and labor of immediate action. And so we look for an escape, as the ancient Athenians looked for an escape—and find amazing ones.

We escape into Yesterday—into the pride and the pleasure, the romance and adventure, the comfort and safety and laziness of Yesterday. Our bodies still stay in Today, but our minds are off and away—"gone glimmering" to avoid the Present's harsh and pressing challenge.

Sometimes we find still stranger escapes. We turn from the present to dwell on old fears, old feuds, old hurts, old failures. We pretend to hate these bitter memories, but in reality we don't hate them at all. We cherish them fiercely. We refuse to be talked out of them for they are our ESCAPE FROM REALITY. When pressed for action, we can always take refuge in that old grief or grudge or terror.

Andre Tridon, the famous French psychologist, once told of a peculiar practice in which certain types of insane people indulge. These people will sit hunched up, heads bent down, knees drawn up to their chins, arms folded closely about their shins. Often they encase themselves in bags made of sheets. Their sick minds have "gone glimmering" very very far in a frantic effort to escape reality. They have gone so far that their bodies are trying to reproduce the positions they assumed in their mothers wombs. THEY ARE TRYING TO FIND THE SAFETY AND IMMUNITY FROM RESPONSIBILITY WHICH WAS THEIRS THEN.

Pitiful and horrible, isn't it? But no more pitiful than our own evasions and escapes. Every time you duck the pressure of the Present, think of that insane man groping back to prenatal comfort and irresponsibility—for that insane man is you!

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

The best story at Atlantic City is about a Scotchman. They stick to Scotch at Atlantic City, because they're kinda conservative. Well, this Scotchman by the name of McGregor was awful careful about his eating. He never eat breakfast all week, and he had only a cup of coffee for dinner, and ate mighty little. When he was walking up to pay his bill, he learned that the hotel was American plan, and the meals went in with the price of the room. He ran right past everybody and drowned himself in the ocean.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

Thirty years ago we knew literally nothing of the solid facts of heredity. Today there are organisms, like the fruit fly Drosophila, which have been so thoroughly investigated, that the geneticist can take his friends to the microscope, show them this fly's chromosomes—so small as only to show clearly under the highest power—and make such apparently incredible assertions as this:

"You see that rod-shaped choromosome?

"That is the chromosome which determines whether the fly shall be male or female. Close to one end of it, where you see the spindle fibre attached, is situated the hereditary unit which may turn our fly's body yellow instead of gray.

"In one of these other V-shaped chromosomes is situated a unit with the power of reducing wings to vestiges, and about one-twentieth of the chromosome length farther along, a unit which turns the body black. In the other big V live other units with which I do not propose to bore you; and, finally, this tiny dot of a chromosome houses its own few units, of which one prevents the fly from developing eyes at all."

H. G. Wells

And then he will show them on the wall an actual map of Drosophila's chromosomes, on which are marked the position of all of the four hundred and more determining units which have been distinguished in this little animal.

The map, of course, is not enormously reduced in scales like ordinary maps, but enormously magnified. The map which we should take for a walking tour is reduced about 100,000 times; these chromosome maps have to be magnified to about the same extent. Later on we will give this map of the infinitely little.

It is the map of the Geneticist's peculiar Empire.

Drosophila is to him like the Eagle to Jupiter, the symbol of his rule. It makes peculiarly convenient material because it breeds every 10 days, it produces several hundred offspring in each generation, it is so small that the whole of one of the e generations can be successfully reared in a pint milk bottle.

Like the fruits of Paradise it is in season all the year round. Thus a graduate student in the two years allotted for his higher degree can work out a problem covering 70 generations, equal to decades in the selection of rabbits, centuries in the case of cattle and millennia of human production.

SEC. 3. MENDEL'S TWO PRIMARY LAWS OF HEREDITY

The method of Mendel in his studies of the workings of heredity was to hybridize varieties and species of plants and observe the consequences.

That is still the normal experimental method in Genetics. We hybridize—we make crosses between parents which differ in their hereditary constitution—and study the characters of the following generations. For example, we mate a white rabbit with a black one, or a short-horned heifer with a long-horned bull, and see what turns up. Or we work with plants.

We fertilize one plant with pollen from another, taking care, of course, to keep out insects or wind, or any agency which might bring in other pollen and so confuse our experiments.

First, as a very simple and illuminating instance of such results let us consider the garden flower called Mirabilis jalapa, or "Four-o'clock." This exists in numerous varieties, two of which are distinguished by the white and red color of their flowers.

Suppose that we cross a red-flowered plant with one of a white-flowered strain. All the offspring will have pink flowers. If now we inbreed this first hybrid generation, fertilizing them with each other's pollen or their own, we get a second generation showing three distinct types.

There are red-flowered plants precisely like those of the original red strain, white-flowered plants, like the first hybrid generation resulting from the cross.

If the experiments are carried a generation further another striking fact reveals itself.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, June 18.—There is perhaps no event so eagerly anticipated by writers and artists as the Dutch Treat show held each spring. The Dutch Treat roster comprises a notable list of men who have won the acclaim of the world in their especial fields.

Members give the lie to the popular misconception the genus artist is addicted to long hair, erratic clothes and unconventional manners. The club has no club house, but meets every Tuesday noon for luncheon at a midtown hotel, each member paying for his own lunch chit.

The group might easily be taken for a crowd of young bankers or a successful group of industrialists. There is not a Latin Quarter hat, a flowing tie or a velveteen coat in the entire assemblage. Yet all are men who have hurdled artistic jumps.

They have carved classics in marble, blazoned canvases with undying colors, molded words into deathless tomes and composed throbbing music. Yet when they gather weekly they indulge in the same airy persiflage so often associated with Rotarian dinners.

The luncheon is always attended by some distinguished visitor who is the guest of honor and makes a brief speech. Among the many so honored are: Herbert Hoover, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Gene Tunney, Katherine Mayo, Otto Kahn, Count Von Luckner, Max Reinhardt, Jascha Heifetz, Jeritza and so on.

The present president is Clarence Buddington Kelland, the writer. The other four presidents were Tom Mason, James Montgomery Flagg, W. A. Rogers and George B. Mallon. The organization was started in 1906 by Robert S. Yard and Thomas L. Masson, who then edited Life.

From a small beginning it has grown until the waiting list is almost a block long. The annual show is a rousing, ribald affair and is written, produced and acted solely by members. It is one night in the year when the town's brilliant remain up to greet the dawn—with a huzzah of a hiccup.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS.

Maps

Always I have loved them,
Maps of every hue;
Green for Spain and England.
Purple for Peru.

Little have I wandered
On the seas I love;
But the maps bring visions
And my fancies rove.

There is one I cherish
More than all the rest,
With a golden island
On the far sea's breast.

With a golden island,
Nameless, kissed by spray,
Seas all blue around it,
Continents in gray.

Were I free to wander
To that nameless isle
Would it still be golden,
Still my dreams beguile?

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

No matter how low your spirits, don't let the world know it.

There is no place for the one who has lost confidence in himself.

When you permit shoulders to sag, your eyes to droop and lost their brightness, your step to lag, then you are presenting the strongest kind of evidence that you are defeated.

You are announcing your failure to every person with whom you come in contact.

It is human to desire association with successful persons, or at least with those who still have the fire to carry them on and upward.

But even your best friends will begin to draw away from you when you announce by your manner and appearance that you are beaten in life's race.

If your friends are repelled how can you expect others to welcome you?

When you were sailing along on a favorable wave you sought those whom you believed would accompany you.

They may be loyal and true in your misfortune, but you cannot expect them to want to carry you along if you don't show a fighting spirit under difficulties.

Pull yourself together and at least make the appearance of being able to pull to the front again and at the same time make yourself believe that you can.
